BROOKHART OUT; FIELD WINS

PASS GARNER'S TWO BILLIONS "RELIEF" BILL

House Rushes Act to Senate, 216-182.

Senate discards proposed saving of $48,000,000 by revision of laws affecting veterans by vote of 63 to 14. Defeat Hoover's furlough plan of federal pay cuts. Details on page 4.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—A solid Democratic majority aided by a sprinkling of Republicans today crushed the 2 billion 270 million dollar Garner relief bill through the house and sent it to the senate. The vote on the measure stood 216 for and 182 against. A motion to recommit offered by Republican leaders also was defeated by 218 to 183.

The Garner measure, opposed by the administration as a huge pork barrel raid on the treasury, carried 1 billion 170 million dollars for federal public works projects in all sections of the country. It also provided one billion dollars for loans to states and corporations for so-called self-liquidating construction projects and 100 million dollars for direct federal relief for the destitute.

Although the big relief program swept easily through the house, chances of final enactment into law are considered slim. Even the sponsors of the measures do not expect it to be approved either by the senate or the White House. Just before the bill was voted upon, Speaker John Garner [Dem., Tex.], author of the measure and its major exponent, advised a visiting committee of mayors that he did not expect his bill to become law.

Senate May Sidetrack.

The Garner bill will reach the senate tomorrow, where it is expected to be sidetracked pending a decision on the part of senate leaders as to whether to vote on the entire relief program at one time or take it up piecemeal. Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], senate Democratic leader, and Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], author of the two billion three hundred million dollar senate Democratic relief program, agreed today to vote on direct federal relief first and then take up the construction sections of the program later.

Tomorrow Senator Robinson will ask a unanimous consent agreement to take up a 300 million dollar relief bill providing for direct loans to states and cities. Such a measure would make it possible for Illinois to borrow money on its unsold relief bonds and turn it over to Chicago.

Twenty-one G. O. P. Vaulters.

Twenty-one Republicans voted with Democrats in favor of the passage of the bill. Most of them were members of the radical group led by Representative F. H. La Guardia [N. Y.]. In addition to Mr. La Guardia they were as follows: Adkins [Ill.], Amlie [Wis.], Boileau [Wis.], Butler [Ore.], Christgau [Minn.], Crail [Cal.], Garber [Okla.], Horr [Wash.], James [Mich.], Kelly [Pa.], Maas [Minn.], Nelson [Wis.], Nolan [Minn.], Pittenger [Minn.], Schneider [Wis.], Sinclair [N. D.], Swing [Cal.], Taylor [Tenn.], Welch [Cal.], Withrow [Wis.]. Representative Paul Kvale of Minnesota, lone Farmer-Labor member, voted for the bill.

Despite the caucus vote by which the entire Democratic party was reported as bound in support of the bill, ten Democrats bolted the ranks and voted against the measure. They were Representatives Ayres [Kas.], Cannon [Mo.], Jones [Tex.], Lozier [Mo.], Ludlow [Ind.], Morehead [Neb.], Parsons [Ill.], Polk [Ohio], Romjue [Mo.] and Shallenberger [Neb.].

Passage of the bill was foreshadowed early in the session, when the membership voted, 205 to 189, to adopt the ironclad rule introduced by Democratic leaders to govern consideration of the speaker's program on the floor.

Steam Roller Voted.

The vote on the rule, however, served to indicate a split among the Democrats when eight of the majority party bolted their ranks and voted with the Republicans against the

BEGIN PRINTING OF 4 BILLION 3 CENT POSTAGE STAMPS

Washington, D. C., June 7.—(AP)—The bureau of engraving and printing today began printing four billion 3 cent postage stamps in anticipation of the new 3 cent rate, which goes into effect July 1.

The bureau will turn out these new stamps at the rate of 100 million a day until the four billion have been printed.

Three varieties of 3 cent stamps will be included in the first printing, the current 3 cent Lincoln stamp, the 3 cent stamp of the Washington bicentennial series, and a new 3 cent stamp of the same general design as the bicentennial 2 cent series.

In addition the postoffice department is distributing to postmasters one billion 1 cent stamps for use with 2 cent stamps and 2 cent stamped envelopes now on hand.

YOUTH SEIZED WHILE LOOTING EVANSTON HOUSE

Raymond Brunell, 26 years old, of 555 Surf street, was arrested late last night while looting the home of O. H. Moulton, a driver, at 1303 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, a block from the home of Chief William O. Freeman.

Earlier Brunell rang the door bell of the residence at 1245 Elmwood avenue, two doors from the Freeman home at 1241 Elmwood. When the occupants answered he said he was a telephone repair man and left. Next he entered the Moulton apartment.

The Moultons were in the basement at the time. They returned upstairs to see Brunell piling clothing on a chair. A telephone call brought a police squad. Brunell was still piling up loot when he was seized.

Cut Fines for the Mildly Tipsy, Evanston Chief Asks

The man who becomes mildly inebriated in Evanston is going to get a break, if the Evanston city council heeds a recommendation made last night by Chief of Police William O. Freeman. In a letter to the council the chief asked a revision in the present penalties for drunkenness. The man who is only half drunk should be given consideration in the matter of fines, he said. The present scale provides a minimum fine of $100 for intoxication. The chief suggests $25 as the minimum.

Paschen's Tax Case Placed in Hands of Jury

Chris Paschen's income tax case was placed in the hands of a jury by Federal Judge John P. Barnes last night. The jurors filed out of the courtroom to begin their deliberations at 10:18 p. m. and Judge Barnes then recessed court until 10 a. m. today, instructing deputy marshals that if a verdict is reached before then it should not be sealed but should be returned in open court this morning with the jury present.

CHRIS PASCHEN.

Accused of evading payment of $114,000 in income taxes in 1927 and 1928, Paschen, building commissioner under the former city administration, faces a maximum sentence of ten years in prison and a $20,000 fine if he is found guilty. He has put up a desperate defense against the tax evasion charge—a defense which lasted longer than any other in the recent trials of hoodlums and politicians for the same offense. The trial began five weeks ago Monday.

Green Closes for U. S.

Instructions from the court, delivered just before the jury retired, completed a day of final arguments in the trial. Prison for Paschen was demanded in the closing statement of Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who described the defense evidence as "reeking with fraud."

Green waved aside as a "smoke screen" the defense contention that Paschen had deductible expenditures to match his income during the two years, and accused Paschen of evolving a definite plan to defeat and evade his taxes.

"Revenue is the basis of government," said Green. "If men can cheat, swindle and defraud the government, it will crumble. I ask you, the jury, to find this defendant guilty."

Clawson Makes Argument.

Earlier in the day Prosecutor Sam Clawson had gone through the case point by point, tying together the threads of evidence and asserting that Paschen concealed his actual income of more than $1,200,000 in 1927 and 1928.

Four major points in the prosecution's case were outlined by Clawson as follows: Paschen failed to make a return on interest on bonds and securities during 1927 amounting to $11,159; Paschen failed to declare a $40,000 profit on the sale of Union Carbon and Carbide stock in 1927; Paschen failed to note profits on city contracts in 1928, totaling $143,149; and also failed to report a net total of $370,541 in the "A. B. Anderson" bank account which he kept in the Foreman National bank during both years.

Plea of the Defense.

Defense Attorney Cassius Poust in his argument said:

"I believe the evidence shows Paschen innocent and the government has failed to tear down the presumption of innocence. It has not shown income reaching him which could be collected in a civil suit, let alone a criminal hearing. He was a successful business man once—although he may be a pauper now—and if he hadn't made the mistake of going into politics he would still be successful."

Paschen borrowed money; he collected political campaign contributions which were not his and did not stay in his possession, and he spent large sums of his own money furthering the interests of a former Republican mayor, Poust declared.

Cop Loses a Thief Race and Also His Motorcycle

Motorcycle Policeman Charles Cayer pursued three youths in a stolen car through south side streets last night, and when they abandoned the auto in an alley at the rear of 1910 West 47th street and fled on foot he parked his motorcycle alongside the car and continued the chase on foot. The trio escaped and Policeman Cayer walked back to the abandoned auto and his motorcycle. The car was still there. His motorcycle was gone.

INSULL QUITS RAIL LINES AND 52 OTHER POSTS

Expected to Sail for Europe Soon.

Samuel Insull wrote out his resignations yesterday from the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines, the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad, and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad.

In addition to preparing and signing these resignations Mr. Insull also signed resignations to fifty-two other corporations in which he has been either an officer or director or both. Thus he has severed his connection with the whole family of corporations with which he was associated and many of which he helped to build.

It has been reported from persons close to Mr. Insull that he will sail, with Mrs. Insull, in the near future, for Europe. He has a residence in Reading, England, on the Thames, but it is reported that he probably will take a prolonged rest in Paris.

Debts Over $15,000,000.

It is the statement of a financier concerned with the Insull interests "that $15,000,000 will not cover his debts." All of his holdings in the four Chicago controlled electric lines, elevated and suburban, have been lost together with his other assets in the securities corporations directed by him.

A report was current that Mr. Insull will have left only a possible pension of $18,000, being $6,000 each from the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, the Commonwealth Edison company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

Out of Directorships.

Mr. Insull resigned Monday from the directorate of these three companies with which he had been identified through a long period of upbuilding and prosperity and which are still regarded as sound properties with great potential earning power. This, it is expected, the audit will show.

At the same time he announced his withdrawal as one of the three receivers of the giant Middle West Utilities company. This withdrawal was accepted yesterday by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, who vested all the power of the receivership in the two others appointed with Mr. Insull to handle the affairs of the company. They are Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch.

At present, it was indicated, no one will be appointed to fill the receivership vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Insull. Rumors that former Vice President Charles Gates Dawes, in leaving the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was slated to take over this job were denied emphatically.

Audit Under Court Supervision.

Judge Lindley said yesterday that a complete audit of the affairs of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was being made under the supervision of the court and that every transaction of the concern, which for some time has been in receivership, would be closely scrutinized.

This statement from the court was made in answer to the assertion of an attorney, S. G. Lee, seeking to intervene in the Insull Utility proceedings. Mr. Lee had asserted the receivers had made no progress in recovering assets for security holders.

"I want you to understand," said the judge, "that this court will not tolerate receivers who do not do their duty. I also want you to understand that this court has taken steps, together with the receivers, to make a complete audit of all the assets, transactions, transfers, and money payments of the company for the last two years.

Promises Receivers Will Act.

"If there is any personal liability on the part of officers or directors, the receivers will take steps to institute proper suit. However, it is one thing to discover personal liability and another to recover the assets. I have frequently interviewed the receivers as to whether it would prove embarrassing to them to bring action against any persons connected with the management. They have satisfied me they are entirely independent."

Mr. Insull did not appear in court to present his resignation as a receiver of Middle West. He was represented by Attorney Bruce Johnstone. Judge Lindley will pass on several petitions of stockholders seeking to intervene in the Middle West litigation on June 22.

Another audit, it was made known yesterday, is being made of the finan-

Iowa Senator Loses Primary; His Rule Ended

Watched Pot Boiling

NORTH CAROLINA—R. R. Reynolds, advocate of prohibition repeal, continues to pile up lead over Senator Cameron Morrison, long time dry advocate, in senatorial primary.

INDIANA—Republican leaders indorse prohibition resubmission plank; up to state convention today.

WISCONSIN—The regular Republican state convention adopted a platform attacking the La Follette administration's alleged orgy of expense. It failed to mention the prohibition problem.

Des Moines, Ia., June 7.—[Special.]—Henry Field, 61 year old seed merchant of Shenandoah, appeared late today to have given Senator Smith W. Brookhart a decisive beating in the race for the Republican senatorial nomination. With 95 per cent of the returns in, Field had a lead of 46,000.

In the 2,293 of the state's 2,495 precincts reporting Field had polled 183,765 votes to Brookhart's 137,386. Four other candidates were trailing, Haynes with 40,261; Casson, 25,956; Cook, 11,879; Elkelberg, 8,445.

Field's Vote 45 Per Cent.

Field's vote was about 45 per cent of the total cast and Brookhart's about 33 per cent. There seemed no likelihood that the Iowa primary law, which requires a candidate to have a plurality and at least 35 per cent of the total, would force the nomination into convention.

Politicians called attention to the fact that since the earliest returns came in Field has received in nearly all sections a close approximation of four votes to every three cast for the senator who has won great notoriety as a foe of the railroads, Wall street, and big business. Brookhart's defeat will take from the senate one of the leaders of the radicals.

Record Vote Likely.

The 142 precincts yet to report are likely to send the total Republican vote to a new high record. The present record of 422,333 ballots was set in 1926, when Brookhart defeated Cummins. Yesterday's total of G. O. P. votes so far reported is 407,692.

In his Shenandoah home this afternoon Field, who is a radio station operator as well as a seed salesman, donned a red necktie and declared that the primary had been an "outstanding demonstration of the value of friendship."

"I've been going along for a lot of years, just making friends without a thought that they would ever be valuable to me," he said. "Now they've made me the happiest man in the world. I don't kid myself. I didn't win this race—my friends won it for me."

Senator Brookhart made no comment on his defeat, refusing to be interviewed. He left his home in Washington, Ia., tonight to resume his senate seat in Washington, D. C.

Candidate Has Eleven Children.

The apparently nominated aspirant has eleven children, seven of them adults. Last night he made a telephone call to each of seven who have left the parental roof, informing them that he seemed to be the winner.

He has already pledged himself not to take any of his kinfolk to Washington and fasten them on federal pay rolls. One of his principal points against Brookhart was that the latter has kept a number of Brookharts on the federal pay roll.

"I'll be the only Field in Washington," was the seed man's promise.

Gov. Turner Renominated.

Gov. Dan Turner was far in the lead in the G. O. P. race for governor. When 2,020 precincts were reported he was leading his nearest rival 8 to 1.

In the Democratic primary contest for senator, Louis Murphy, nationally known tax expert, wartime collector of internal revenue, and the wettest of the eleven candidates of both parties, was leading his nearest opponent, former Senator Daniel Steck, by almost 2 to 1. In 1,898 precincts Murphy polled 47,385 votes and Steck 26,583.

The choice of a Democratic nominee for governor was uncertain, though Clyde Herring, former national committeeman, had a fairly safe lead.

Haugen Apparent Victor.

In the Fourth congressional district Representative Gilbert N. Haugen apparently won by a close margin from C. A. Benson in the Republican primary.

Other Republicans apparently chosen were Representative W. F. Kopp, First district; Representative T. J. B. Robinson, Third; Representative Lloyd Thurston, Fifth; Representative C. C. Dowell, Sixth; Representative Fred C. Gilchrist, Eighth; Representative Charles E. Swanson, Seventh; Representative Ed H. Campbell, Ninth.

Iowa's house representation is cut from 11 to 9 members in accordance with the new census.

HOOVER FORCES PLEASED BY WET PLANK REACTION

Prophesy Adoption at Convention.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—While the breach between the Smith-Raskob and Roosevelt factions of the Democratic party was widening over the selection of the permanent chairman of the national convention, Republican leaders progressed further toward an accord on the prohibition plank of their platform.

That the resubmission plank framed by fifteen Republican leaders is acceptable to President Hoover was indicated following a conference Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, had with him this noon. When they emerged from the White House both Mr. Brown and Mr. Burke said that in their opinion a plank of the general character of the tentative declaration will be adopted at Chicago. This plank commits the party to the submission to the people of the question of retaining, modifying or repealing the 18th amendment.

Brown Praises Plank.

"This plank is fundamentally sound," said Mr. Brown, "because it is based on the fundamental right of the people to decide whether any part of the constitution is to be changed."

The President has been veering for some time in the direction of a declaration casting doubt on the wisdom of what four years ago he termed an "experiment noble in purpose." What he had in mind was described by one who talked with him a fortnight ago as a "tepid resubmission plank."

Almost immediately Mr. Brown, who is the President's chief political adviser, became active in procuring an agreement of Republican leaders on a resubmission plank.

While the President has thus been giving aid and comfort to the wets the White House secretariat has been representing him as still dry at heart and opposed to any deviation from the principle of the 18th amendment. These tactics are reminiscent of 1928 when Mr. Hoover went dry in his acceptance speech but inspired a private statement to newspaper correspondents that he was not nearly so dry as he seemed.

See Hoover Leaning to Repeal.

Those who are convinced that Mr. Hoover lacks convictions on anything, including prohibition, are predicting that his opportunism will eventually carry him still farther in the direction of outright repeal of the 18th amendment as the tide of popular reaction against the noble experiment rises higher and higher.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] said today that his reward offer still stands for any evidence that Mr. Hoover ever has indorsed prohibition. Mr. Glass rejects such evidence as Mr. Hoover's statement in his acceptance speech that he opposes repeal of the 18th amendment.

There was a feeling among Republican leaders today that the Rockefeller declaration for repeal will give impetus to the demand for a plank committing the party to the wiping of the 18th amendment from the constitution. It is expected that a determined fight for such a plank will be made before the resolutions committee at Chicago on behalf of those sharing the views of Mr. Rockefeller and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. In fact, it is expected that Dr. Butler himself will appear to urge this course.

Borah Gives Up Hope.

The decision of Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho] to absent himself from the convention is now being ascribed to his realization that the wets will be in control and that he would find himself in a hopeless minority.

It appears that Mr. Borah recently took occasion to inquire of a Republican leader whether enough votes had been lined up to put over a wet plank. He was assured there was a majority of the resolutions committee in favor of a resubmission plank and was given the figures. His announcement that he would not attend the convention followed. It is surmised that Mr. Borah had no stomach for leading a forlorn fight for a minority report from the resolutions committee proposing a dry plank.

As to Brookhart's Defeat.

The defeat of Senator Smith W. Brookhart [radical Rep.] in the Iowa primary yesterday caused much comment over the election casualties among the fanatical drys. Only the day before Senator Cameron Morrison [Dem.], who is as hard shelled a prohibitionist as Brookhart, ran second to an advocate of repeal in the North Carolina primary. One heard the frequent remark that it appears to be a bad year for dry candidates.

Several Factors in Defeat.

In the case of Brookhart, however, his dryness was only one of the factors in his defeat. The general opinion is that he was repudiated chiefly because of his radicalism or because his radical supporters have gone over into the Democratic party this year in Iowa as the radicals did in the Wisconsin primary, leaving the La Follettes in the minority on the Republican side. These former Republican voters who are pouring into the Democratic ranks in the west are largely in favor of the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose appeal to radical support was denounced by Al Smith as demagogic.

Richard F. Mitchell, Democratic national committeeman for Iowa, notified Democratic headquarters today that 150,000 votes were cast in the Democratic primary in that state yesterday, compared with a previous normal Democratic vote of 40,000. The Republican primary total, he said, was "many thousands below their normal." However, the Republican primary vote reached the record total of nearly 435,000.

Democrats Gain Elsewhere.

In North Dakota registered Democrats have increased from 13,000 to 80,000 and in Wisconsin the Democratic increase was 75,000. In Illinois the Republican vote fell off 350,000 and the Democratic went up 500,000. In California the Republican registration dropped 238,000 and the Democratic increased 389,000.

The determination of the Roosevelt managers to reject Jouett Shouse for permanent chairman of the Democratic convention and elect Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Mont.] is being widely construed as an evidence of weakness of their cause. If, it is argued, Roosevelt is as confident of nomination on the first or second ballot as his managers pretend he surely would not go out of his way to antagonize the Smith-Raskob-Shouse faction of the party. It is such reasoning that results in the conclusion that the Roosevelt managers are afraid Shouse, as permanent chairman, might be able to hamper their project or abolish the two-thirds rule for nominations in the event that a deadlock develops.

Roosevelt Ordered Change.

According to current gossip the move to shelve Shouse emanated from Gov. Roosevelt himself, who was angered by reports that Shouse, following the California primary, exulted that "we now have Roosevelt licked." Mr. Shouse denies this report and asserts he has not taken sides in the nomination fight.

Another version is that the Roosevelt group heard that Shouse's speech on taking the gavel as permanent chairman would run counter to the governor's views and interests. Shouse refused to submit his speech to censorship.

SIX WET GROUPS FORM UNITED REPEAL COUNCIL

Seek Anti-Dry Planks for Both Major Parties.

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—What appeared to be the most powerful drive against prohibition yet launched developed today following the publication of the letter of John D. Rockefeller Jr., advocating repeal of the 18th amendment.

Encouraged by the shift of Mr. Rockefeller, leaders of six national anti-prohibition organizations met and formed the united repeal council with the purpose of placing planks in both the Republican and Democratic platforms calling for repeal of prohibition.

Pierre S. Du Pont was elected chairman of the council, which was represented as speaking for more than 2,500,000 persons organized to take the 18th amendment out of the constitution.

Hundreds Praise Rockefeller.

The organizations represented at the meeting gave their approval to the proposal of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and indorsed by Mr. Rockefeller calling upon congress to submit a repeal resolution to the several states for their ratification by conventions of the people, in accordance with article V. of the constitution of the United States. A resolution adopted at the meeting of the six anti-prohibition organizations did not mention the Butler proposal specifically but clearly embodied its provisions.

Hundreds of telegrams congratulating Mr. Rockefeller upon what was characterized as his courageous stand in revising his views on the prohibition question and advocating repeal were received at the Rockefeller home in Tarrytown.

Drys Are Disappointed.

While dry organizations and spokesmen, frankly disappointed at the support of the wet cause proclaimed by Mr. Rockefeller, sought to minimize the importance of his move, wet advocates hailed the adherence of Mr. Rockefeller to the anti-prohibition forces as a development of momentous significance.

The organizations that formed the United Repeal council were the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, represented by Mr. du Pont, Capt. William H. Stayton of Baltimore, and Henry H. Curran; the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, represented by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin and Mrs. Cortlandt Nicoll; the Crusaders, represented by Enos Curtin and George E. Dickie; the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers, represented by Henry Alan Johnston and William W. Montgomery of Philadelphia; the American Hotel association, represented by Frank A. K. Boland and C. B. Ryan Jr., and the Republican Citizens' committee, represented by Raymond Pitcairn and Randolph W. Childs, both of Philadelphia.

The meeting itself started before noon and lasted well into the afternoon. At its adjournment the text of the resolution which was adopted was made public. It indicated clearly that the council expects to bring every pressure to bear on the major political parties to act definitely for repeal. There was no official mention of the announcement made by Mr. Rockefeller for repeal, but several of the members expressed themselves individually as delighted.

Edge Urges Dry Relief Plank.

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—Walter E. Edge, United States ambassador to France, arrived today on the Paris of the French line to attend the Republican national convention in Chicago as a delegate at large from New Jersey. The ambassador said: "With the renomination of the President assured my main interest in Chicago will be to help obtain a practical prohibition relief plank in the platform and an economy declaration that is specific and concrete. Times and conditions demand the pledges be conclusive and positive."

SPECULATE ON FUTURE POST OF POLICE LAWYER

Whether William H. Luthardt, police department attorney, will be employed by the city after the budget is passed was the subject of speculation yesterday in the city hall. The attorney recently aroused the ire of Municipal Judge Green when he failed to appear in court in the James Belcastro vagrancy case.

Luthardt's position in the 1931 budget of "assistant corporation counsel detailed to the police department" has been replaced in the 1932 budget by the job of "chief investigator." But the budget makers yesterday professed ignorance as to what Luthardt's status will be when the budget is passed June 15.

In reply to questions Mayor Cermak said: "If Luthardt has a position in the new budget it will be in the corporation counsel's office and not in the police department. Neither Corporation Counsel Sexton nor Police Commissioner Allman appeared to know what Luthardt's job would be.

Luthardt's record includes an indictment with former Police Chief Charles C. Healey, whose secretary he was, for alleged conspiracy in gambling machine operations. He was reinstated and later ousted by Police Chief Garrity, but was again returned to the department. He was given his present position in 1930 under the previous city hall administration.

CERMAK ADVISES U. S. TO MOP UP CAPITAL FIRST

"Since the government has announced several times in the past that its agents have mopped up Chicago," said Mayor Cermak yesterday, "I presume that all the prohibition agents will have to do to assure themselves that the national conventions will be dry is to see that the delegates bring no liquor into the city.

"Perhaps Amos Woodcock and other enforcement leaders mean to search the delegates as they step off their trains. They should start their drive in Washington, because much liquor will be brought here by senators, congressmen and others who come from the capital. They put the law on the books and spend millions of dollars to enforce it, so why should the city spend money for the same thing. The police will center their attention on criminals, not dry violators."

Regarding the announcement of John D. Rockefeller Jr., favoring prohibition repeal, the mayor said:

"A wise man will change his mind, but a fool never does. Mr. Rockefeller is recognized as a very wise man."

JOHN D. JR.'S WET STAND SHOCK TO W.C.T.U. LEADERS

"We Could Have Cried," Says Speaker.

The desertion of John D. Rockefeller Jr. from the prohibition ranks sent Chicago dry groups scurrying for a plausible explanation yesterday.

The Cook County W. C. T. U. at its regular monthly meeting in the Garrick building refrained from discussing in open session Mr. Rockefeller's wet alignment. However, in the executive committee meeting, it was learned, Miss Epha Marshall, corresponding secretary of the Illinois W. C. T. U. declared: "Many women could have cried when they opened the paper this morning."

Tries to Explain Change.

W. C. MacNaul, representing the local group of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, was a speaker at the open session and sought to explain why Mr. Rockefeller had changed his mind on prohibition.

"When I read Mr. Rockefeller's announcement I was first astounded, then dumfounded," Mr. MacNaul began. "Then the gray matter began to work and I realized a few things. One is this: Mr. Rockefeller has been subjected to a gas attack behind the smoke screen that has overcome so many of our citizens.

"In his letter to Nicholas 'Miraculous' Butler [here the W. C. T. U. members applauded as the speaker stressed the middle nickname], Mr. Rockefeller denied that he had contributed from fifteen to thirty millions to the Anti-Saloon league, declaring that his total gifts had been only $350,000.

"Mr. Rockefeller accepts certain statements on knowledge of prohibition. I am here to assert that there is as much fiction in the statements that Mr. Rockefeller accepts as in the statements he denied."

Plan Stadium Campaign.

Despite the dry reverses, the W. C. T. U. made plans to campaign for prohibition in the vicinity of the Chicago Stadium during the conventions. Mrs. Harrison Cade, chairman of the Illinois Committee for Law Enforcement, an organization of dry groups, told of the plan to distribute dry literature from offices at 1748 West Madison street, adjoining the Stadium. A three day "prohibition convention" beginning June 10 at the Third Presbyterian church, Madison street and Ashland avenue, with a series of prohibition conferences and forums, is another feature of the campaign.

While these plans were being announced, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, co-chairman of the Illinois division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, said that a letter had been sent to each Illinois delegate and alternate to the Republican convention asking them to support repeal of the 18th amendment.

Abide by Convention.

"The Illinois division," the letter said in part, "appeals to you to declare for the 18th amendment in accordance with the plank adopted by the Republican state convention in Springfield this year. We trust you will not put the Republican party in the position of refusing the people a vote on the question of the 18th amendment."

ROOSEVELT PRAISES ROCKEFELLER STAND AS HELP TO WET CAUSE

Albany, N. Y., June 7.—(AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight praised John D. Rockefeller Jr. for urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The governor, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, said:

"I am very glad to read the statement by John D. Rockefeller Jr. It will be of real help in getting action at the next session of congress so that in every state there can be a vote on the eighteenth amendment."

Mr. Roosevelt's opposition to the eighteenth amendment is based in part, at least, on the same grounds as Mr. Rockefeller's—the belief that it does not prohibit, does not make for temperance.

Mrs. Hutton Home; Shows Effects of Recent Illness

Los Angeles, Cal., June 7.—[Special.]—The Rev. Aimee McPherson Hutton and her husband and business manager, Dave Hutton, fled to an automobile through a lane of followers who shielded them from photographers on their return today from New Orleans. The evangelist, who had been preceded by reports of illness in Guatemala and New Orleans, looked wan and dispirited.

FAIR'S REPLICA OF WIGWAM TO BE DEDICATED

Dedication of the World's Fair replica of the Wigwam, the Chicago building in which Abraham Lincoln was nominated for President 72 years ago, will take place on Saturday afternoon. Delegates and guests who will be in the city for the Republican national convention have been invited to attend.

Judge Henry Horner, Democratic nominee for governor, a collector of Lincoln relics and documents, will speak. Besides the Wigwam the exposition will have replicas of Lincoln's log cabin birthplace, his boyhood home, and the Lincoln-Berry grocery store at New Salem, Ill.

World's Fair officials announced that Mrs. Hazel Hendry of Port Elgin, Ont., had found in her orchard a toy balloon which was one of 500 that was released from the hall of science in the annual south park balloon race. The balloon had been sent away by Grace Kaplan, 10 years old, 5350 South Artesian avenue.

G. O. P. ARRIVALS REPORT RISING TIDE FOR REPEAL

See Resubmission Sure to Win in Convention.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican leaders drifting into Chicago yesterday as advance guard of the national convention opening June 14 held that the rising tide against prohibition will float in a plank calling for the submission by congress of repeal of the 18th amendment to the states for ratification in popularly elected conventions.

PATRICK SULLIVAN
[Moffett Photo.]

The defeat of Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, an uncompromising dry, in Iowa, the defeat in North Carolina of Senator Cameron Morrison, hard shell dry apostle, by Robert B. Reynolds, a repealist, and the letter of John D. Rockefeller Jr., former financial angel of the Anti-Saloon league, to Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, calling for repeal of the 18th amendment and the return of liquor control to the states—all in the one day's news were the great topics among the gathering politicians.

Strawn for Repeal Plank.

Another development in the dry repeal movement was the statement of Attorney Silas Strawn, friend of President Hoover and past president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Strawn said he felt sure that the President would approve a resubmission plank.

"This country is numerically wet," Mr. Strawn said, "and no candidate for the presidency can be elected on a platform that does not give the people an opportunity to repeal the 18th amendment. Mr. Rockefeller's about face from an advocate of prohibition to a champion of repeal will serve to stimulate organized opposition to the persistently intolerant drys."

Among the arriving Republican leaders the general view was also that the signs indicate almost certain adoption of a resubmission plank aimed at getting the question to action in the states in 1933. The big battle on the floor of the convention is expected to be over the degree of wetness and whether the party shall ask specifically for submission of a repeal amendment.

Wyoming for Wet Plank.

One of the incoming national committeemen was Patrick Sullivan of Wyoming, who predicts both parties will have resubmission planks.

"Prohibition is unenforceable and the people are opposed to it," he said. "Ninety per cent are opposed to it, but are afraid to say so for fear some political party will gain an advantage.

"The Wyoming delegation will favor a plank for a referendum, and I predict Wyoming will vote for a change when the question is submitted."

For weeks some of the Republican old timers have been predicting that the Republican national platform will contain a wetter plank than the Democratic. In 1928 the Democrats had a dry plank and a wet candidate.

Other Republican committeemen who arrived during the day included Earle S. Kinsley of Vermont, Frederick S. Peck of Rhode Island, and James P. Winnie of Hawaii. The national committee is to meet tomorrow to get ready for the convention.

The overthrow of Senator Brookhart was regarded with manifest satisfaction among the liberals.

For the Crusaders, Col. Ira L. Reeves, western director, said:

"The defeat of Senator Brookhart of Iowa was one of the outstanding victories of recent elections. While the wet and dry question was not an issue in the senatorial fight, at the same time all those favoring the liberal side realized that any one, regardless of his indorsements by the Anti-Saloon league or any of the other so-called reform organizations, was preferable to Brookhart.

"The defeat by Reynolds of Senator Morrison in North Carolina is very much the same kind of a victory except that there the fight was more on the wet and dry issue. Morrison is also one of the dry die hards."

Warned Against Straddle.

Illinois delegates who are instructed to fight for a national plank calling for submission of repeal of the 18th amendment and for a supplemental declaration that meanwhile the Volstead act should be modified and liberalized have received letters from Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, warning the party against a straddle. The letter urges the delegates to be on guard against any "crafty schemes for delay" presented in some of the compromise proposals.

The Curran letter presented a "further consideration" in that fully 15,000,000 of today's voters have come of age since adoption of the 18th amendment and have never had a voice on it directly or indirectly.

Battle in Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 7.—(AP)—A lively fight over prohibition in the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican national convention at Chicago, seems certain tonight, party leaders asserted following a new challenge from Joseph N. Mackrell to foes of his repeal proposal.

Mackrell, register of wills in Allegheny county and manager of United States Senator James A. Davis' primary campaign, asserted that "any proposal to include a resubmission plank in the Republican platform without carrying a repeal and modification clause will be fought to the end. The party cannot afford to evade the question."

Mills Gets Resolution Post.

New York, June 7.—(AP)—The Times says Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills has been agreed upon as the New York member of the committee on resolutions of the Republican national convention.

FAMILIAR SCENE TAKES ON NEW BEAUTY

LOCKSMITH SEEKS TWO MILLION IN GOLD AT BOTTOM OF OCEAN

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—A master locksmith embarked for Europe today on an adventure that may take him to the bottom of the sea to release treasure buried beneath the waves, since the ship containing it was sunk during the world war.

To the romance of participating in salvaging this sunken treasure—some $2,000,000 in gold—there was added the spice of mystery that brought an added thrill.

For when Charles Courtney, the master locksmith and president of the American Master Locksmiths' association, sailed on the liner Bremen today he did not know at what port in Europe he would land. The salvaging concern that engaged him gave instructions that he was to have his passport vised to permit him to land in England, France, or Germany. He was told an agent would meet him at Southampton, Cherbourg, or Bremen to give him further orders.

EVANSTON CAR JUMPS TRACKS; EIGHT INJURED

Eight passengers were injured last evening when a north bound Evanston street car left the rails in Chicago avenue, Evanston, and struck a support beneath a viaduct of the North Shore line.

The front trucks of the car left the track as it swung slowly around a curve to enter the viaduct a block and a half north of Howard street. Motorman Reauford Young leaped aside as the front of the car crashed into the viaduct support. The car windows were shattered and most of the injuries were due to broken glass, but none of the eight on the casualty list was seriously hurt. One was able to go directly home and six others departed after receiving medical aid at St. Francis hospital. The eighth, Mrs. H. L. Small, 801 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, whose neck was injured, remained at the hospital.

Those injured beside Mrs. Small were Nick Kalmas of 602 Ridge avenue, Wilmette; Miss Esther Grantham, 701 North Michigan avenue, Chicago; Mrs. Richard Gloede, 1405 Central street; Mrs. A. E. Bacoue, 2770 Prairie avenue; O. E. Linquist, 2310 Hastings avenue; Alice Beeson, 1405 Central street, and Irene Ruddersdorf, 840 Lincoln street, all of Evanston.

THIRD OF PUBLIC SEATS AT G. O. P. CONVENTION SOLD

Crew of Workers Installs Platform and Seats.

More than one-third of the balcony and mezzanine floor seats available to the public for the Republican national convention in the Chicago Stadium have been sold, the Chicago citizens' committee at 208 South La Salle street announced yesterday.

The sale of season tickets at $17 and $22 was announced a week ago, but with the announcement that daily seats were to be sold the tickets began to move at a pace indicating a sellout before the end of the week. The daily seats are priced at $3 for the mezzanine floor, $4.40 for the first balcony, and $3.40 for the second balcony.

The huge Stadium resounded yesterday with the noise of saws and hammers and steel beams falling into place as more than 200 men began the job of setting up the platform, press stand, loud speakers and seats, and decorating the walls and ceiling with flags and bunting.

Platform Is Set Up.

The steel work of the seven foot platform was set up and the floor boards laid by mid-afternoon, and work was begun on the press stand, which will have 726 seats. The platform structure will be walled and several small offices formed within for the sergeant at arms and other convention attachés. It is on the south side and slopes back from the narrow speaker's runway to the 90 foot rear section.

By tomorrow night the decorations will be complete and all the seats in place, officials of the Stadium said. Another 100 or more men will be put to work today.

Twenty-two aluminum loud speakers, five feet long, were on the floor waiting to be installed around the galleries at points which will make every word from the speakers' stand audible to the remotest spectators. On cluster of them will be placed under the fight clock on the south side, back of the platform. The radio announcers will report on the progress of the convention from the organ stand on the east wall.

Present at Many Conventions.

One of the many visitors to the Stadium yesterday was James D. Preston, who for 35 years was in charge of the senate press gallery at Washington. Mr. Preston, who hasn't missed a national convention since 1896, looked over the Stadium and said: "This is the first convention hall I ever saw that looked as if it would accommodate everybody wanting to get in."

During the convention William J. Collins, who succeeded Mr. Preston in the senate press gallery last fall, and William J. Donaldson of the house press gallery, will be here.

35 DETECTIVES TO GUARD CROWDS AT CONVENTIONS

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker appointed thirty-five detectives as a special detail last night to protect delegates and visitors to the two national conventions against pickpockets and confidence men.

The detectives were selected for their knowledge of penny matching artists and pickpockets. Twelve of the detectives will mingle with the crowds in the Stadium, and a like number will watch the hall entrances. The remaining eleven will circulate in hotel lobbies, parks and amusement centers where the convention crowds gather.

"Many of the delegates and visitors come from towns where everybody is honest and confidence games and pickpockets are unheard of things," explained Chief Schoemaker. "We don't want any of our visitors buying the lions in the Lincoln park zoo or anything like that."

BRIDAL VEILS GO TO BIDDERS IN POSTAL AUCTION

A couple of bridal veils which had never decked a bride, a dozen bottles of poultry tonic, a garbage can, 100 pounds of Brazil nuts, half a dozen yo-yo tops and a half ton of brass castings were knocked down to successive bidders yesterday in the postoffice warehouse at 1304 Indiana avenue.

The auction was the semi-annual sale of unclaimed articles which accumulate in the Chicago postoffice, largely because their wrappings or addresses are defective, or because the consignees fail to call for them. Auctioneers' assistants said that 2,494 persons bid on the articles offered yesterday, paying a total of $6,328.

The sale will be concluded today. The bidding yesterday was most spirited on foodstuffs and clothing, clerks said.

INDIANA G. O. P. CHIEFS INDORSE DRY TEST PLANK

Resubmission Plan Up to State Meeting Today.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 7.—[Special.]—A tentative platform providing for resubmission of the 18th amendment to the voters through state conventions was approved today by the majority of the candidates who will seek nominations at the Republican convention here tomorrow and Thursday. The Republican party has always been the bulwark of dry efforts in Indiana, which in 1925, by act of a Republican legislature, became, technically though not actually, the most bone dry of the 48 states.

Keen interest was expressed in the plank because it is expected to be a model of the one to be introduced in the national convention at Chicago next week.

Party Chiefs Consulted.

Party leaders in Washington were consulted in preparation of the Indiana plank.

Oscar Ahlgren, Whiting, nominee for representative from the First district; Joseph Kyle, Gary, candidate for the nomination for lieutenant governor, and Lawrence Orr, Indianapolis, chief examiner of the state board of accounts and a candidate for governor, urged an outright wet plank. Ahlgren called for a platform declaration for repeal of the 18th amendment, the Volstead act and state bone dry law.

Following the conference, called by Ivan Morgan, Republican state chairman, John Scott, Gary, First district chairman, and John L. Moorman, Knox, veteran party leader, announced they have collaborated on a wet plank to be submitted to the resolutions committee. Scott said that if the plank is rejected by the committee he planned to carry his fight to the floor of the convention.

Calls for Resubmission.

Drafts prepared by Harry C. Fenton, secretary of the state committee, and Ernest Thompson, Rushville, who was in touch with Senator James E. Watson, senate majority leader, call for resubmission of the amendment under article V. of the federal constitution.

Present drafts of the Indiana prohibition planks do not go into detail as to the machinery which would be necessary in carrying out resubmission of the 18th amendment through state conventions. The Indiana platform builders assert details are matters of legislation, and that the platform should confine itself to broad declarations of policy.

In effect the plank would provide for an expression by the people on retention, revision or repeal of the prohibition amendment, it was explained by those framing it. It is the understanding that should congress provide for resubmission, then the states could, through appropriate legislation, hold state conventions. The manner of choosing delegates to the conventions, it is held, is purely a matter of state legislation and could be accomplished through a general referendum or by local conventions.

Text of Moorman's Plank.

Moorman's plank reads:

"We demand repeal of the 18th amendment to the federal constitution, and the so-called 'bone dry' laws, enacted throughout a number of years, by the Indiana legislature; and we recommend the enactment of such laws by the federal and state governments for the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages as will actually promote temperance among the people, and at the same time secure for the federal and state treasuries the revenue that now flows into the pockets of the lawless and powerful racketeers and the countless number of bootleggers that defy and befoul our civilization."

Opposition to the resubmission plank was expressed by L. E. York, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league.

Morgan, who is a canner at Austin, Ind., was selected as the permanent chairman of the convention.

Will H. Hays, formerly state and national chairman and postmaster general, arrived in Indianapolis today. A report that Harry S. New, former postmaster general, would arrive was denied. New will attend the Chicago convention, however.

Henry Field Began Career at 7

Shenandoah, Ia., June 7.—[Special.]—Henry Field, novice politician and seedsman, received the congratulations today on his nomination over Smith W. Brookhart in the Republican primary with the quiet satisfaction of a man to whom "making friends and keeping them has been one of his greatest interests in life." He credited his victory entirely to his friends and thanked them not only for their help but more for their friendship.

Last to enter the primary—the first time he ever has been a candidate for any office—and not taken seriously for a time, Field says he was so much of an amateur that "everything I did was wrong. I had six professional opponents and they kept their platforms to themselves. I went from farm to farm and announced my platform. People seem to be getting tired of being fooled by these professional politicians who talk one way and vote another." In his campaign he avoided all cities and larger towns.

Tall, gray haired, and soft spoken, Field talked of his early struggles and rise to wealth. He started on the path that led to his present half million dollar seed business when he was seven. He grew pansy and strawberry plants and potatoes until he was 15 and then worked in a Des Moines seed store for $3.50 a week until he was 21.

Returning to Shenandoah, he married and started his seed business on a small truck farm, sending out his seeds in rough paper packages and claiming to put the quality into the seeds, not into the package. The business now employs 300 persons.

He branched out into selling thoroughbred poultry and hogs and later, with the help of his radio station, KFNF, sold by mail groceries, farm equipment and practically everything else a farmer could use.

Through the years—he is 61 now—he says, "I figured I should never need the friends I've made: I just wanted friends as friends, but now they've made me the happiest man in the country."

His friends, however, have helped him before. When his radio station, known as the "Friendly Station," wanted a better wave length, a million listeners wrote to the federal radio commission asking it be granted. At an aerial "birthday party" a few years ago more than a quarter of a million messages of congratulation poured in.

Field said he understood his democratic opponent, Louis Murphy, of Dubuque, was wet.

"I'm dry; so we ought to have a lot of fun."

His victory is rated one of the biggest upsets in Iowa's political history but Field dismisses it with:

"I can't understand why people didn't know I was going to be nominated. I knew it three weeks ago—told a lot of my friends about it and today they are wearing smiles and pockets filled with money."

Wet Neophyte in Politics Beats Dry N. Carolina Boss

Charlotte, N. C., June 7.—[Special.]—Robert R. Reynolds, wet advocate and practically a neophyte in politics, today continued to run up his victory over Senator Cameron Morrison, ardent dry and political boss in Carolina for nearly as many years as Reynolds has been alive.

Latest returns from the Democratic senatorial primary show Reynolds has 150,050 votes against 138,805 for Morrison. It was the first prohibition test since this state went dry 25 years ago.

Reynolds has appeared little in political life. He was a candidate six years ago in the primary in which the late Senator Lee S. Overman was overwhelmingly chosen. The dry issue did not appear in that contest. Reynolds' only public service has been as district solicitor general.

Losers Turn to Reynolds.

Reynolds today gained strong support for the runoff primary, which will be held on July 2. This primary is made necessary by the fact that no candidate in Saturday's contest gained a majority of votes cast. North Carolina law provides that primaries are not decided by pluralities but by clear majorities.

Reynolds said former Judge T. S. Bowie of West Jefferson, and Frank D. Grist, who polled a total of more than 66,000 votes, had assured him they would back his candidacy. Bowie had 37,680 votes and Grist, state commissioner of labor, 28,550.

Should these two deliver their full strength, it would give Reynolds a majority, figured on the first primary vote.

Morrison has issued no statement except to say he expected to beat Reynolds in the second primary. In a brief statement Reynolds declared the voting was a "vindication of a great issue."

The winner of the Reynolds-Morrison run-off will be opposed in the November election by Jake Newell, Charlotte attorney, nominated by the state Republican convention on a bone dry platform.

Dry South Breaking Bonds.

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—The surprising victory registered in the North Carolina primary Saturday by Robert R. Reynolds, an outstanding advocate of repeal of the 18th amendment, continued today to be the major topic of political discussion.

In many quarters the sound whipping administered to the incumbent North Carolina senator was interpreted as an indication that the traditionally dry south at last is beginning to crack under the growing nation-wide demand for modification or repeal of the dry laws.

Should Mr. Reynolds again defeat Senator Morrison in the runoff for the Democratic nomination, which will be held July 2, it would result in the virtual revamping of the strategy of both national wet and dry organizations as it would reveal that the south can no longer be depended upon to round out the thirteen states necessary to block a change in the 18th amendment.

Clear Cut Wet-Dry Test.

Washington observers in close touch with the North Carolina political situation asserted today that the July 2 primary run off will furnish the cleanest cut referendum on prohibition since the dry law was enacted.

Should Reynolds again be returned the victor it would be regarded as even more convincing proof of North Carolina's wetness than was furnished by Saturday's primary, due to the fact that Senator Morrison is expected to draw more state administration support in the July 2 run off.

Mr. Reynolds made prohibition his only issue. According to his friends, Mr. Reynolds will stress the prohibition issue even more forcibly in the run off campaign.

YOUNG GUNMAN SLAIN TRYING TO ROB POLICEMAN

A young holdup man was shot three times in the abdomen and fatally wounded last night when he tried to rob West Park Policeman William Campbell at Roosevelt road and California avenue. He is Philip Vine, 18 years old, 1319 South Spaulding avenue.

Policeman Campbell, off duty and in civilian clothes, had driven to the west side to meet his wife in Douglas park. As he sat in his parked automobile, Vine menaced him with a revolver and entered the rear of the car.

Campbell swung around, knocked the youth's revolver from his hand, and drew his own gun. He fired three shots, all taking effect. Policeman Campbell took Vine to the Mount Sinai hospital, where the youth died early this morning.

Wet Advocate in Florida Leads Mrs. Ruth B. Owen

Jacksonville, Fla., June 7.—(AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York tonight was polling his predicted sweeping indorsement by Florida voters for the Democratic presidential nomination on early returns from today's state-wide primary.

In 43 of the 1,283 precincts Roosevelt had 6,467 votes, against 852 for Gov. William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray of Oklahoma and 81 for L. J. Chassee of Milwaukee, Wis.

Mark Wilcox, West Palm Beach, running on a platform for repeal of the 18th amendment, had 1,190 votes to 771 for Representative Ruth Bryan Owen in their contest for the congressional nomination in the Fourth district.

SMITH COHORTS DEFY ROOSEVELT AND BACK SHOUSE

Battle for Chairman May Decide Nomination.

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith has accepted the challenge of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, his rival for the Democratic nomination for President and will support to the limit Jouett Shouse, national executive chairman, for the post of permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention.

With the Roosevelt forces committed definitely to Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, the vote on permanent chairman will furnish the first test of the strength of the opposing forces in the Chicago convention.

The decision to support Mr. Shouse for permanent chairman was made at a conference of Mr. Smith's supporters from the five states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania in the Empire State club. The conferees, representing something more than one hundred delegates pledged to Mr. Smith also decided that the speech placing Mr. Smith in nomination would be made by Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, and that Representative Mary E. Norton of New Jersey would make one of the seconding speeches.

Confident of Naming Shouse.

Thomas J. Spellacy of Connecticut, who acted as the spokesman for those at the conference, declared that Mr. Smith's supporters expected to bring about his nomination because Mr. Smith, whom he described as the one man in the country with a constructive program and the courage to announce it, was the leader needed by the country at this time of depression.

Those at the conference expressed belief that the Smith delegates in the convention and their allies would be able to elect Mr. Shouse permanent chairman and thereby administer a setback to Gov. Roosevelt which would diminish greatly his chance for the presidential nomination. This belief was based, it was said, on assurances of support received by Mr. Shouse and on the expectation that Mr. Shouse's services for the party during the last three and a half years merited the recognition which the permanent chairmanship would give.

Accept Smith's Challenge.

At the Roosevelt campaign headquarters agreement was expressed with the view of the Smith group that the vote on permanent chairman probably would be decisive, and willingness to meet the Smith forces on this issue was expressed. A leading supporter of Gov. Roosevelt declared there would be no difficulty in holding the Roosevelt delegates in line for Senator Walsh and added that assurance had been received that delegates supporting candidates other than the governor already had expressed a desire for the election of Senator Walsh. It was learned from other sources that delegates from Missouri, Oklahoma, and Ohio, of the states not in the Roosevelt column, had expressed willingness to vote for Senator Walsh against Mr. Shouse.

Robert Jackson of New Hampshire, secretary of the Democratic national committee, replied to the assertion, attributed to Mr. Shouse by a close friend, that the latter had a memorandum showing that Gov. Roosevelt had agreed to the selection of Mr. Shouse as permanent chairman at the time the committee on arrangements "commended" him for the post.

Denies Previous Agreement.

"The press accounts convey the impression that Mr. Shouse has in his possession a memorandum dictated to me by Gov. Roosevelt and committing the governor to Mr. Shouse's candidacy," Mr. Jackson said. "I cannot believe that Mr. Shouse deliberately intended to convey that idea. The only document of any kind which I gave Mr. Shouse was a copy of the resolution as adopted and that contained no inference direct or indirect of its approval by Gov. Roosevelt. He has my permission to make that memorandum public if he wishes to do so."

The Roosevelt campaign managers asserted definitely that they already had more than a majority of the convention in the delegates already elected with 64 more they expect to be for the governor from Idaho, North Carolina, and Indiana, which have not yet elected.

Has Over a Majority.

Accepting the Roosevelt estimate of the division in New York and Pennsylvania, the total of Roosevelt delegates already elected is 621 or 43 more than a majority. Allowing Roosevelt 35 votes from New York, believed to be his minimum with Tammany against him, and 42 votes in Pennsylvania, which are conceded to him by supporters of Mr. Smith, the total would be 593 or 15 more than a majority.

Gov. Roosevelt's supporters are confident their control of the convention will be made absolutely certain by the addition of the delegates not yet elected and that they not only will defeat Mr. Shouse but will control all the convention committees and bring about the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt without the need of trying to change the two-thirds rule.

Wisconsin G. O. P. Platform Fails to Mention Prohibition

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., June 7.—[Special.]—The regular Republican state convention tonight adopted without debate the report of the platform committee charging the La Follette administration with an orgy of expense at the cost of millions of dollars to the taxpayers, pledging to abandon the grade crossing unemployment scheme, and committing the party to a program of the utmost economy.

The platform ignored completely any reference to the prohibition problem. It expressed appreciation of the Hoover administration and pledged allegiance to the national Republican administration.

Funds now designed for the grade crossing program, the Republicans declared, they would use for essential construction purposes and the reduction of taxes.

The omission of reference to prohibition was said to be on the assumption the party in Wisconsin has declared its position on the dry question in repealing the state enforcement act and that the issue now is a national one and not a problem for further action in the state.

Indorse Candidates Today.

The convention sessions opened today and a complete slate of candidates for United States senator and state offices will be indorsed tomorrow.

Howard Greene, secretary of the state committee, in his keynote speech urged a major operation on the commissions, bureaus, and officers which he said were littering the state capitol.

"Increase real employment by increasing political unemployment," he said, "a major operation is necessary, an anesthetic is not only a quick, sharp knife."

Parade Around Capitol.

The convention was characterized as the best and biggest Republicans have had for many years. The hotels were crowded and the fieldhouse of the university was comfortably filled when the first session was called at 2 o'clock. It followed a parade around the capitol, a gesture of defiance to the officeholders in the state house.

Interest in the convention centers chiefly in the choice of a candidate to oppose Philip La Follette for governor and one to make the fight against United States Senator John J. Blaine. The draft Kohler movement, a plan to nominate former Gov. Walter Kohler for governor despite his announcement he is not a candidate had acquired a good deal of momentum before the convention was called to order. The Milwaukee delegation, which controls 165 votes, was active for Kohler, and its members stated without equivocation that the former governor would make the race if the convention revealed a genuine desire to make him the candidate.

SIX ARE KILLED AS AMBULANCE AND AUTO CRASH

Three Year Old Patient Among the Dead.

Camden, N. J., June 7.—[Special.]—Six persons were killed and a seventh is dying as the result of a mad dash today by an ambulance driver to save a tiny girl from bleeding to death. The baby girl and her father were among the victims when the ambulance crashed into a light sedan near Collingswood.

The ambulance was speeding at 70 miles an hour when it hit the car. The sedan rolled over and burst into flames. The ambulance crashed against a steel pole.

The Dead.

Victims of the accident were:

Emma Bloemaker, 3, Haddonfield.

Richard J. Bloemaker, 40, her father, an unemployed printer.

John Knorr, policeman of Haddonfield, driver of the ambulance.

William Rodecker, 21, a student at Georgetown university, the driver of the sedan.

Mrs. J. A. Rodecker, 45, of 45 Jefferson street, Perth Amboy, his mother.

Mrs. Edward Smith, 24, of Walnut street, Keyport, his aunt.

Frank B. Cuker, policeman of Haddonfield, a helper on the ambulance, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The accident had its inception when the little Bloemaker girl fell out of her crip, alighting on a milk bottle which broke and severed a vein in her neck. Her father, awakened by the crash, called the police ambulance, and Patrolman Knorr, realizing that the child's life was at stake, threw caution to the winds as he started for the hospital here.

Witness Describes Crash.

The only witness, Arthur Deaver, 14, who looked out of the window of his home 100 feet away when he heard the ambulance siren, said:

"Both cars were going very fast as they approached the intersection—I should say about sixty miles an hour. I saw the sedan go flying up in the air, run on its wheels about fifty feet and turn over. Then I saw a lot of men running from nearby homes to help pull the people from the car."

Policeman Knorr, who had volunteered to drive the ambulance, was under the wrecked vehicle. The little Bloemaker girl was lying on her face about five feet from her dead father.

KILLED BY FALL FROM PORCH.

Thomas Murphy, 57 years old, 2652 Best avenue, tripped yesterday on the rear porch of his home, fell down the steps, and died a short time later from a fractured skull.

$1,500,000 LEFT TO CHARITY BY E. F. SWIFT WILL

Most of Remainder Goes to His Family.

The will of the late Edward Foster Swift, filed in the Probate court yesterday afternoon, disclosed that his estate amounts to more than $5,000,000. Almost one-third of the estate, about $1,500,000, was bequeathed to Chicago charities. Half of the remainder of the property was given to his widow, Mrs. Hortense N. Swift, 1550 North State parkway, and the residue was left in trust for his children.

Six specific charitable bequests were made. The will directed that $25,000 each be given to the following institutions: Art institute, the Chicago Orphan asylum, the Old People's home at 47th street and Vincennes avenue, Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, and to the treasury of the Fund for Superannuated Ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The remainder of the $1,500,000 left to charity was placed in Mrs. Swift's hands in the will made on Jan. 19, 1925. In a codicil made on Feb. 20, the same year, Mr. Swift said: "I have given considerable thought to the matter of charities since the making of my will . . . and I direct that one-third of such funds be used for the erection and endowment of a hospital on the north side and an equal sum for a hospital on the south side of Chicago near the stockyards district." The remaining third of the funds was set aside for general distribution by Mrs. Swift.

After directing that Mrs. Swift be given one-third of his property the will provided that another third be placed in trust at the Farmers' Loan and Trust company of New York City and the income given to his three children, T. Philip Swift, Edward F. Swift Jr., Mrs. Annie May Swift Henry, and the latter's husband, Huntington B. Henry.

The income from the trust is divided into three parts. From Mrs. Henry's third her husband is given $5,000 a year if Mrs. Henry's share amounts to more than $20,000 a year. The trust terminates two years after the death of the last survivor among the children. The principal will be given to Mr. Swift's grandchildren.

The will directed that Mrs. Swift distribute $100,000 "to my relatives and to relatives of my wife . . . according to their respective needs."

Bequests to Employés.

Specific bequests were made to the following personal employés: Chester F. Stephenson, $10,000; Frank Donnelly, $10,000; Jay C. Halbert, $6,000; D. Ross Chisholm, $6,000; Harry A. Chetham, $6,000; Miss Minnie M. Robinson, $6,000; Dwight M. Noble, $3,000; Paul Keenan, $3,000; William H. Craven of Crane, Ore., $3,000; Miss Joan Sands, $1,500; Miss Margaret Muir, $1,000; Harry A. Dice, chauffeur, $500, and to Judd Sweet, $500. Attorneys explained that Stephenson, Donnelly, and Halbert were the directors of Mr. Swift's estate and that the others named were servants or employés of the estate.

A considerable portion of the will was composed of paragraphs which will control the business policies of the executors. In referring to his children's trust fund Mr. Swift directed that all the securities taken for the estate shall be "long time obligations or securities of the United States of America, having 10 years or more to run from the time of purchase," or from "high grade corporate bonds from corporations which shall have at the time quick assets equal to 150 per cent of its quick liabilities."

Mr. Swift's will directed also that the present directors of his estate be retained pending the administration of his estate and asked that their salaries be kept at $10,000 a year.

Brother Named Executor.

Mrs. Swift was appointed executrix along with both her sons. In his only reference to his brothers Mr. Swift stated: "It is my earnest wish that one of my brothers serve as an executor of my estate." The will asked that Louis F. Swift act as executor, but he declined. Charles H. Swift accepted the appointment.

Attorney Albert Veeder and Edward F. Swift Jr. appeared before Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner, yesterday to prove heirship, and to file the will. The procedure lasted hardly five minutes. The petition for heirship disclosed that Mr. Swift left $3,500,000 in personal property and $1,500,000 in real estate.

Mr. Swift was chairman of the board of directors of Swift & Co. He died in a fall from his eighth floor apartment at 1550 North State parkway on May 28.

DEPUTY SLAIN IN WEST KENTUCKY AS COAL MINERS ARE FIRED ON

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 7.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Wallace Myers was shot to death late today when coal miners for whom he was guard, were fired upon with machine guns and rifles from a wooded hill overlooking Empire mine No. 6, about 15 miles from here. The barrage of bullets scattered the miners as they emerged from a pit.

A posse of officers and citizens was formed immediately at Mannington, a neighboring coal mining community, and, aided by bloodhounds, started in search of the assailants.

Former employés of the Empire mine No. 6 have been on a strike for some time. Twenty-four of them are under bond for grand jury action in connection with disorders.

Early last month miners imported by the operators were threatened and since then guards have been provided by the county. There have been several dynamitings in the fields since the strike started.

TRY CORKSCREWS (THE CROOKS) ON DRY LAW CHARGE

Jury to Fix Fate of Joe Grein's Merchandise.

Fifteen hundred cans of malt and a few thousand corkscrews, among other things owned by City Sealer Joe Grein and his partner, J. Pahls, when prohibition agents seized them two years ago, went to trial yesterday in the federal court before Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Selection of a jury which is to determine whether the penalty of commercial death shall be meted out to the malt and corkscrews began in the afternoon and four jurors had been tentativaly accepted when the court session closed. The other eight are to be chosen today.

Drys Want It Destroyed.

Technically, the government is seeking to libel the seized merchandise, valued at $25,000, which includes a quantity of tomato juice and sauerkraut juice, so that it may be destroyed as illegal under the Volstead act. Messrs. Grein and Pahls, who maintain that they had never known what use their customers might put malt to, are seeking to recover the goods and get some adjustment in money for mishandling and depreciation and for the inconvenience they have endured.

The owners are represented by Attorneys William F. Waugh and Clarence Darrow. The latter was ill yesterday and unable to be in court, but Mr. Waugh said he expected to appear today.

Sealer Grein yesterday referred with some heat to the crooked course that had been followed by 1,500 of the seized corkscrews.

"They backed up eighteen trucks at our place and filled them with our goods," he said. "They even took ninety packages, wrapped and addressed, which contained tomato and sauerkraut juice ready to be mailed to customers.

Corkscrews Are Sold.

"But those corkscrews. The government sold 1,500 of them to the Interstate Trading company and the Interstate Trading company sold them back to us."

The partners of the firm are not defendants. They were given a clean bill a year ago when the search warrant on which the raid was made was quashed. The action bears the title: "The United States vs. 1,500 cans of malt, etc."

Those accepted for the jury yesterday were Roland A. Neynaber, salesman; William Francis of Streator, golf professional; Walter Rudolph, former bank clerk, and Adolph Fink, telegraph operator.

Argue Motions Saturday for New Kidnaper Trials

Peoria, Ill., June 7.—[Special.]—Motions for new trials for the eight persons convicted a week ago by a jury in a Peoria court of kidnaping Dr. James W. Parker, Peoria physician, will be heard Saturday by Judge Henry J. Ingram, it was announced today.

FOLLIES GIRL GETS DIVORCE FROM ARTIST

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday granted Mrs. Vera Leightmer Brody, formerly of the Follies chorus, a divorce from her husband, Iles Brody, a Hungarian artist whom she married in Budapest in 1927. The decree was awarded on grounds of cruelty, after Mrs. Brody testified that her husband left her in August of 1930.

Mrs. Brody was known as "Kittens" Leightmer in 1916, when she left New York City announcing that she was going to Paris to marry Henry Clews III., grandson of a New York banker. This marriage did not take place, and soon afterward the chorus girl married Brody. In 1918 Mrs. Brody sued Jefferson W. Seligman, 70 year old banker, for breach of contract. The suit ultimately was settled out of court.

"Keeps our silks and linens fresh as flower petals" say Midwest society women

During trying years of economy—when the thought of replacing precious silks, linens and laces produces an ache in the heart—it is indeed an accomplishment to know how to guard these treasures and prolong their wear. So let's consult some of our prominent Midwest women . . . and learn their secret.

Mrs. Martin J. Dregge, proud custodian of Alençon laces, point Venise banquet cloth and Italian cutwork of the finest quality, says: "Lacy things are practical. But of course, you must use an absolutely pure soap in washing them. See how beautiful American Family Flakes keeps mine."

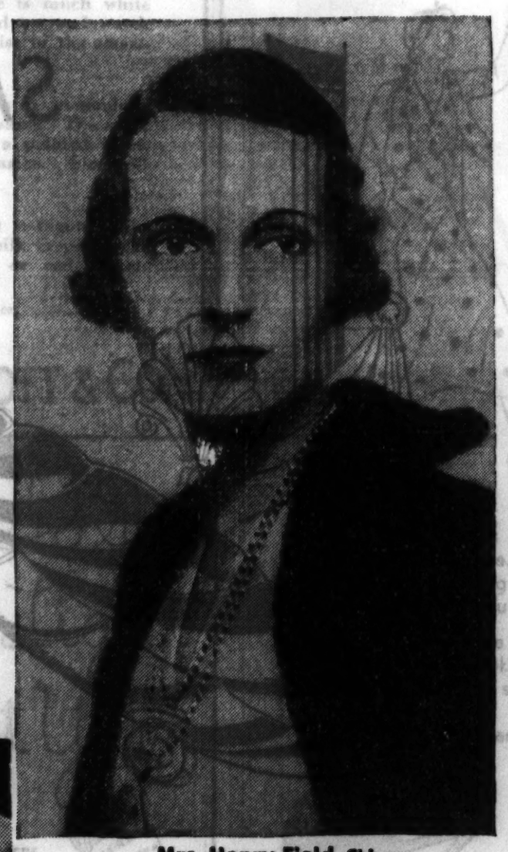
Equally enthusiastic is Mrs. Henry Field, whose rare china and crystal deserve the most indulgent care. "Imagine how a sticky soap would smear the gloss of these Sandwich glass plates. But with American Family Flakes, china and glassware hold their brilliance without the need of polishing."

"Everything in my boudoir testifies to American Family's care," declares Mrs. Charles E. Albright, mistress of one of Milwaukee's most beautiful homes. "my rose taffeta draperies, my Persian rug of delicate tints, my mirrors and marble fireplace."

If you wish to get longer wear from all your washables and greater cleaning power for your money . . . if you wish to keep your hands smooth and white . . . then use KIRK'S American Family, the purest and most economical of soaps. For every laundering, dishwashing and household-cleaning task, it makes rich double-suds — because it was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region. And it's the double-suds that makes the difference!

Mrs. Charles E. Albright
Milwaukee
—daughter of the late Henry Uihlein and wife of the prominent Milwaukee financier. She is an enthusiastic contributor of time and funds to the Milwaukee Philharmonic Orchestra, Community Drive and other charities. Her handsome house is cared for with American Family Flakes.

Mrs. Martin J. Dregge
Grand Rapids
—whose husband is president of the Luce Furniture Company. Her dinner tables, set with Lenox china and priceless bits of lace, are the talk of Grand Rapids society and proof of American Family's safety for washable treasures. Mrs. Dregge is active with the Kent Garden Club, the Mary Free Bed Guild, and Babies' Welfare Guild.



Mrs. Henry Field, Chicago
—whose husband is the young anthropologist of the Field Museum. She and her husband are favorites of the younger smart set; they entertain at brilliant supper parties for visiting notables—frequent opera, symphony and the theater. Outside of her home and social interests, Mrs. Field devotes much of her time to Emerson House, the West Side settlement home.

SENATE DISCARDS 48 MILLION CUT IN VETERANS' AID

Four of Committeemen Switch Votes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—Nearly one-fourth of the saving proposed in the 238 million dollar economy bill was eliminated when the senate today, by a vote of 63 to 14, struck out 48 million dollars which were to have been saved through revisions of various veterans' acts.

SEN. L. J. DICKINSON. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Only two of the six members of the special committee which had recommended the cut stood up under fire. These were Senators Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] and L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.]. They voted "no" on the motion to strike out the veterans' section.

Four Who Switched Votes.

The motion was made by a member of the committee, Senator Sam G. Bratton [Dem., N. M.]. To his vote of "aye" were joined the affirmative voices of Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], Kenneth McKeller [Dem., Tenn.], and James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], all committee members.

With the program for the economy bill's discussion thrown out of gear by the veterans' section vote, the senate adjourned late in the afternoon instead of running into the night as had been planned.

The section of the bill they voted down would have limited the allowances of emergency officers, would have limited the retirement pay of veterans with civilian salaries above a certain amount, and would have curtailed the privileges granted veterans not incapacitated in line of duty.

Save One Minor Provision.

The only provision saved out of the debris left in the wake of the retreat was that calling for the appointment of a joint congressional committee to study the subject of veterans' allowances and report next January. Even that saving was not achieved without a long debate.

In the course of that debate Senator Bingham asserted that already 25 cents of every dollar of the taxpayer goes to some form of veterans' relief, and urged that the veterans so far as they were able, ought to bear a proportion of the economy demands now urgent in the country.

With some 8,000 now in the capital demanding their bonus money, Senator Byrnes argued that the faults of the present veterans' relief are largely due to administration interpretation, and not to manipulation by the veterans themselves. He particularly pointed to the fact that the war, officially, is supposed to have ended not Nov. 11, 1918, but June 2, 1921.

"And so," he shouted, "if a man tripped up and had his leg hurt on the first day of June, 1921, he is put on the same basis as the man injured in the hardest fighting in France."

Charge Log Rolling.

Senator Byrnes also attacked the practice of permitting emergency officers to be retired on a presumptive injury while the regular army is permitted no such retirement policy. As a result of this, he declared, 225 of the 329 doctors now employed by the veterans' administration are themselves drawing three-quarters pay on the retired list, and also drawing $3,000, $4,000, or $5,000 a year as medical men.

"If a man is able to draw $5,000 a year from the veterans' administration," Mr. Byrnes maintained, "he is certainly in such splendid health and so able that he shouldn't be drawing an allowance for disability at the expense of the taxpayer."

Citing also the process by which a doctor, on the retired list, has to pass, medically, upon another doctor applying for disability allowance, he charged "It's a case of 'you tickle me and I'll tickle you.'"

Mr. Byrnes then voted "Aye."

The vote on Sentor Bratton's motion to strike out proposed economies in veterans' expenditures totaling $48,714,000 follows:

FOR THE MOTION [63].

REPUBLICANS—Austin, Barbour, Blaine, Capper, Carey, Cousens, Cutting, Dale, Davis, Frazier, Goldsborough, Hatfield, Howell, Johnson, Jones, Kean, Keyes, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Patterson, Robinson [Ind.], Schall, Shortridge, Steiwer, Thomas [Idaho], Townsend, Watson—28.

DEMOCRATS—Ashurst, Bankhead, Barkley, Bratton, Broussard, Bulkley, Byrnes, Caraway, Cohen, Connally, Coolidge, Costigan, Dill, Fletcher, George, Harrison, Hayden, Hull, Kendrick, Lewis, Logan, McGill, McKellar, Neely, Pittman, Robinson [Ark.], Sheppard, Thomas [Okla.], Trammell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh [Mass.], Walsh [Mont.], and Wheeler—34.

FARMER-LABORITE—Shipstead.

AGAINST THE MOTION [14].

REPUBLICANS—Bingham, Borah, Dickinson Hale, Hebert, Metcalf, Moses, Norbeck, Reed, Vandenberg, and White—11.

DEMOCRATS—Bulow, Glass, and King—3.

General pairs were announced for the following senators:

Republicans—Glenn, La Follette, and McNary, and Democrats—Long, Bailey, and Gore.

Senator La Follette said he would vote "aye" if permitted, and Senator McNary would have voted "nay."

Prior to its disposal of the veterans' provisions of the economy bill the senate had voted, 36 to 41, against substituting the President's furlough plan as contained in an amendment by Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] for the 10 per cent salary cut plan adopted by the senate last week.

The senate also rejected an amendment to the Moses proposal offered by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] which would have superimposed pay cuts on furloughs beginning with the employés receiving $3,000.

DAY TO COST AVERAGE MAN 23 CENTS UNDER 1932-1933 TAXES

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—John Smith, married, with one child—the $5,000 a year "average man" of the tax review—will awaken, stretch, and realize that it is costing him 23 cents. That, to start this one of many similar days of 1932-1933, will be his income tax.

He will send his son to the corner, say, for tooth paste on this one of a good many days to come—tax, 1 cent—and he will add a fraction of a cent by turning on the lights and by cooking his egg with electricity.

Driving the almost paid for car to the station, he will put in oil—6 cents tax for six quarts—and ten gallons of gasoline—tax, 10 cents (besides the states).

By midnight he will be tired as he noses the car into the driveway and will not answer when Mrs. Smith says she wishes she had a mechanical refrigerator—tax, 5 per cent.

For the day's tax will come to $2.68.

CHICAGO TO PAY $2,400,000 U. S. ELECTRICITY TAX

Collection Is to Begin After June 15.

Chicago will contribute approximately $2,400,000 a year to the government as its share of the new electricity tax passed by congress and approved by President Hoover Monday as a part of the new tax bill.

A legal representative of the Commonwealth Edison company, which furnishes all electric power to Chicagoans, yesterday said that the new tax is a flat rate of 3 per cent upon the cost of all electricity furnished to the consumer.

3 Cent Tax on $3 Bill.

Thus, if a home owner's electric bill has been $3 a month, his bill in the future will be $3.09. The citizen with this average monthly bill will contribute $1.08 each year to the government in electricity taxes.

The figure of $2,400,000 as Chicago's total tax was based upon the operating revenues of the Commonwealth Edison company for 1931, which totaled $80,551,163. Three per cent of this figure is $2,416,534. Assuming that the operating revenues continue to remain at this mark, the contribution of Chicago in electricity taxes was computed.

The bills rendered by the Commonwealth Edison company give first a gross bill, then a discount if the bill is paid within ten days, and finally the net bill which shows the gross bill with the discount deducted. The 3 per cent tax will apply on the net bill if it is paid within the discount period and upon the gross bill if the bill is not paid within the discount period.

Company Acts as Collector.

The company will act merely as a collection agency, the representative said, and will not pay any portion of the tax, although it will be subjected to bookkeeping expense in figuring out the tax.

The new tax goes into effect June 15. Chicagoans should begin to feel the effects of the tax in bills rendered after that date.

BUILDING GROUPS URGE PASSAGE OF HUGE LOAN BILL

As a means of "pumping new blood into the apparently lifeless building industry" Chicago building contractors yesterday urged the passage of the 2,300 million dollar Wagner federal loan bill now pending in congress. Following a meeting of the executive boards of the National Association of Building Trades Employers, the Illinois Builders' league, the Allied Construction council, the Builders of Chicago, and the Building Construction Employers' association telegrams were sent to Senators Lewis and Glenn and to all of the Illinois representatives in the house urging support of the bill.

Florida Negro Lynched for Slaying Policeman

Jasper, Fla., June 7.—[Special.]—Henry Woods, Negro, was shot and killed by a posse of north Florida citizens near here for the murder last Friday of Ira E. Fowler, Jasper police chief. After his body had been riddled with bullets it was burned near the scene of the murder of the policeman.

389 MILLION WAR BUREAU BILL GIVEN TO SENATE

Measure Is Reported Out by Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—A war department appropriation bill, cut three millions below the total sum voted by the house, but retaining the 2,000 officers the house bill eliminated, was reported to the senate today by the appropriations committee.

As passed by the house, the bill contained a total of $392,586,146. The senate appropriations committee struck out $3,007,633, making the total now carried in the measure $389,578,513, or $21,785,249 below the budget estimates for 1933, and $56,194,722 under last year's appropriations.

The committee recommended the elimination of the house bill's provision cutting the officer strength from 12,000 to 10,000.

It was about this cut that the objections of the war department centered as revealed in the committee hearings.

Secretary Hurley asserted that the $3,784,414 which it was estimated the cut in officer personnel would save was more apparent than real; that in addition to the waste of money and training, the returning of 2,000 officers to their homes and the replacement of perhaps half of them would entail a large expense.

During the testimony of Maj. Gen. John I. De Witt, quartermaster general, Senator Gerald P. Nye [radical Rep., N. D.] objected to the abandonment of Fort Lincoln, N. D., as part of the program. Gen. De Witt informed the committee that $55,000 a year would be saved by giving up Fort Lincoln.

C. OF C. OPPOSES NEW POSTOFFICE FOR RIVERSIDE

Speaker Garner's plan to build postoffices throughout the country to relieve the depression is not welcome in Riverside, a southwest suburb. Riverside would get an $85,000 building under the plan.

The Riverside chamber of commerce is opposed to the scheme, it became known last night. O. B. Humma, vice president of the group, explained that a new postoffice would work an injury upon William Likens, a dry goods merchant, who recently built a structure which is now rented as a postoffice.

MARRIAGE HALTED

A month ago, Mrs. Julia Cain, who operates an employment agency at her home at 617 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, procured Paul Becker, 23 years old, a job as chauffeur for the Russell P. Kelleys, of Lake Bluff. Yesterday she almost got him for a son in law.

During the last month Becker has been courting Mrs. Cain's daughter, Margaret, 18 years old. Mrs. Cain disapproved of the romance, however, desiring her daughter to marry Melvin W. Crawford Jr., 19 years old, of Detroit. Crawford, a former Lake Forest academy student, is the son of a Detroit manufacturer.

Yesterday Mrs. Cain learned that her daughter and Becker planned an elopement to Waukegan, to be married by Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt. She hurried to the justice's office, accompanied by Crawford, and found the would be elopers there. A stormy session followed. It ended when Mrs. Cain and Crawford shoved the daughter into their automobile, and drove away.

Becker watched them disappear, and then notified Lake Forest police. He said he would get warrants charging Mrs. Cain and his rival with kidnaping.

WOMAN HELD ON DRY CHARGE.

Mrs. Mary Wisocki, operator of a beer flat at 1611 Elston avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K Walker in bond of $750 on liquor law violation charge.

adoption of the drastic regulation. Twelve Republicans cast their ballots with the Democrats in favor of adopting the rule.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], minority leader, flayed the majority party for its failure to bring in a rule to expedite the passage of the important revenue and economy bills.

"But when you have your own 'pork barrel' bill," he charged, "you hogtie the entire house to get it through."

Sees Dawes' Comment Hurtful.

Referring today on the senate floor to the statement made by Gen. Dawes in announcing his retirement from the Reconstruction Finance corporation's presidency, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] declared that Gen Dawes' tone of confidence and optimism would have an unfortunate effect. He charged, too, that the corporation's effort had been for the relief of the big institutions; that the smaller institutions had been neglected.

"It will result in a feeling that there is no need for further relief efforts," said Senator Lewis. "There will be a deadening of effort."

The effect will be felt when congress seeks to pass legislation for direct relief of the unemployed and distressed, said the senator from Illinois.

"Gen. Dawes," he went on, "gave out that statement in order to encourage the financiers of the country by making them believe the task of the Reconstruction Finance corporation has been well performed. The truth is, they have failed.

"The institutions that have benefited have been the large institutions. I know it has been claimed that the small banks received the loans. Yes, but only when the little banks owed the big banks money and a loan meant the repayment of that money.

"The people—the farmers, and the starving men, women, and children in the cities—have received no relief. And the statement of Gen. Dawes will first enjoin and then paralyze efforts toward real relief."

Senator Lewis referred to the recent telegram sent by Mayor Cermak and other Chicagoans asking for federal relief. He pointed out that "they were the very gentlemen who recently sought to restrain and stifle our action to give relief."

"These gentlemen deceived themselves; they flattered themselves that they could do without federal help," said Senator Lewis. "They sought to circumvent congress. If they had taken a little thought we would not today be advertising to the world that through the mismanagement of those in power and the dishonesty of those in trust we had failed to take care of our own.

"The time has come to dismiss all academic distinctions as to the functions of the various governments and give our people real and adequate relief."

Foes of the Tax Spenders Outline Their Plan of Battle

G. W. ROSSETTER.

Measures being taken to accomplish the objectives of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures were outlined yesterday by George W. Rossetter, permanent chairman of the organization and president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. This association was set up last week at a meeting here attended by business interests from all parts of the country. Mr. Rossetter said:

"First, we propose to establish in each community and city represented here last week a local organization to keep before the minds of the public the necessity for continued pressure in the campaign for lower governmental expenditures. We shall do this through the representatives of chambers of commerce and other organizations which had delegates at the Chicago meeting. In addition, we propose to circularize all the local organizations for which we had proxies.

"Second, we are preparing copies of the resolutions adopted at the closing meeting for presentation to President Hoover, to all members of congress, and to delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions, which will meet here shortly.

"Third, we are endeavoring to have a number of national associations cooperate with us in the presentation of the resolutions to the interested parties. The purpose of this is to make our action truly representative of the entire nation.

"Only through persistent, unrelenting effort can our goal of lower taxes through reduced governmental expenditures be achieved. Not only must the expense of the national government be reduced, but state and local governing bodies must sharply curtail their spending. Local organizations working constantly can keep this need for economy fresh in the minds of the public."

For the time being, at any rate, the headquarters of the newly formed organization campaigning for lower taxes will be maintained in the offices of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

CAPITAL SEES MILITARY STEP OF BONUS ARMY

Eight Thousand Parade on Famous Avenue.

Among the Missing

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—The disappearance of Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.] from his customary haunts on Capitol Hill and the equally sudden disappearance of a sign reading "Veterans' Committee" from his office door caused comment and many a chuckle in congress today. Mr. Rankin as chairman of the house veterans' committee has long been regarded as the congressional archangel of ex-service men.

So with some 8,000 veterans in Washington to stage a demonstration in favor of the bonus legislation it had been expected that Mr. Rankin would be "at home" to those whose cause he has so staunchly advocated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—With American flags flying and three bands sounding a quickstep, the vanguard of the bonus expeditionary forces now converging from all sides on the capital swung snappily down Pennsylvania avenue tonight in the first of a series of veterans' demonstrations arranged to expedite immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Eight thousand veterans of the world war, in short sleeves and carrying banners emblazoned with appeals for early congressional approval of the two billion dollar bonus bill, participated in the parade, marching in military formation from Constitution avenue and Fifteenth street to the capitol.

Although close to 25,000 persons turned out to see the parade following publication of advance reports that a communist outbreak was expected, the bonus demonstration went off smoothly without the slightest semblance of disorder. The twin lines of spectators that crowded the sidewalks from the treasury to the capitol saw only company after company of clean looking men swing by without apparently glancing either to the right or to the left.

Meet Scattering Applause.

Leaving Constitution avenue at 7 o'clock, the first company of the expeditionary forces marched amid scattering applause past the treasury and a few moments later turned down Pennsylvania avenue toward the capitol. At the Peace monument the various units broke formation and returned to the various veterans' camps that have been established since the first detachments arrived of an army that is expected to reach 15,000.

In expectation of trouble local police had lined Pennsylvania avenue from the treasury to the Peace monument with ropes and steel cable. The entire police force of the District also was on duty. From the time the parade started until it ended policemen were always within a few feet of every one of the units. Motorcycle police swarmed up and down the avenue, while patrolmen on foot guarded the sidewalks.

The absence of trouble was considered due largely to the fact that the leaders of the veterans had spent considerable time during the last few days combing out the communists.

Police Head Reproved.

Shortly before the parade began the Washington Star printed a story stating that Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, had been warned by the district commissioners that his continued efforts to shelter and feed the ever increasing bonus marchers might result in his "peremptory dismissal" by the White House.

This warning, it was said, came as a sequel to criticism received by commissioners from members of congress and several government officers, who felt that Glassford's effort to bivouack the veterans had served as an impetus to bring veterans to Washington to swell the ranks of the army demanding immediate payment of the bonus.

The district commissioners are said to have suggested to Glassford Saturday that he halt his efforts to shelter and feed the veterans. Glassford is reported to have stated that he would not end his activities unless he received an official order, as, otherwise, he would be held responsible in event of food riots.

An application for a permit to parade in front of the capitol tomorrow, filed by the Workers' Ex-Service Men's league, a communist organization, was rejected today by David Lynn, architect of the capitol, following a conference with Vice President Curtis and Speaker John Garner [Dem., Tex.]. Lynn said such a demonstration would be unwarranted. In view of the action at the capitol it was indicated the district also might refuse to allow the communist group to march.

The usual capitol police force of approximately sixty members has been augmented by a force of nearly fifty from the metropolitan police force, in charge of Inspector Headley. These policemen are stationed in the corridors, particularly at the house end, of the capitol, and are doing patrol duty in the corridors of the house building, where the largest group of veteran bonus marchers are visiting the offices of the members of congress from various states. These police are to prevent disorders and to protect members of congress from being inordinately annoyed by groups.

Many members of congress have issued gallery cards to the veterans, who have been crowding the galleries of the house to such an extent as practically to crowd out other visitors.

The food problem was relieved temporarily today by the purchase of 1,000 pounds of meat, a quarter of a ton of potatoes, 1,000 loaves of bread, 300 pounds of rice, four cases of milk, 200 pounds of cocoa, 300 pounds of sugar, and three cases of tomatoes. The provisions were bought on credit and will be paid for from proceeds taken in at tomorrow night's athletic show at the Griffith stadium.

VETS' BONUS MARCH CALLED ATTEMPT TO HOLD UP GOVERNMENT

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—The march on Washington of the "bonus army" of world war ex-service men was denounced tonight as "ominous" and as a direct attempt to hold up the government of the United States, by Gen. James G. Harbord. He spoke at a dinner at the National Republican club in his honor and in honor of Richard W. Lawrence, like him, an ex-president of the organization.

"Nothing so nasty as the bonus march has been seen in the United States since 1916, when the representatives of organized labor sat in the galleries of congress and forced through the eight hour day railroad law," he declared. "Not since 1783 has an army of citizens marched on the capital with evil in their hearts."

PURSE THIEF GIVEN YEAR.

Frank Morales, 48 years old, 3118 West 15th street, was sentenced to a year in the house of correction yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green for stealing a purse from a parked automobile.

MRS. BALDWIN IS GIVEN DIVORCE, HOME, AUTO, CASH

Mrs. Mary A. Baldwin, president of the Frances Willard hospital, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath in the superior court from James L. Baldwin, head of an express company. The divorce was on grounds of desertion, and was uncontested.

Mrs. Baldwin amended a previous bill for separate maintenance in which she charged adultery. Two weeks ago she backed her charges of adultery at a hotly contested hearing during which she charged her husband with making advances to nurses at the Willard hospital, where he was a patient a year ago.

By the terms of the decree Mrs. Baldwin was given title to the family home at 414 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, which is valued at $35,000, furniture and an automobile valued at $14,000 and $1,000 in cash, which she is to get in installments of $20 a week. Her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., was granted $500 solicitor's fees.

SOCIALIST CHILE PLEDGES TO GIVE EVERY ONE A JOB

Head of Junta Plans to "Soak the Rich."

Mexico Approves

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 7.—The republic of Mexico today formally recognized the new Socialist state of Chile. The foreign office has sent messages to all Chilean legations giving notice of the new government "achieved with the aid of armed forces."

The financial adviser to the Central bank, W. Van Dusen, has been removed from his post. La Nacion, the government's newspaper, which was closed by former President Montero in July, 1931, at the time of the Carlos Ibanez dictatorship was overthrown, will appear again tomorrow under the supervision of a council. Writers, workers, and the government each will name three members to the council. They will serve until definite measures are taken to sell, rent or socialize the concern. All employes will be partners.

A huge public mass meeting was held in front of the government mint and in the principal streets tonight cheering the new government of Carlos Davila.

Davila Like a Prisoner.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 7.—A dispatch from Chile tonight states that Carlos Davila, head of the junta, is so closely watched by his associates in the new socialistic government that he is little better than a prisoner. The former air force commander, Vergra, of the deposed Montero government, has disappeared and is believed to be fomenting trouble in the south.

[Copyright, 1932, By the Associated Press.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 7.—Carlos Davila, head of the Socialist junta that has seized the government of Chile, today categorically denied reports that there was internal dissension in the new régime and asserted that neither he nor any of his colleagues was considering resigning.

Señor Davila in a statement outlined the policies of the new régime and predicted that within one month there will not be a man in all Chile who hasn't got a job.

Ridicules Report of Discord.

Concerning reports of discord within the junta, Señor Davila said:

"I do not understand how such stories could be sent out when we in the government are working most cordially together in the most cooperative manner."

(Despite Señor Davila's statement, reports were current in Santiago today that dissension had arisen. Leaders of the revolutionary government, dispatches said, were holding up important decisions in the hope of achieving unity.)

"Never in 100 years of Chile's history has there been such a strong people's government as the one now in office," the junta head declared.

"We have absolute full cooperation of the army, the navy and the carribineers, as well as of the great mass of the people who want to see in this country a government of the people, for the people and by the people."

Jobs for All, Is Pledge.

One of the main purposes of the government, he explained, will be to remove the burdens on workers and on the unemployed.

"Within one month, it can safely be predicted, there will be no unemployment in Chile, he said. "We will have a job for every man now out of work.

"This is what we will do—we will create three state companies, one for agriculture, one industrial and one mining. Each of these companies will employ the unemployed of the country."

Asked where the money would be obtained for the creation of these state companies, Señor Davila said:

"We will put on the fortunes of rich people and on those who have big incomes sufficient taxes to bring in the money we need for that purpose.

"After all, our revolution was against these people—these people who comprise less than one-tenth of Chile's population, these people who for years have ruled Chile with an oligarchical hand, never heeding the needs of the workers or of the common people at large."

Touching on the religious question, the head of the junta denied that church property would be taken over. He denied that there was unrest in the south or that a counter-revolutionary movement was in progress.

M'FADDEN DEMANDS RESTORATION OF HIS POSTAL PATRONAGE

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—In a letter to Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], Representative Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.] today demanded that he be restored to the patronage rights he lost last December when he charged during the war debt moratorium fight that President Hoover had "sold out to the international bankers." Immediately following the speech in which he had attacked the President, Senator Reed advised Postmaster General Walter F. Brown to "consider that Representative McFadden had died" so far as postal patronage matters were concerned.

In his protest Mr. McFadden asked Senator Reed "if the men that we elect to the parliamentary offices of the nation are simply to be rubber stamps for the executive and the men who put the campaign contributions into the party chests."

"Such a form of government," he continued, "is purely an oligarchy and not a democracy."

Mr. McFadden called attention to his recent victory over Mrs. Gifford Pinchot in the Pennsylvania elections and asserted it was an indication that the people of his district were in accord with his statements on the moratorium and other financial policies of the administration.

U. S. GUNS DEFEAT CHINESE ATTACK ON BRITISH SHIPS

$110,000 on Grounded Vessel Is Saved.

SHANGHAI, June 7.—(AP)—A dispatch telling of heavy casualties inflicted by the United States gunboat Oahu on Chinese soldiers, who were attacking two British steamers in the upper Yangtze river, was published today by the Exchange Telegraph agency.

The American gunfire, the dispatch said, was for the purpose of protecting the steamers Wanliu and Kiawo. The Wanliu, which had $110,000 in cash aboard, ran aground 40 miles below the town of Chungking, and when the Kiawo came alongside to take off the money, cargo, and passengers a considerable force of Chinese soldiers intervened.

The Exchange Telegraph agency said the soldiers were men of the regular army. Their demands for the money were refused and gunfire resulted. Thereupon the master of the Kiawo signaled for assistance.

The Oahu came alongside and stood by during the night. This morning the firing was resumed by the Chinese, the dispatch said, and the American vessel silenced the raiders with its 3-inch guns and machine guns.

Subsequently the Kiawo steamed up the river with the money, passengers, and cargo of the Wanliu, the American gunboat remaining with the grounded vessel.

Delay Ruling on City's Petition in Gas Fight

Due to the inability of Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman to be present in Springfield yesterday the Illinois Commerce commission postponed a ruling on the petition of the city of Chicago for the right to inspect the books of all companies participating in the production and transportation of natural gas to Chicago. The commission will rule on its return to Chicago for resumption of the gas rate hearing on June 14.

ITALY'S AMBASSADOR STRICKEN WITH HEART ATTACK IN LONDON

LONDON, June 8 (Wednesday).—(AP)—The Daily Mail said today that Chiazamonte Bordonaro, Italian ambassador to London, suffered a sudden heart attack last night and was removed to a nursing home in a serious condition. The doctors were anxious concerning his condition, the newspaper said. He was stricken while dressing for dinner at the hotel where he was staying here.

Sig. Bordonaro had invited a large number of guests to a private dinner at the hotel where he was staying while the Italian embassy was being reconditioned.

The guests included Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, and Lady Simon, the French and Brazilian ambassadors and their wives, the Danish and Hungarian ministers, and many prominent English men and women. All were immediately informed that the ambassador's illness compelled cancellation of the dinner.

Sig. Bodonaro has been Italian ambassador in London since 1927. He is 55 years old.

Dr. G. C. Fisher to Pay Wife $25 a Week Pending Suit

Dr. George Carl Fisher, former professor in Northwestern university medical school, agreed Monday to pay his wife, Mrs. Miriam C. Fisher, 7020 Chappel avenue, temporary alimony of $25 a week, pending a hearing of his divorce bill charging cruelty on June 14. Superior Judge Joseph Sabath attempted to reconcile the couple, but his efforts were repulsed by both. Mrs. Fisher is a niece of Clifford Chickering of Pasadena, Cal., retired president of the Chickering Brothers Piano company.

TERRORISTS WHO PLOTTED TO KILL DUCE GO ON TRIAL

Held Responsible for Series of Bombings.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 7.—Closely following the arrest Saturday of Angelo Sbardolletto, young Italian anarchist, on charges of attempting to assassinate Premier Mussolini and members of the Italian royal family, the trial of Domenico Bovone and a group of other alleged terrorists began today before the special military tribunal for defense of the state.

The men are alleged to have been the authors of a series of bomb explosions which terorized Bologna, Turin, and Genoa last summer, resulting in the destruction of property and the loss of several lives.

State's Evidence Outlined.

The judicial findings of the special tribunal's examining magistrate against Bovone and his aids, who were arrested last September, allege that early last year an anti-Fascist meeting in Paris decided to have Mussolini assassinated. Those present at the meeting, it is charged, distributed large sums of money to accomplish this purpose.

Bovone and his Austrian mistress, Marguerita Blaha, who was arrested with him, appeared to be the chief perpetrators of the bombing activity. They and their accomplices were held responsible for the explosions of 12 bombs in Bologna, Turin, and Genoa during June and July last summer, the findings relate. The gang was finally trapped when a bomb exploded in the home of one of the conspirators, killing his mother.

Promised $40,000 for Slaying.

The magistrate alleges that Bovone had been given detailed instructions in Paris on how to blow up Mussolini and that he was promised a million francs [$40,000] if the plan succeeded. Bovone came to Rome last July to reconnoiter the ground around Mussolini's office and get data on his movements and habits.

Two other groups of plotters, held responsible for the distribution of anti-Fascist literature and some outrages at Domo d'Ossola and other places in northern Italy, will also be tried this week before the special tribunal. Several accused terrorists have escaped across the border.

Ovra, a voluntary secret police organizations, which has penetrated all classes of Italian society and which is said to number many thousands of men and women among its operators, uncovered many of these plots.

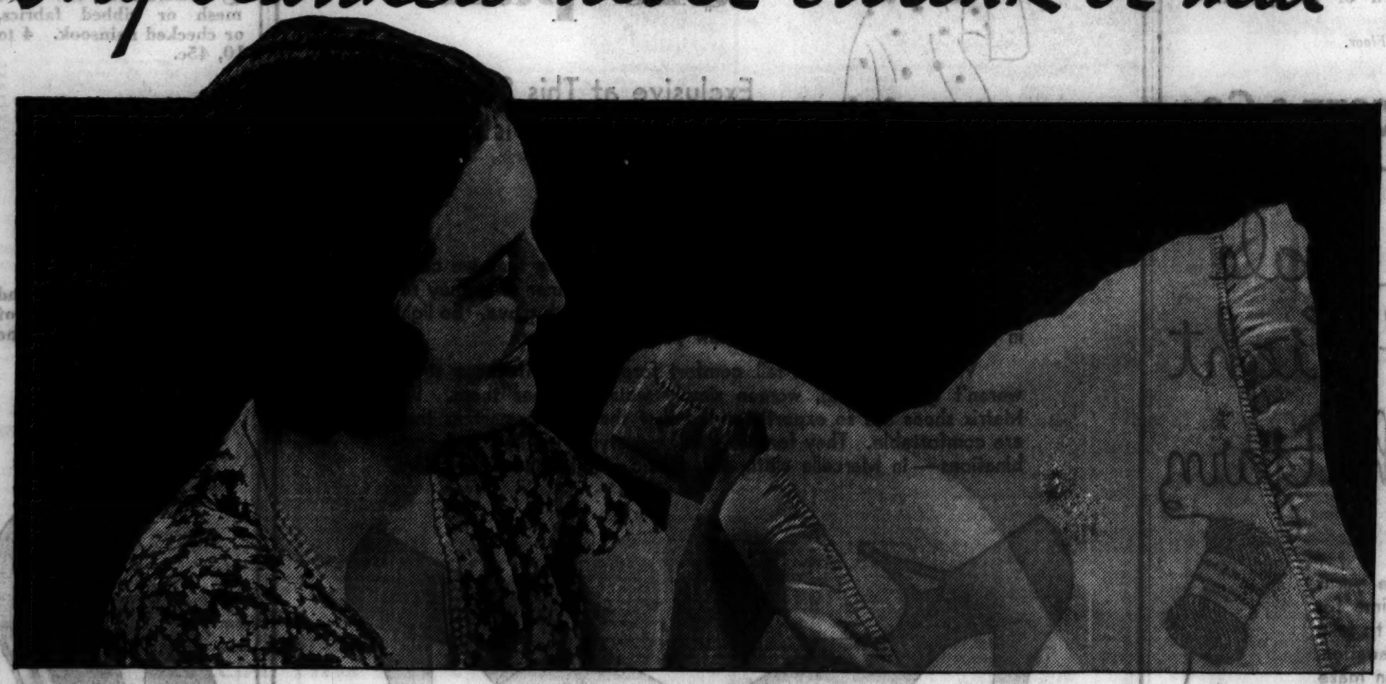
"My blankets never shrink or mat"



Save Blankets—save Money—this easy way

It preserves the ELASTICITY that keeps wool soft, "live" and new

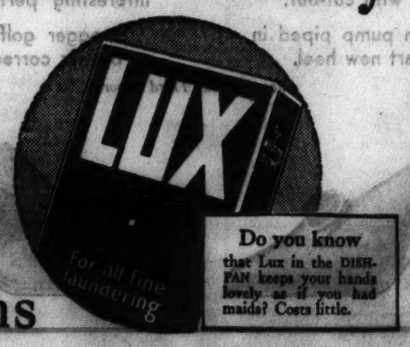
Thrifty women everywhere save money by washing their blankets in Lux. Lux is made to preserve the elasticity of wool, so the delicate fibers don't shrink and mat. That's why it keeps blankets so downy and fluffy—just like new.

LUX for woolens



Do you know that Lux in the DISH-PAN keeps your hands lovely as if you had maids? Costs little.

Wash this easy way! Make thick, lukewarm Lux suds. Lux dissolves instantly in lukewarm water. Squeeze the suds through the blanket—rinse in 3 lukewarm waters. Hang in shade, never near heat.

Never rub woolens with cake soap—this destroys elasticity, makes the fibers draw up and shrink, mats and harshens the surface.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which shrinks wool, as well as coarsens and fades it. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Sweaters and knitted things—measure before washing. After washing, shape to the original measurements, and dry flat on a board or table.

Baby woolens need especially gentle care. Always use Lux, because it contains no harmful alkali to irritate the baby's tender skin.

FRENCH CHAMBER GIVES HERRIOT BIG CONFIDENCE VOTE

Supports His Policy on Arms, Reparations.

PARIS, June 7.—(AP)—Premier Herriot was given a clear cut mandate to represent French interests at the Lausanne reparations parley and Geneva disarmament conference by a smashing vote of condence in the chamber of deputies tonight.

Declaring that his new administration was founded on a basis of close international collaboration in the fields of both economics and politics, the premier made a fervent appeal for support. It was granted by a vote of 390 to 152.

He also had pledged his government to immediate economies in the war budget.

Tardieu Assails Socialists.

The vote in support of his newly formed cabinet came from the left and well over toward the center right, including several members of the former government, despite opposition from his predecessor in the premiership, Andre Tardieu.

Tardieu, in an address strongly critical of the Socialists, said that if Premier Herriot took the same position at Geneva that Tardieu had, the former premier would support him. The Socialists, while not in the government, have given it nominal support.

Herriot replied that the ministerial declaration which he presented was clear and read again that portion on disarmament, saying that his Radical-Socialists were faithful to the security of France.

Takes Determined Stand.

Asserting that he and his colleagues would take a determined stand at the impending Lausanne reparations conference against violation of treaties and contracts, he still left the way open for reparations negotiations.

"The government is ready," he said, "to discuss any project or take any initiative likely to provoke, by reciprocity, greater world stability or peaceful reconciliations."

Premier Herriot probably will go to Geneva next Monday to review the disarmament situation and discuss the coming conference at Lausanne on war debts and reparations with leading statesmen at the seat of the league of nations.

May Alter Quota System.

One section of the ministerial address was good news for foreigners with goods to sell in France. Herriot said import quotas and protectionist measures established during the Laval and Tardieu ministries "must be conciliated with a larger measure of exchanges and international agreements."

Points in Herriot's domestic policy included: Slashing state expenditures and balancing the budget; relief for business men suffering from prohibitive taxation; a public works program to relieve unemployment and political amnesty.

A similar declaration was read in the senate by Rene Renult, minister of justice.

President Lebrun assured the country in his presidential message that he would be an impartial arbiter among the parties to enforce the constitution.

SUPREME COURT ORDERS MACHADO TO OPEN SCHOOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, June 7. — President Machado must reopen the national University of Havana and reinstate 350 members of the faculty with full pay within the next 15 days, according to a Supreme court decision today. The decision holds for the third time the Machado's decree of July 1, 1930, closing the university indefinitely and dismissing the faculty, was unconstitutional and illegal.

Carlos Miguel de Cespedes, secretary of public instruction, announced that the government is no longer interested in keeping the institution closed and will comply with the court's decision. He said he doubted, however, that the 2,500 students will return to their classes without the student council sanctioning the reopening.

The council revealed its feelings in the matter by announcing: "The students are engaged in a war to the end to overthrow President Machado and the present government. The reopening means nothing and the students will not again step into the university until Machado is ousted. All compromises are inacceptable as long as he remains president."

Cholera Breaks Out in Shanghai; 190 Cases Found

SHANGHAI, June 7.—(AP)—Cholera, the summer scourge which takes a heavy toll every year, has broken out in Shanghai, the city health authorities revealed today. Usually it does not come until the hot months, but the board of health disclosed that 190 cases had been discovered and that 13 patients were dying. In an effort to check the epidemic the authorities have innoculated 135,000 persons.

COL. LINDBERGH TO BE CALLED BY CURTIS AS A DEFENSE WITNESS

Flemington, N. J., June 7.—(AP)—Lloyd Fisher, member of counsel for John Hughes Curtis, said today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh would be summoned as a defense witness in the trial of the Norfolk, Va., boat builder June 27 for obstructing the search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Fisher said both Col. Lindbergh and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, would be called by the defense to show that Curtis did not receive a cent for his activities.

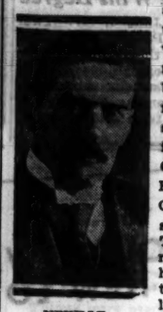
The attorney said the defense did not plan to call Dean H. Dobson-Peacock of Norfolk, an associate of Curtis, but that application had been made to the navy department to obtain the appearance of Lieut. George L. Richard, navy pilot, who took Curtis on numerous airplane trips.

COMMONS MAY UPSET U. S. DEBT PACT, M. P. SAYS

Protests Interest Rate on Payments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 7.—The suggestion that the house of commons might not allow the resumption of British war debt payments to the United States was made during spirited questioning to which Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain was subjected today. The remark was not recognized, however, because the speaker quickly ruled it out as "entirely hypothetical."



NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN. [Acme Photo.]

The tilt began when S. S. Hammersley, Conservative, asked the chancellor to explain why he had agreed to pay America 4 per cent interest on the annuity postponed by the Hoover moratorium in view of the prevailing low rates for borrowed money. Chamberlain replied that it was the rate authorized by the United States congress.

No Protest Made.

"Will you say whether any representation or protest was made in respect to this rate of interest?" Hammersley asked.

"No protest was made," was the reply.

"Was no recommendation made?"

"No."

W. Craven-Ellis, Conservative, interjected:

"In view of the fact that no protest in regard to the interest rate was made, I will not consent to a renewal of our war debt payments to America."

At this point the speaker intervened.

Reparations Put at Five Billion.

Germany's reparations payments due to the allies now amount to more than five billion dollars, according to a written answer supplied by the treasury and read in the house of commons this afternoon.

"The total payments made by or for the account of Germany to the allied and associated powers from the armistice to June 15, 1931, amount to 20,598,000,000 gold marks [about $5,149,450,000]," the statement said. "Of this total cash payments in foreign currencies amounted to 5,245,000,000 gold marks [$1,311,250,000], payments through the reparations recovery act and similar procedures amounted to 2,446,000,000 gold marks [$611,500,000], payments in German currency amounted to 1,012,000,000 gold marks [$253,000,000], and goods and services, including deliveries in kind and cessations of state properties, amounted to 11,895,000,000 gold marks [$2,973,750,000].

FIND $6,000,000 SAVING MISSED IN STRAYER SURVEY

President Myers Urges New Economies.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

President L. E. Myers will recommend to the school board this afternoon a slash of $6,671,000 of capital outlay. Nearly nine-tenths of this apparently was overlooked in the report of Dr. George D. Strayer and his associates, which report has cost Chicago $100,000.

They recommended a saving of $10,607,086 on new buildings. Of this amount they asked the elimination from the budget of $5,910,000 for new buildings. Those "new buildings" were not even in the budget. This error reduces the Strayer recommended savings to $4,697,086 on six buildings. Mr. Myers suggests that appropriations be made for contract obligations already incurred on these buildings.

Would Eliminate $4,198,744.

But Mr. Myers would eliminate $4,198,774 of appropriations for work on buildings not yet under contract, although the buildings are under construction. He also suggests that $1,198,774 of appropriations for work not yet under contract on buildings which are under construction. He also suggests the elimination of $1,109,670 appropriated for buildings not yet under construction. The Strayer group made no recommendations on these items.

On permanent improvements, the Strayer survey recommended a saving of $250,000. President Myers suggests $718,362, the entire appropriation. On the purchase of sites the Strayer group recommended a $500,000 saving. Mr. Myers urges $650,000.

Even with the cut in expense recommended by President Myers there still remains in the budget $10,761,761 to pay contractors on contracts already awarded on new buildings. Dr. Strayer recommended that $4,697,086 of this amount be eliminated from the budget.

Board to Act Today.

The board at its meeting today is scheduled to consider various recommendations of the Strayer survey. The plan is to present them in the form of resolutions to be voted upon by the trustees.

If the savings proposed by President Myers are adopted, the 1932 budget will be reduced from $90,180,263 to $83,508,457. Even that is not enough, in the opinion of Mayor Cermak, who yesterday characterized the financing of the board as "childish" and "sickly," such as "would shame a child in kindergarten just learning to count."

"If the trustees made an honest effort, without cutting teachers' salaries and without closing the schools," said the mayor, "their $90,000,000 budget would be cut to $65,000,000 or $70,000,000.

"Although I have no control of the board's actions, and am not legally bound to share its worries, I went out and borrowed $28,000,000 and loaned it to the trustees to keep the schools open. I want the teachers and other employés to know that. We felt sorry for them and other school employés who were betrayed by an irresponsible spenderbund.

"Instead of being thanked, I am snarled at and misrepresented by hangover appointees of the old city hall crowd. The school board's record of silly financing under the previous administration is enough to chill the heart of any taxpayer."

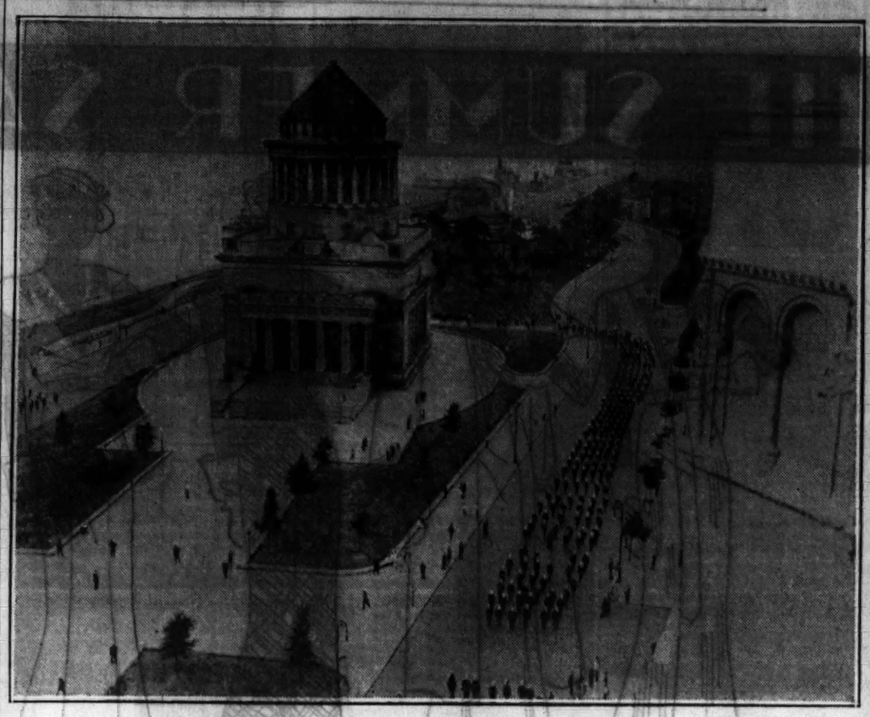
Analysis of Tax Warrants.

Along with these criticisms Mayor Cermak submitted an analysis of the school board tax warrant situation in which he said that the school board had issued $3,378,745 in 1928 and 1929 tax warrants which cannot be paid by tax collections.

"The school board," said the mayor, "will have that much paper left over in the hands of the public even if all of the taxes for the years specified are paid. The trustees spent more in the name of the taxpayers than they could ever hope to obtain by taxation.

"Now they are crying piously about their sacred duty to the dear little school children and the sacrificial teachers. After betraying both shamefully they howl again for more money than the taxpayers can scare up for them so they may continue their dizzy financing."

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR MARCH TO GRANT'S TOMB



Wearing black and gold braided uniforms and plumed hats and carrying swords, 1,500 Knights Templar, present at the 119th conclave of the New York state commandery, marched on Riverside drive Monday to Grant's tomb. They were reviewed by Mayor James J. Walker. [Associated Press Photo.]

JUDGES SHOW MORE FAVOR TO PAY CUT IDEA

Other Municipal Court Officials Make Trims.

The judges of the Municipal court for the first time yesterday indicated a willingness to consider the question of reducing their own salaries in conformity with the economy plan which has resulted in the slashing of the pay of all city hall employés and officials.

At a meeting in the chambers of Chief Justice Sonsteby the judges were addressed by Mayor Cermak, who, in emphatic language, told them that they should go along with the economy program. The mayor intimated that the judges were not gaining in public favor by offering the excuse that a salary cut was not consistent with judicial dignity.

Cermak Gives Warning.

"In these days of depression such matters as dignity don't appeal much to the people who are in actual want," the mayor declared. "The taxpayer wants his burden lifted. The city is trying to do it, and the Municipal court should help."

The judges were then informed by Clerk Joseph L. Gill and Bailiff Albert J. Horan of the court that they had arranged to make savings in their respective departments equivalent to a reduction of 48 days' pay for each employé.

The judges themselves had refused to decree more than a 21 day pay cut for the employés in these departments. The voluntary slashing by the department heads was said to have taken them aback.

Sonsteby Reveals Cut.

In a statement following the meeting Chief Justice Sonsteby revealed the cutting of pay by the department heads and remarked:

"Therefore no further action is required under the law as to the offices of clerk and bailiff."

Moreover, the chief justice appointed a committee of six judges to consider the question of a voluntary pay cut on the part of the judges. This committee is to report its conclusions at another meeting of the judges Friday afternoon.

Those appointed on the committee were Judges Edelman, Padden, and Allegretti, Democrats, and Judges Hass, Lupe, and Ehler, Republicans. All six have voluntarily taken a two weeks' pay cut. None would be quoted yesterday, but it is believed they will recommend a further pay reduction.

TEACHERS PLAN A BURLESQUE ON SCHOOL BUDGET

More than 100 teachers will present a show, "School Scandals of 1932," on Friday night at the Auditorium theater, under the auspices of the Chicago Teachers' federation. Proceeds will go to the teachers' benefit fund. One sketch will be a burlesque on the board of education balancing its budget. The theme song will be "The Pay Days That Bloom in the Spring." There will be a ballet.

The defendants are Harry A. Johnson, president of the contracting company; Floyd Knott, vice president, and four suspended employés of the city department of gas and electricity, John Muerling, electrical engineer; Eugene A. Aviation Notes

Twice a day service for air travelers between Chicago and Sioux City, Ia., has been inaugurated by United Air Lines. The air line's service has been extended to three South Dakota cities, Aberdeen, Mitchell and Huron, through bus connections at Sioux Falls and Watertown.

In the past two months the annual operating costs of American Airways have been reduced $1,200,000 and an additional $15,000 annual saving effected through the abolition of director's fees, according to L. B. Manning, vice president of the Cord corporation, a director of the air line. New schedules are to be placed on the system's southern route from Los Angeles to Atlanta, Ga.

Transcontinental and Western Air Lines have placed an order for eight Fleetster planes, eight passenger high wing monoplanes powered by Hornet motors, which cruise at 160 miles an hour. The system now has in operation a fleet of Lockheed and Northrup high speed planes.

Lake County (Ind.) Trims Judges' Pay $2,500 a Year

The commissioners of Lake county, Ind., voted yesterday to cut the salaries of the seven judges of the Circuit, Superior and Criminal courts in the county from $10,000 to $7,500 a year. The cuts become effective July 1. Three of the judges, E. Miles Norton and Martin Smith of Crown Point and M. E. Crites of East Chicago, said they considered the action of the commissioners illegal, but they and their colleagues would accept the cuts in view of the county's financial distress.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Grace Bryan Hargreaves, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan and divorced wife of Richard Hargreaves, Beverly Hills banker, filed a schedule of assets and liabilities in a personal bankruptcy case today. She listed assets at $253,831 and liabilities at $132,208. The Beverly Hills bank of which her ex-husband was president has closed its doors.

TAX COLLECTIONS IMPROVING, AUDIT OF BOOKS SHOWS

McDonough Compares '30 and '29 Payments.

The audit of County Treasurer McDonough's tax books, completed yesterday, disclosed that $143,135,793 in 1930 taxes had been paid by penalty date, June 2. This figure is 49.4 per cent of the total tax extension of $290,284,505.

At the same time the report revealed that only 68.5 per cent of the 1929 taxes has been paid in the sixteen months since they were placed in collection. The report shows that on June 6 only $178,433,981 of the 1929 levy of $260,544,670 had been collected.

A comparison of these percentages indicates that the difference in total collections for the two years is only 19.1 per cent, although 1929 taxes have been in collection for sixteen months and 1930 taxes for less than four months.

Taxpayers Trying to Pay.

"This proves that Cook county taxpayers are making every effort to meet their 1930 tax bills," the treasurer said. "The bills are being paid promptly by taxpayers who are able to pay.

"Most of the uncollected 1929 taxes are in litigation in the county courts on objections or in the Circuit and Superior courts on injunction petitions. Payment of 51 million dollars in real estate taxes alone is held up on objections. Another 10 million dollars are in forfeiture.

"The 1929 objections were filed when the taxpayers' strike was at its height. The strike now has passed its peak with the adverse decisions in the Bistor and Cisar cases, and we hope that rulings upon the pending objections soon can be had."

30 Per Cent Paid After Penalty Date.

The treasurer pointed out that since the penalty date for 1929 taxes, May 1, 1931, approximately 30 per cent of the extension has been collected. If this ratio is continued in the payment of 1930 taxes 79.5 per cent will have been collected within the next twelve months.

The tables of 1930 extensions and collections of the three classes of property taxed show:

	Extension.	Collection.	Pct.
Real estate	$221,453,099	$106,413,186	48.1
Personal ...	25,492,239	26,491,152	47.6
Railroad ...	13,340,177	10,321,455	77.4
Totals ...	$290,284,505	$143,135,793	49.4

The collections and extensions for the 1929 taxes follow:

	Extension.	Collection.	Pct.
Real estate	$202,421,528	$140,285,456	69.3
Personal ...	45,561,907	25,859,727	56.8
Totals ...	$260,544,670	$178,433,981	68.5

Salaries for the first half of March will be paid county employés on Monday, the treasurer announced yesterday. At the same time mothers' pensions for 1,500 mothers and 6,000 children will be paid and checks mailed out to jurors who served during April. The funds, amounting to $450,000, will be advanced by the treasurer in anticipation of fees from collections of taxes and from county fee offices.

75 VETS ATTEND STATE CAMP OF G. A. R. IN JOLIET

Seventy-five civil war veterans responded to roll call in Joliet yesterday when State Commander James H. Campbell of Chicago called the first session of the 66th encampment of the Illinois G. A. R. The state meeting here may be the last of the group of patriots who fought to preserve the Union. Intermingling with the veterans were some 2,000 delegates from the allied organizations of the G. A. R.

According to Commander Campbell, who is 86 years old, there are 26,000 surviving civil war veterans in the United States. At the last count Illinois had 1,046, he said, which is 315 fewer than there were at this time last year. When the G. A. R. was organized in 1866, Mr. Campbell said, there were 400,000 civil war veterans in Illinois.

The Illinois commander is in good health. He has attended every encampment since the G. A. R. inaugural session 66 years ago.

CITY WITNESS TELLS PROFITS ON PHONE SALES

The Western Electric company made an average net profits of 13.3 per cent on its sales of telephone equipment to the Illinois Bell Telephone company, and of 22.4 per cent on sales to all other customers during the eight years from 1923 to 1930, it was testified yesterday by G. W. McCann, an accountant, before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

McCann was a witness for the city, which is resisting the telephone company's petition to have a temporary injunction, issued in 1923 and restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing a lower schedule of rates for coin box telephones in Chicago, made permanent.

The Western Electric company is controlled by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which also controls the Illinois Bell Telephone company. McCann was presented as a witness by Attorney Benjamin F. Goldstein in support of the city's contention that the operating costs of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, which are a basis for rate making, have been swelled by exorbitant charges by the A. T. and T. company and others of its subsidiaries.

Attorney Goldstein charged that in the Western Electric company, some of the expenses of departments manufacturing for other customers were charged to the departments making equipment for the telephone company. This would have had the effect of reducing the net profit on sales to the telephone company, as shown on the company's books.

JURY IS ORDERED TO END RULE OF ORGANIZED CRIME

Edmund D. Adcock to Direct Special Inquiry.

Attorney Edmund D. Adcock accepted appointment yesterday as special state's attorney to direct a special grand jury investigation into highly organized gangs of criminals which are flourishing in Cook county and whose detection and prosecution have challenged the law forces of the state. Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher, in appointing Adcock, said this highly specialized criminal element "is gradually becoming deeply rooted in our social order. Jay W. Hays, president of the I. C. Bank and Trust company, was made foreman of the jury.

E. D. ADCOCK.

Grand Jury Foreman

JAY W. HAYS.

Although the chief justice directed the jury to investigate all forms of criminality, he stressed particularly those crimes committed by organized gangsters and racketeers. He also urged an inquiry into the protection afforded these crime forces through the corruption of public officials.

Judge Fisher told the jury it is not to undertake an investigation of charges of favoritism by judges in appointing receivers and attorneys—an inquiry recently undertaken by the bar association after one special grand jury had been charged with that duty.

Originates in Primary Campaign.

The investigation is the outcome of petitions filed in the heat of the April primary campaign of April. One charge was that gangsters were seeking political power and would resort to fraud and violence to elect gang supported candidates. The other had to do with judicial appointments. After jurisdiction had been taken from Circuit Judge Feinberg, who convened the first special jury which was later held to be illegal, and given to Judge Fisher no attempt was made until yesterday to outline the scope of the investigation. The present jury was impaneled by Judge Fisher in April.

"You were impanelled on the eve of a primary election," Judge Fisher said. "No pronounced evidence of irregularities in that election was brought to light. If the sole purpose of this special grand jury was to investigate fraud in that particular election there would be no further need of your services.

There Are Other Needs.

"That, however, was not the only purpose. From time to time certain definite anti-social conditions become manifest which cannot be effectively investigated by the regular grand jury. The normal volume of crime is sufficiently great to keep a grand jury occupied during its term.

"There is present in this county an element of criminality that is highly specialized, continuous in its operations and gradually becoming more deeply rooted in our social order. The members of these organized forces are not the type of criminals courts are often called to deal with. The character of their crimes, the method of their perpetrations, and the difficulties attendant upon their detection and prosecution are such as to challenge the efficiency of the system established to deal with offenders."

Seek Out Conspiracies.

The court then ordered the jury to investigate the crimes committed by these organized groups, which were described as traffic in liquor, gambling, vice, criminal control of labor unions or business associations. The jurors were told they need not attempt to reform the habits of the citizenry but are to seek out conspiracies.

Prosecutor Adcock said he does not intend to start any crusade. He said he knows that liquor is sold, that gambling exists, and that people will usually have what they want. He is not concerned, he said, with individual activities, but he wants to know who furnishes protection, if any is furnished. He said he was undertaking the task as a public duty.

Mr. Adcock between 1912 and 1918 was attorney for the sanitary district, under both Democrat and Republican régimes. He was retained afterwards as special counsel in the lake level litigation.

He said he will seek information from the crime commission, the Secret Six and other similar organizations. He expects to name one or two assistants, but said yesterday he had no particular assistants in mind as yet. It was understood he would be furnished with a staff of policemen.

President Emmett Whealan of the county board said it would be impossible for the county to appropriate any funds for the investigation. The budget has been passed and there is no provision to finance an investigation of this kind. No money will be forthcoming for at least a year, he said.

JUDGE CONVICTS TWO BANKERS OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Bains Ask a Change of Venue for Trial.

Lee A. King, former vice president and director of the closed Exchange State bank, and Karl J. Heinzelman, another former director, were found guilty of embezzlement yesterday by Judge George Fred Rush of the Criminal court, who heard the case without a jury. They face sentences of one to ten years in prison.

LEE A. KING.

King and Heinzelman were indicted with four others after the closing of the bank on Nov. 19, 1929. Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, former president of the bank and one of those indicted, fled and has not been apprehended. The others indicted are: Earl D. Phillips, who testified for the state, and Clarence C. Dunkle and John Chester Vastine, former officials. They pleaded guilty last week before Judge John Prystalski and are awaiting sentence.

Charge $250,000 Theft.

According to Prosecutors Harry Busch and Leonard Rice, the officials stole $250,000 from the bank, the money later being lost in stock market speculation. The specific charge on which King and Heinzelman were convicted involved the manipulation of a worthless note for $7,000 signed by Phillips, who was an employé of a bond house of which Heinzelman was manager.

The note was taken by King to Luckenbill at the bank and exchanged for a cashier's check, and King and Luckenbill later divided the proceeds of the check. The court held that, while Heinzelman did not share in the embezzlement, he was guilty as an accessory to the transaction.

Bains Ask Change of Venue.

A petition for a change of venue outside Cook county was filed yesterday in behalf of John Bain, head of a chain of twelve banks which failed; Bain's two sons, John H. and Robert A., and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, on the indictment charging them with conspiracy to defraud the public. The petition was filed before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher while the matter of assignment of a judge to hear the case was under discussion by the judges of the Superior court in a special meeting.

The petition alleged that the public had been inflamed against the Bain family and that therefore a fair trial could not be had in Cook county. Newspaper clippings were attached to the petition, giving accounts of the various appearances of the Bain family in courts after closing of the twelve banks. It was alleged that many of the statements conntained in the clippings were misleading and had the effect of arousing the hostility of the public against the defendants.

Affidavits were attached, presumably from investigators, who said they had talked to numerous citizens who had said "the Bains ought to be lynched" or made similar remarks.

Frank A. Mulholland and Dr. Walter Buhlig, two other defendants in the Bain bank case, did not join in the request for trial in another county.

Judge Fisher said the petition for a change of venue would not be acted upon at present. State's Attorney Swanson declared he would oppose it vigorously, as a trial outside this county would involve an additional expense of $150,000 to the taxpayers.

It had been tentatively agreed by defense counsel that the Bains would stand trial before Appellate Judge John M. O'Connor without a jury, but a complication arose because of the assignment of Judge O'Connor, who is a member of the Superior court, to the Appellate court. The Superior judges passed a resolution at their meeting yesterday to the effect that Judge O'Connor should hear the Bain case provided both prosecution and defense agreed not to raise the question of his jurisdiction to preside at the trial. Whether that resolution will decide the problem is a matter upon which Judge Fisher will rule later.

Eight jurors were chosen yesterday in the trial of Alexander and Samuel Flower, brothers and former officials of the Roosevelt Bankers' State bank, who are charged with making false statements to bank examiners. They were acquitted in one trial alleging mishandling of bank funds when their case was heard by Judge Joseph Burke without a jury. In the present trial they have offered to waive the jury but the state refused.

Woman Tries Suicide Twice and Fails; Then She Dies

Mrs. Anna Majzl, 61 years old, 1515 West 18th place, tried to end her life with gas yesterday, but was revived by a fire department rescue squad. A similar attempt five weeks ago was also unsuccessful, the police were told. Later in the day, while sitting talking to her daughter, Mrs. Majzl fell forward and died. Police believe her heart had been weakened by the two suicide attempts.

CLEVELAND FIRE DEATHS NOW 11; OTHERS MISSING

Investigate Explosion That Caused Blaze.

Cleveland, O., June 7.—[Special.]—At least 11 dead, a dozen or more missing, besides many burned and otherwise injured, was the mounting toll of the fire that early this morning left in ruins the Ellington apartment hotel, a six story brick and frame building in the heart of the city. At a late hour today but four bodies had been recovered, but seven more were sighted pinned in the still smoldering wreckage, and firemen and police were working desperately to reach them. It was announced 21 persons are unaccounted for, although some of these are thought to have escaped.

The building was a combined business and apartment block with stores on the ground floor. The stores are ruined and the floors above them have fallen in, leaving only a shell of a building standing with walls in danger of collapse.

The building is the property of Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland baseball club, and his brother, Charles L. Bradley, chairman of the Cleveland Railway company. They estimated the loss at half a million dollars, but other estimates were as high as a million.

The fire started with an explosion, and before fire fighting apparatus could get into action the entire building was a mass of flames.

Finding of several cans of alcohol in the basement led police arson squad investigators to advance a theory that the fire may have been of incendiary origin.

GIRL SUFFERS 35 BONE FRACTURES IN HER 11 YEARS

Although she has never been in a serious accident, Mary Mestdagh of Homer, Mich., has suffered so many bone fractures in the 11 years of her life that she has almost lost count of them, according to Dr. Frederick Harvey, who is studying her case at the North Chicago hospital. Only her right arm is broken at present, and that from a slight strain that did not involve even a fall, Dr. Harvey said. X-ray pictures revealed that virtually every long bone in her body has been broken one or more times, a total of between 35 and 40 fractures.

"The ailment is unusual," Dr. Harvey said. "Examination reveals that the bone structure is so extraordinarily thin and brittle that any slight stress results in a fracture. This obviously improper calcification appears to be occasioned through malnutrition of the membrane that nourishes the bone."

Dr. Harvey is now engaged in research at the hospital and at Northwestern university in quest of a cure.

KILLING CALLED JUSTIFIED.

Pana, Ill., June 7.—[Special.]—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the death of Louis Savery, 55, who was shot four times Sunday afternoon by Police Chief Steve Galvin at Assumption when Savery opened fire on the officer.

AN ELGIN VISITOR FACES COURT FOR SLAPPING A FACE

Things were peaceful in the beauty shop of the Fox hotel in Elgin yesterday morning when a woman about 40 years old entered and asked the proprietor, Mrs. Thelma Tucker, for a manicure.

Mrs. Tucker explained that all the time was taken up with appointments. The woman, a stranger, then asked to see Mrs. Tucker's signature. Having taken one look she slapped the beauty shop operator. The latter defended herself and while a struggle went on the police were called.

The stranger refused to give her name, but Mrs. Tucker signed a complaint alleging assault and battery, and the pugnacious visitor was arrested and booked by the Elgin police as "Jane Doe." A little later, under the same pseudonym, she was arraigned before Police Magistrate George R. Thompson.

Assistant State's Attorney Marcus Sternberg said he was willing to dismiss the charge, but Mrs. Tucker and her attorney objected. So the magistrate continued the hearing until Friday and permitted the defendant to be released on her own recognizance. The Elgin police said that "Jane Doe" admitted, but not for purposes of record, that she was Mrs. Fred Mitchell of 7034 Paxton avenue, Chicago.

Mrs. Anna Reis, 31 years old, of 147 Rockford avenue, Forest Park, died last night at the Oak Park hospital of poison. She drank the poison in her home. Her husband, a butcher, told the police he knew of no reason for her act.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE BILLION DOLLAR EXTORTION.

The President has signed the Hooey-Brookhart-La Guardia act imposing 1,118 million dollars of additional taxation upon the American people. The law is nicely adjusted to retard recovery and, if possible, to destroy the country. The measure was forced upon a panic stricken majority in congress by a forceful and unscrupulous handful of Reds, many of whom, at the last minute, voted against the bill apparently on the ground that it didn't do enough damage.

There was no need for any such tax measure to balance the budget. The reasonable course would have been to slash expenditures by 750 million dollars and then enact the very moderate increase in taxation which would have been required. Probably the majority in congress would eventually have arrived at some such plan had not the militant minority forced the issue with the slogan of "soak the rich." The clamor for a balanced budget unfortunately played directly into the hands of the radicals. It reduced the rest to a state of panic.

Now that the rich, if any, have been soaked, no gift of prophecy is required to foresee that the poor and the unemployed will be the chief sufferers. A few thousand or perhaps a few hundreds of thousands of jobs will be provided at government expense in a nation in which eight million are said to be unemployed; and the remaining seven million or more will find themselves farther than ever from a pay roll.

It must be so. Employment opportunities exist in industries which are making money and, conversely, new jobs are not available in industries which are losing money or in which no hope for increased profits exists. If the profits of a business are taxed away in large part no one will risk additional capital for expansion of plant or production. The risk under those circumstances isn't justified by the hope of gain. When the Reds in congress destroyed the incentive for business expansion they destroyed the hope of employment for millions of their fellow citizens.

The evidence suggests that the design was deliberate. The radical members knew precisely what they wanted and they got it. They increased the taxes on business profits to discourage new ventures. They increased the taxes on individual incomes to destroy purchasing power and prevent capital accumulations with which to finance new projects. They increased inheritance taxes to the point where cash must be hoarded to pay the tax collector in case of death. They imposed heavy excise taxes upon the automobile, radio and refrigerator industries, among others, though it is precisely in the expansion of these industries that the chief hope of business recovery lies. Their bill, taken as a whole, is devised to discourage and intimidate. It will drive money inexorably into tax exempt securities.

And that, too, is precisely what the congressional Reds want. They want the governments to run the business of the nation and they are resolved to give the governments control of the nation's surplus funds. Money invested in tax exempt securities is money placed in the hands of politicians to spend.

True, a sense of relief was felt throughout the country when the bill was enacted, but it did not arise from the belief that the bill was a good one. The country was gratified because at last the thing was done and some of the provisions were not as bad as had been feared. But it is now clear that if recovery comes it will be in spite of the worst tax bill ever foisted upon the American people in time of economic stress, a bill calculated to promote stagnation, unemployment and, for many, despair.

A BLONDE FROM THE GOLDEN WEST.

Mayor Cermak proposes to ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation to relieve the city traction fund of the municipal tax anticipation warrants and other securities which it contains in lieu of cash. If the federal government, through its finance corporation, would take over the paper which represents the borrowing from the fund, the city would have some $63,000,000 with which to begin subway construction when pending court decisions have been reached. The mayor says that just now the cash in the fund would not buy a shovel.

For the mayor's proposal it may be said that it is a modest request and sound financing if compared with other state projects for which a painted sisterhood walks the streets of Washington in the vicinity of Capitol hill. California is the chief platinum blonde. That sister thinks in the terms of Du Barry. She is getting a bill through congress for the vacation of federal domain for a right of way, and then wants something like $220,000,000 for an aqueduct to join Los Angeles subdivisions to the water of the Colorado river at Boulder dam, having already beguiled the government into giving her $165,000,000 of other taxpayers' money for the dam.

There is historical precedent for wrecking a nation to please a lady, but here is the greatest of all the gold diggers. One side glance from this blonde and congress hands over the combination to the safe. If California would get off the street and wash its face many others in the sisterhood of states might remain honest women.

THE ROCKEFELLERS CHANGE THEIR MINDS.

The fact that another American citizen announces his loss of confidence in the eighteenth amendment and gives his opinion that the policy of national prohibition is a failure is not first page news for twenty-four hours merely because that citizen is John D. Rockefeller Jr. It is because the Rockefeller interests were long regarded as the inner citadel of prohibition, and further because the traditions, habits and principles of this family in the code of social ethics could be properly taken to represent a widespread old school American sentiment.

As Mr. Rockefeller said in explaining his change of belief, his family for three generations on both sides have thought of intoxicating liquors entirely in terms of insobriety, brutishness and family tragedy. To such Americans, abstainers always, there never were any human amenities in alcoholic beverages. There are hundreds of thousands of such Americans throughout the country. The aristocratic colonial habit of using wine as an esthetic enhancement of life had not come down to them. What they saw was the frontiersman's hard drinking habits organized into a gigantic commerce in the rural as well as the industrial areas.

The Rockefellers saw the question with such eyes. Because of their great wealth they could do more against what they regarded as social evil than could the thousands or millions of others who thought as they did and who were used by the highly energized zealots to achieve the final political expression of the sentiment in the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

The legend of fabulous Rockefeller contributions to the Anti-Saloon league, John D. Jr. says, was built up on a reality of $350,000, but that's a good sized war chest and it certainly indicated an earnest conviction. The family may be taken as representative of what was most sincere in the American background of national prohibition. That is why a reversal of opinion is significant.

The family looked forward to the success of the amendment, to the disappearance of drink from the national social life, to the appearance of mores in which the use of intoxicating liquors would be as unknown as cannibalism. This future soon appeared illusory. The new generation coming along was not ignorant of the uses of alcohol but veteran in them when even in the old saloon days youth was largely untarnished by drink. The saloon took another name and was called the speakeasy. Two speakeasies appeared where there had been one saloon. The wholesaler became a crook with a machine gun. New sources of official corruption and of crime were uncovered. The habit of alcohol became worse and burst all bounds of regulation without the saving grace of self-control.

In the face of these facts the Rockefellers change their minds and, because they have been so prominently identified with the cause they know has failed, they explain their new views just before the national conventions are to consider what politics will have to say on the question.

Mr. Rockefeller in giving his recommendations takes the simple and intelligent course, which is to repeal the eighteenth amendment and return the police power to the states. The people of the various states have all been through the experience and they can judge what form of regulation best satisfies their own conditions. It will not be the same in all states. It has been great folly to make a Kansas decision the law of New York or a South Carolina social structure a design for moral order in Illinois.

If the Rockefellers speak for people who have been of the same mind with them on prohibition, who have seen eye to eye with them and who have had the same purposes in view, the repeal of the eighteenth amendment is not locked beyond approach in the unreasoning stubbornness of thirteen states whose attitude cannot be changed.

Editorial of the Day

PRESERVE POSTAL EFFICIENCY.

[Fairfield (Ia.) Ledger.]

The present activity of business and other organizations urging reductions in the cost of the federal government are attempts to solve a problem which needs attention. There seems to be no end to the ways which Washington finds to spend the people's money. This must be curbed, but not by a general outcry against everything.

When we talk about reducing governmental expense let us all be more specific. Let us realize that the postoffice department is not the place to reduce. Every city the size of Fairfield should protest against any proposal to reduce the pay of postal employés. The postal service is the best and biggest enterprise run by the government and every citizen gets his money's worth out of it every year. Let the ax fall on the frills; the bicentennials and the departments which do research work for the advantage of a small group of interests. The postoffice is for everybody. Even the year old babies get post cards and have their names in the letter carrier's directory.

Twice a month Fairfield remits its surplus postal funds to the central accounting headquarters. The recent economies have taken $6,000 away from Fairfield men and their families. It would have been spent in this city. To please the congressmen and others at Washington, the Fairfield postal windows are closed half of the time, and mail is delayed so that this city can send an additional $6,000 back to Washington to be spent on fancy frills.

If the proposed additional salary cuts for postal employés are carried out, Fairfield men will have another $6,000 cut, or a total of $12,000 a year. This is money that originates in Fairfield and will be withheld from local employés. It will be used to bolster up other governmental departments, some of which are a dead loss, having outlived their usefulness.

Cutting pay of postal employés will not lighten the taxes of any Jefferson county resident so much as the weight of a hair. At the same time to take $1,000 a month out of the purchasing power of postal employés will mean something to the community. This is not somebody else's money, but the postal revenue which originates in Fairfield which would be diverted from local employés to keep more clerks on department pay rolls at Washington.

Let us have economy at Washington, and all down the line, but let us first, courageously, take it out of the acknowledged governmental luxuries and frills. This done, the postal service will not be curtailed nor employés made to work on part time. Postal appropriation cuts are simply curtailments of service. Horizontal cuts, made by congressmen with their eyes shut, are anything but fair and equal. Let us protest against this lumping of the postoffice department in with all supernumerary and superannuated bureaucracy of Washington.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

OH, GREAT! UNLOAD 'EM ON THE REDS.

Red Russia, just when it claims to have shaken off the shackles of conventionalism and tradition, does what? It orders a gigantic statue of Lenin overlooking Leningrad harbor. And one of the most dreadful heritages of the capitalistic governments that give the soviets such a pain in the neck is the disposition to build horrible monuments to the great and the near great. The one hope we had of bolshevism was that it would teach the world there is some better way of honoring the eminent departed than setting up statues of them. But if Red Russia is out for statues here is a grand place for other nations to unload. The U. S. could ship Russia many shiploads of statues that they could put up all over the place. Right here in Chicago we've got statues of the great that the Reds could put up and say they're Lenin statues. Of course, the statues don't look like the late Mr. Lenin, but they probably look as much like Lenin as they do anybody else, so why not do it?

NEIGHBOR.

She sits there at her window,
Looking out,
And you wonder what it is She's thinking about.

You know she isn't staring
At any one thing,
For nothing ever happens
That's interesting.

There's just a row of houses
Along our street,
And just the kind of people
You always meet.

I wonder what she's seeing
That we can't see
In such a quiet street
As ours seems to be.

FERRY ADAMS.

LONDON is bubbling with excitement over what the newspapers are joyously calling "the cocktail murder." Let us, friends, rejoice that owing to the beneficent 18th amendment we have no cocktails in these United States of America, and consequently no murders. Lykell, lykell, lykell!

MAN MAY BE STEPPING BACK from his former proud eminence in the world and giving place to woman, but, gosh, you've got to hand it to him, he's still brave. A Chicago gentleman told his girl friend she was too fat. Said girl friend promptly shot at him five times. "Yeah," said the hero after the target practice was over, "you're too fat to shoot straight." And the lady still had her gun. We request the Carnegie medal for this hero, please.

AND WHILE THE DRYS as usual say "pooh, pooh, who cares for the Rockefellers?" the fact is that they have contributed $350,000 to the crusade for the sacred 18th. And it does look to an outsider that with the source of all that money dried up as far as the drys are concerned the onward and upward movement of the sacred 18th gets an awful kick in the pants.

AND NOW THAT JOHN D. JR. gets up and walks right out on the drys, the question arises, who next? We are waiting for the next gentleman or lady who helped put over national prohibition and who gave heaps of money to the cause and who will see the light as John D. Jr. has seen it. Who will it be? There must be somebody all ready. Who is it, please? Is Mr. Henry Ford in the audience?

"SEN. JONES declares in radio speech that congress is really making efforts to economize." Oh, ho! so that's what congress is doing! We thought they were just having fun, the little rascals.

ANYHOW we discover that there is something to be thankful for in the long list of new taxes we're going to be called on by the government to pay. Gifts valued at ten million dollars and over will be taxed 33⅓ per cent, but we so seldom give such expensive presents even at Christmas that this tax won't hurt us at all. O, joy!

In Appreciation.

Cascades of laughter have been poured
Over the footlights . . . clapping of hands . . .

There has been the zestful click
Of tap, tap, tap,
And the young acrobats
Have moved in rhythmic, muscular accord.
The colorful swirl and swish
Of silk, tulle, and taffeta
Has foamed about the ballet dancers.
But now the hall is dark.

The curtain parts—reveals—
A single candle flame,
And onto the twilit stage there steals,
Dancing, one little gray moth,
fluttering softly,
wistfully,
then more daringly,
in her delight.
For her, there is no death, no night,
Just . . . light . . .
For her, of this alone, the candle sings . . .

The music slows, the curtains close,

PIERROT.

AND WHILE there is so much excitement over what the two national conventions will do about wine, beer, and hard likker, let us hope that some delegate may slip in a word or two about money.

THE SLUGGISH LIVER MYTH.

S. WRITES: Please tell us what will benefit those with sluggish livers.

REPLY.

Sluggish liver is one of those alibi terms invented by persons who want to discuss forbidden subjects and, in order to do so without giving offense, call a spade a garden implement.

Perhaps some day we may know enough about the liver to recognize a condition that can be properly called sluggish liver. As it is, the term is poorly chosen. The liver is located in the abdomen, close to the digestive apparatus, but it has very little to do with digestion and elimination.

Food is digested by the salivary juice, the juices of the stomach and intestines, and that of the pancreas. The juice of the liver, called the bile, has a little to do with digestion, but not much. It stimulates other secretions; it helps with fats; it keeps down bacterial action, and it promotes peristalsis; but these are small items in comparison with the work of the digestive juices.

The great work of the liver has to do with the products of digestion. It takes the mill-run stuff, sorts out the valuable part and works it into shape for the tissues to use. The digestive apparatus converts starch into sugar. The liver takes the sugar and puts it into a form in which it can be stored or properly used according to the need of the moment.

It is a great reservoir into which fat is stored and from which it is drawn. It takes the products of the digestion of proteids and makes them into safe foods convenient for use. It has something to do with the making of blood, but the chief blood factory is the bone marrow; and it has more to do with the salvaging of old blood. The principle that has to do with the prevention of the kind of blood destruction that we call pernicious anemia either is made in the liver or else is made in the stomach and stored in the liver.

The liver is the great factory for secondary fabrication, working the half finished products of the digestive tract into a condition in which they can be used. This organ is the great protecting agent of the body. It is there to stop poisons, that they may not enter the general blood stream and reach the brain, the heart, and other pivotal organs.

Nor has the liver much to do with elimination. The people who use the term sluggish liver are speaking of constipation. Probably the liver has about as much to do with constipation as the kidneys, and no more. It is true the bile has a slightly laxative action and that it promotes peristalsis. But most of the bile is reabsorbed before the waste reaches the sigmoid colon. On the other hand, the fluids in the body are thrown off by the skin, lungs, kidneys, and bowels. If the kidneys are overactive and too much water is drained out there is a tendency to constipation. If the liver is sluggish, whatever that may mean, it does not follow that constipation will result.

You may be interested in the liver, but I doubt it. You probably are interested in constipation and, assuming you are, that will be tomorrow's theme.

FORMING A BAD HABIT.

Mrs. R. P. S. writes:

1. Would a tablespoonful of castor oil be harmful to a three year old boy if used every other night?

2. Would the use of enemas be better if nothing else relieves the constipation except castor oil? Does the constant use of enemas cause piles?

REPLY.

1. Yes. Don't start that boy off in life with the constipation habit.

2. I don't think it would, but don't start him off with the enema habit, either. Overcome his constipation by training. Try giving him a glass of warm, normal salt solution before breakfast; a diet of fruits, vegetables, butter, salads, oils, sour milk, milk sugar, molasses, and perhaps agar.

PROBABLY DUE TO PRESSURE.

Miss C. L. writes:

I am troubled with a numb feeling that starts in my toes and gradually works itself up the entire legs.

Is this serious?

REPLY.

The probability is that this is due to pressure. It may result from your bed, or chair; your position in sleeping, or sitting, or your clothing. X-rays may show some bony pressure somewhere. It is not likely, but you may have some spinal cord disease.

HAIR REMOVAL.

Mrs. E. N. B. writes: Is it true that electric treatments for the removal of hair promote hair growth on some persons? From contact with those who have had such treatments I have noticed some seem to be worse after the treatment. If this is so what is the reason?

REPLY.

I don't think so. Unless the work is properly done, it is likely to be ineffective. However, it is harmless.

YELLOW JAUNDICE.

Miss S. H. H. writes:

What are the causes of yellow jaundice?

What are the symptoms?

Is it contagious?

Can it be cured?

What is the cure?

REPLY.

Jaundice is a symptom and the answer to your questions depends on the disease causing it. Among them are cancer, gall stones, cirrhosis of the liver, infection of the bile ducts, yellow fever, and malaria. Yellow fever, malaria, and infective jaundice, or Weil's disease, are contagious in certain senses. The others are not.

DEPENDS ON THE CAUSE.

I. G. writes:

1. What causes glaucoma?

2. Is it contagious or infectious?

REPLY.

1. In glaucoma there is too much fluid in the eyeball. There is both acute and chronic glaucoma and primary and secondary glaucoma. Inflammation of the choroid is one important cause. There are many others. The outlook in a given case depends on the kind of glaucoma and its cause.

2. No.

IT IS A BAD HABIT.

Mrs. C. J. M. writes: Is it a harmful habit to take a quarter of a teaspoonful of baking soda in a glass of water every night before retiring?

REPLY.

It is.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 8, 1916.

CHICAGO.—Theodore Roosevelt will be invited to Chicago to reunite formally the factions of the party he split in 1912 if an agreement on a fusion nominee can be reached by the Republican and Progressive leaders in a series of conferences that will begin today. This project failing, the present prospect is that Justice Hughes will win the Republican nomination and, of course, the Moose will name the Colonel. Then will come another question: Will either or both accept?

CHICAGO.—The Progressive national convention opened in the Auditorium theater and, in one of the wildest demonstrations ever staged in a national political meeting, made plain that it will nominate Roosevelt for President. For an hour and a half after Raymond Robins, temporary chairman, uttered the name of Roosevelt in his first paragraph the delegates yipped and yelled, screamed, sang, tore up stanchions and state standards, danced, fought, ran up and down the aisles, all to the ceaseless cadence of "We Want Teddy." The Republican national convention, far more decorous, met for two and a half hours in the Coliseum and adjourned until today after hearing the keynote speech by Senator Harding of Ohio, and doing the usual preliminary organization work.

CHICAGO.—In a downpour of rain, more than 5,000 women marched a mile and a half from the Tower building down Michigan avenue and to the Coliseum to prove to the resolutions committee of the Republican national convention that they want the suffrage. Of the 5,341 persons in the parade, 4,921 were on foot and 420 were in automobiles. One of those in the automobiles was Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, honorary president of the National American Woman Suffrage association. It almost broke her heart to ride, but the national board insisted she do so because of the weather.

EUROPEAN WAR SUMMARY.—The army of the German crown prince has captured the whole of the fort of Vaux, one of the strongest of the outposts of Verdun, lying only six miles to the northeast of the city proper. The Russians have broadened their new offensive against the Austrians in East Galicia and have increased the number of their prisoners to 40,000 men.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor is Alfred S. Romer, professor of vertebrate paleontology.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What do we know about the antiquity of man?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What are dinosaurs? Why did they become extinct?

ANSWER:

The dinosaurs comprised a vast array of reptiles now entirely extinct. Some grew to be the largest animals that ever walked (some living whales are still larger), but others were no larger than a rooster. Some were fast running carnivores as high as a two story house, the greatest beasts of prey that ever existed on land, but the majority of dinosaurs were harmless plant feeders. Many of these inoffensive giants protected themselves with armor plates or horns. Others sought refuge in swamps and lagoons, and there developed into ponderous forms, weighing as high as 50 tons in one instance.

The last of the dinosaurs disappeared millions of years ago. What killed them? Perhaps the Rocky mountains. At that time great mountain ranges, of which the Rockies were the most conspicuous, were pushed up out of the earth. Climates changed and the plants upon which the great reptiles fed disappeared. Too "set" to change, the herbivores vanished, and necessarily the flesh eaters which preyed upon them followed them into oblivion.

AUTOMATIC RENEWAL.

Chicago, June 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In January, 1931, we signed a lease, short form No. 373, for the rent of a store for one year at $50 a month with an option for the second year at $60. In November we notified the landlord we would be unable to pay $60, and if he wanted us to we would move. We finally settled on $45 a month, but signed no lease. Now we find we can rent a store in the same block, somewhat smaller, for $25. Due to business conditions we feel unable to pay the $45. 1. Is our lease still binding if the landlord wants to hold us? If we get a receipt from him "paid in full" to date of removal, [2] are we free to move? The lease is marked "Exp. Dec. ', '31."

W. E. C.

1. Yes.

2. You would remain liable. Where a tenant under a lease for a definite term holds over beyond the term and the landlord accepts additional rent, these circumstances, in the absence of other circumstances showing a contrary intent on the part of the landlord, result in a renewal by implication, so that neither party can terminate the tenancy nor increase the rent during such renewal.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS UNPAID.

Chicago, June 3.—[Friend of the People.]—I would appreciate any information that you may have as to when Kimball avenue will be paved between Wellington and Milwaukee avenues.

H. W. T.

Please be advised that this street will be paved some time this year provided the property owners do not protest. The opening of Kimball avenue between Diversey avenue and Wellington avenue has held up the paving of this street and the delay was due to several property owners not paying their special assessments for this opening. It is with the moneys received from special assessments of this street that the awards are paid. It is necessary that all the awards be paid and the city obtain an order of possession before the street is paved.

THE PATENT OFFICE DEFENDED.

Chicago, May 24.—In the May 14 edition of THE TRIBUNE there appeared an editorial entitled "Just One Government Office," in which was quoted at length a letter written by some unnamed patent lawyer, containing criticisms of the patent office which in our opinion are unwarranted.

In order to fairly judge of the work and procedure in the patent office it is necessary to consider the great, and necessarily ever increasing, volume of work which it does.

There have been granted by the United States patent office 1,840,000 patents for inventions [not including design patents], of which more than one million have been granted in the last twenty-five years. As the examination of each application for a patent involves a consideration of all the preceding patents relating to the same subject matter, it is evident that at present more than twice as much work is involved in examining an application as was involved twenty-five years ago.

During the decade ending June 30, 1920, the number of applications for patents, reissues, designs, trade marks, prints and labels totaled 807,553, while during the decade ending June 30, 1930, the total was 1,098,085, an increase amounting to 290,532, or 35 per cent.

The United States patent system is not intended to produce revenue, and in that respect differs from the patent systems of most other countries, yet at the end of the last fiscal year, namely, June 30, 1931, there was a surplus in the United States treasury to the credit of the patent office of $5,616,827, representing the difference between the fees paid by applicants for patents and the expenses of running the patent office.

The large surplus in receipts over expenditures has accumulated notwithstanding the fact that the fees charged for the granting of patents are extremely low, especially in comparison with the expenses of securing and maintaining patents in foreign countries. Until a few years ago, the fee payable upon the filing of an application was only $15, and the final fee payable upon the allowance of the application only $20. A few years ago in pursuance of the policy of our patent system to make the patent office self-sustaining, the fees were increased to $25 upon filing an application and $25 upon the allowance of the application. The increase therefore was only 43 per cent, much less than the increase in the amount of work required of the patent office in granting a patent during the last twenty-five years.

The rules of practice in the patent office are substantially the same as they have been for more than forty years, except that amendments have been made from time to time, as rendered desirable by changing conditions, such as the ever increasing numbers of applications, interferences, records which must be kept available for reference, and granted patents which must be carefully classified. Such amendments have rendered the procedure less complicated and increased the efficiency of the administration of the patent office.

The patent section of the American Bar association and the various patent law associations in numerous cities are mindful of the increasing complexities and the consequent need to change the procedure in the patent office to render it less complicated, and in their endeavors they have had the full coöperation and assistance of the officials of the patent office. Many beneficial changes have been effected, among which might be mentioned reducing the number of appeals, simplification of interferences proceedings, and the creation of a board of supervising examiners to make a more uniform practice in the sixty-three examining divisions. The work in the patent office has necessarily at times been considerably in arrears, due to the tremendous increase in volume and to the number of examiners being insufficient. However, during 1931 the number of applications awaiting action by the patent office was reduced to 60 per cent of those awaiting action during the preceding year.

LIMITED CAPITALISM.

Chicago, June 4.—After long study of capitalism, Marxism and other isms I have arrived at the conclusion that we can, by enforcing a limitation on greed, make our present system work very satisfactorily. I hereby coin the phrase "Limited Capitalism," by which system the amount of the world's goods that any individual can accumulate shall be limited to some arbitrary amount, or better yet, that the individual's income shall be limited to some reasonable amount. The reason for this is that there are 120 million people in this land and the national income, as large as it is, is limited, and some gesture toward a sensible buying power should be made. An individual with an income so immense that he cannot put same back in circulation is responsible for the collapse of our past unlimited capitalism.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

Stevens Point, Wis., June 3.—Will you please advise your readers as to the right of the President or congress to establish an office or create a commission for the purpose of loaning or giving away the people's money? Call it what you may, the fact still remains that the two billions of dollars that is being loaned to the railroads is simply a gift to the Wall street sharks, and Mr. Hoover must know that not one dollar will ever be paid back to this government. It is great to be a Santa Claus when one can give away that which belongs to others.

HIS COMMITTEE KNIFES LONG'S PET TAX BILLS

Kingfish Has Bad Day at Public Hearing.

New Orleans, La., June 7.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana's kingfish, was happy from 8 o'clock until 8:30 o'clock this morning. After that he spent rather an unpleasant day. Taxpayers of Louisiana had been allowed to attend a public hearing on Senator Long's bills increasing taxes. The meeting opened at 8 o'clock and there was only a handful present. The Kingfish arose and, waving his hands over his senate's finance committee and pointing to the empty hall, shouted:

"Where are those thousands of protesting taxpayers? It's the damndest outrage I ever heard. Here I sat up all night figuring on a speech and now I ain't got no audience. Why, I've seen bigger crowds at a skin poker game."

About the time the senator was warming up in his best kingfish style, the taxpayers began to arrive. They said it was a little early for them as, due to the high taxes, they were not able to obtain rapid transportation. They came on foot, on trains, and by automobile. And then the fireworks started. The hall was soon jammed to overflowing.

Taxpayers Give Their Side.

Charles O'Brien, who represented the Taxpayers' association, opened up.

"We insist," he said, "that there be a reduction in the cost of government. We cite the salaries of our public officials. We demand a blanket cut of from twenty to twenty-five per cent. We do not know where these new tax funds are going, maybe they are going to be used in Senator Long's September campaign to elect his man to the senate or in the mayoralty campaign in New Orleans, no one knows. I want to ask Gov. Long how much money it took to operate his state during his four years as governor."

Dr. Curry Cappel, another speaker, asked Long, "Who are you representing here?"

Long slammed the table, "The people of Louisiana who have elected me," he shrieked.

Dr. Cappel answered. "Your presence here running things must mean that the gentleman sitting over there," pointing to Gov. Allen, "does not mean much."

Knifed by Own Committee.

At this juncture the finance committee ruled that personalities must cease, but the criticisms continued. Dr. Jackson of Baton Rouge charged that the tax funds were going "to support Long's machine and a lot of broken down politicians." Long, shouting, hurled vituperative comment back at his critics, but, nevertheless, the Kingfish's own finance committee decided that the taxes proposed by him were too high and made a tremendous slash in them. Several of the items were cut more than one-half.

Tonight five bills have been put in the hopper cutting salaries. Long says, however, "I'll pass my bills. This state is going to be run as a state should be run for the benefit of the people."

PROCESS SERVER GETS ARRESTED FOR HIS ENERGY

William Blatt, 21 years old, of 501 Surf street, a process server, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct last night because of his energy in serving a summons on Mrs. Margaret Collins, 3100 Sheridan road, head of the Tower Town shelter at 666 North Wells street.

She was driving north in Wells street when at Oak street Blatt cut his car in ahead of hers and forced her to stop. Then, she charged, he took the ignition keys from the lock and threw them in the street.

Policemen Joseph Fogarty and Walter Marian noticed the commotion and ran up as Blatt served Mrs. Collins with the summons. On her complaint that Blatt had hit her while jerking out the auto keys, the police booked him. He will be arraigned in court this morning, and will be defended by the law firm of Gottlieb & Schwartz, for which he works. Attorney U. S. Schwartz, a member of the firm, said that the summons served on Mrs. Collins was for an action in which a bank is suing on a note.

Try $50,000 Suit Against Son of John P. Harding

James P. Harding, son of John P. Harding, restaurant owner, appeared in the court of Superior Judge Frank Hayes yesterday as defendant in a $50,000 damage suit brought by Theodore Schwitzner, 28 years old, 2926 North Rockwell street, for injuries incurred in an automobile accident on April 19, 1931. Schwitzner, formerly a street car conductor, charged that his left leg was amputated as a result of injuries he received when Harding's sedan crashed into the rear of a street car at Clark street and Sunnyside avenue. Schwitzner, who was connecting a trolley from the ground, was crushed between the street car and the auto.

EMMERSON ACTS TO SETTLE MINE WAGES IN STATE

Relief Commission Urges Governor's Action.

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—[Special.]—At the request of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission Gov. Emmerson today reopened negotiations to fix a wage scale for Illinois coal miners. The commission urged that a new wage agreement be reached to save the state the expense of supporting some 50,000 miners and their families, who have been idle since the old scale expired on April 1.

JOHN H. WALKER.

The scale conferences will be reopened here Thursday. Invitations to resume negotiations were accepted by both John H. Walker, state president of the United Mine Workers, and W. J. Jenkins of St. Louis, acting president of the Illinois Coal Operators' association.

Reports Called "Pure Rumors."

Reports that the union officials are prepared to sign a wage agreement embodying a 30 per cent reduction from the old scale of $6.10 a day were characterized as "pure rumor" at the Chicago headquarters of the coal operators. Officials of the operators' association expressed hope that the rumor was true, but said they had received no communication from the union heads.

Those conversant with the situation said that the governor's intercession makes prospects of a wage agreement and the resumption of work in the Illinois coal fields brighter than at any time since the old scale expired.

Only Few Thousand Work.

Only a few thousand union miners in Illinois have had any work since the old wage agreement expired and attempts to adopt a new scale failed. They have been working at the old scale under temporary agreements.

Continued shutdowns of the Illinois coal mines add daily to the ranks of unemployed and to the distress of a large number of the state's citizens, the report of the relief commission to Gov. Emmerson points out. Many of these people, lacking funds of their own, have to be supported at the expense of the taxpayers, it was stated.

"Every effort must be made to relieve the distress of the unemployed by providing relief where necessary," the report states, "but far preferably by providing employment where this is possible."

SEVEN ACCUSED OF BANK HOLDUP ALL IN CUSTODY

The entire band of seven men sought for the holdup of the Beverly State Savings bank, 103d and Loomis streets, was in custody yesterday with the arrest of Tony Lococo, 23 years old, 1243 Maple avenue, Berwyn. He was seized at Western avenue and Wilcox street on information given to the police by men previously arrested. The bank was looted of $6,000 on May 31.

Five of the alleged bandits, who were arrested Sunday, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $10,000 each by Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court. Paul Leonardi, 22 years old; Anthony Fornato, 21; Pasquale Zapiro, 20, and Sam Clementi, 26, were held as principals, and Wilford Corriveau, 45 years old, 9127 South Irving avenue, was charged with sheltering the gang and was held as an accessory.

The other alleged member of the band is Tony Digiroloma, 30 years old, 2436 Adams stret, who was arrested Monday night as he left the home of Attorney Miles J. Devine at 5400 Washington boulevard.

LABORER KILLED BY TRAIN.

Joseph Perry, 50 years old, 7135 South Hoyne avenue, a laborer, was fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by an express train at West Seventy-fifth street.

Six Injured as Roof of Loop Building Collapses

Six persons suffered minor injuries yesterday when the cornice and part of the roof of a four story building at the northeast corner of Clark and Van Buren streets collapsed. Most of the wreckage fell into the alley behind the building. The passersby on the sidewalk who were hurt by falling bricks were Michael J. Friedman, 420 Surf street, who suffered a possible fracture of the shoulder; Miss Loretta Bradley, 1641 North Paulina street; George and John Palmer, both of 505 West Madison street; Mrs. Caryl Wilbur, Congress Park, and Gus Stevens, 5407 Crystal street.

TILTON ADMITS HE KNOWS LITTLE OF PHYSIOLOGY

Doctors Deny Stories of Defense Witnesses.

Old Doc Lester Tilton yesterday concluded two and one-half days of testimony in the trial of himself and two others charged with conspiracy to violate the medical practice act with admissions that he knew little of physiology or anatomy.

LESTER TILTON.

Under cross-examination by Prosecutor Charles A. Bellows Tilton retreated from his statement on direct testimony that failure to drink sufficient water was a cause of cancer.

"I merely claim it seems to me that way," Tilton asserted. "Lack of sufficient water drinking causes a lot of diseases. How much one should drink to be healthy is a matter of conjecture."

Doctors Guide Questioning.

Bellows was guided in his examination by Dr. Max Cutler, head of the tumor clinic at Michael Reese hospital and of the cancer division at Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. Dr. Cutler will take the stand for the state in rebuttal, as will Dr. Francis Carter Woods, director of the Crocker laboratory of Columbia university, New York City.

It is probable that Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, chief of the surgical department of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, and considered one of the foremost cancer authorities in the world, also will testify for the state.

Dr. Bloodgood was abroad lecturing before a Paris medical group when a request reached him to testify. He canceled his lecture engagements and is now returning home aboard a liner which is expected to dock in time to have him arrive here before the rebuttal ends.

State Calls Physicians.

The case of Tilton and his codefendants, Dr. Joseph Duffy and Harry de Joannis, closed when Tilton left the stand. The state opened its rebuttal by calling three physicians, Dr. F. O. Kerschner of Clinton, Ia.; Dr. Edwin C. Turner of Savannah, Ill., and Dr. Ralph F. Luse of Lovmoor, Ia., to impeach the testimony of three defense witnesses, who said they had consulted these physicians before going to Tilton, who formerly operated in Clinton. The physicians denied consultations with any of the witnesses concerned.

LOCK UP FARM FAMILY, STEAL HIDDEN $1,000

Four men who said they were prohibition agents yesterday robbed August Meier, a farmer living near Peotone, 14 miles north of Kankakee, of $1,000 which he had hidden in the barn.

They failed to find a larger hoard, the remainder of $25,000 which Meier received recently for a parcel of land. There had been gossip in the neighborhood after the sale that Meier had not deposited the money in the bank.

"We're prohibition agents from Chicago," the robbers told Meier when they appeared on the farm. "We want to look about a bit."

They then locked the farmer, his son-in-law and the latter's family, and a hired man in the house, and searched the basement and the barn until they came upon the package of bills.

Harvey Citizens Protest $260,000 Tiling Project

At a massmeeting of Harvey citizens last night, protests were voiced against a proposed assessment of $260,000 for the tiling of two and one-half miles of drainage ditch. The proposal was made recently by the Calumet Union Drainage district, No. 1. Fred A. Duckrow, newly elected commissioner, branded the plan as a scheme to fill the commission's treasury. Attorney John Yates promised the audience that an injunction suit will be started against the spreading of the assessment.

2 Sentenced to Pontiac for Kidnaping of Girl

Joseph Kansky, 19 years old, 1500 Walton street, and Stanley Zurek, 20 years old, 1368 Sloan street, were sentenced to one to five years in the Pontiac reformatory yesterday for the kidnaping of Miss Wylma Scharr, 22 years old, a waitress. Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court passed sentence after hearing testimony that Miss Scharr was dragged from the automobile of her escort, Max Rajewski, a furrier at 190 North State street, on May 1 and taken to Kansky's apartment.

TRANSIT EXPERT DEFENDS BAN ON PARKING IN LOOP

Opposes Merchants' Plea for Repeal.

BY HAL FOUST.

E. J. McIlraith, traffic engineer for the Chicago Surface Lines, testified before the traffic committee of the city council yesterday that the ban on curb parking in the loop has increased the number of pedestrians, automobiles and street cars able to enter the business district. He cited statistics in opposition to a proposed ordinance sponsored by downtown merchants to return parking to the business district as it was prior to 1923.

E. J. McILRAITH. [Russell Photo.]

The committee, headed by Ald. John Massen [48th], continued the hearing until tomorrow morning when Leslie Sorenson, city traffic expert, is to testify.

Sorenson has traffic counts showing that the number of persons visiting the loop in a twelve hour day dropped from 870,859 in 1926 to 843,010 in 1931, a decrease of 3.2 per cent. However, the number arriving by automobile increased 22.5 per cent. The buses showed a gain of 4.76 per cent and the steam roads a gain of 1.74 per cent, while the elevated lost 25.2 per cent and the surface lines 1.27 per cent.

Argues for Parking Ban.

"If the object of the merchants is to gain more trade from automobile owners," said Mr. McIlraith, "they are getting it as a result of the no parking regulation. A larger per cent of their customers are coming by automobile than ever before. They have the figures, taken last year, if they want to present them to this committee.

"Storage facilities in garages and lots in the business area have increased from 8,732 cars in 1926 to 23,317 cars in 1932. The available space at curbs before the enactment of the no parking ordinance accommodated less than 1,300 automobiles.

"The loss of business by loop merchants has been due to the general depression. The parking ban had nothing to do with it. In 1926, with parking permitted in the loop, a large department store had 54,000 visitors in a single day and only 354 of these came by private automobile.

Cites One Building as Example.

"Let's consider the Republic building as an example. If each merchant in the building were to receive his portion of the trade from cars that could park at its curb space, the retailer would get one customer from this source every 6.7 days.

"The parking restrictions save two minutes for each 300,000 street car riders, not to mention the saving in time to pedestrians and to motorists. It would be a backward step to return to the delays, hazards, and confusion of parking in the loop."

Ald. John Coughlin [1st], who introduced the ordinance to permit thirty minute loop parking, charged that the traffic regulation was responsible for putting downtown hotels in receiverships. Mr. McIlraith said that the hotels, before the present ordinance was enacted, had prohibited parking around their properties.

25 HURT AS EXPRESS TRAIN CRASHES INTO DERAILED FREIGHT

Deans, N. J., June 7.—(AP)—Between 25 and 30 persons were injured when an Atlantic City to New York express train crashed into a derailed freight just west of here tonight.

The locomotive and first three cars of the six car express plunged over an eight foot embankment.

Hurry calls brought ambulances and physicians from News Brunswick, five miles east of here.

The engineer of the express train suffered fractures of both legs. The fireman was also seriously hurt.

EGAN GIVES UP ON CHARGE OF KILLING WOMAN

San Francisco, Cal., June 7.—(AP)—Frank J. Egan, ousted public defender, surrendered here today to answer a charge of murdering his benefactress, allegedly to gain control of her estate.

Missing since Saturday, just before the county grand jury indicted him and two of his followers for the murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, Egan walked into a district police station and calmly submitted to arrest 24 hours after the time set by his attorney, Vincent W. Hallinan, for the surrender.

Egan denied reports he had threatened to "tear the police department wide open" if he were arrested.

Chief William J. Quinn asked the prisoner if he had anything to disclose that might show crookedness on the part of any member of the department and Egan answered negatively. Previously Hallinan and Egan had repeatedly insisted the public defender was being "framed" by the police.

Egan was locked behind the bars from which he had freed many men in his 11 years as public defender.

A shuffling line of prisoners filed past. Among them was Albert Tinnin, former convict who had worked for Egan as a process server and who was named by Verne Doran, the public defender's erstwhile chauffeur, as one of the murderers of Mrs. Hughes.

Elsewhere in jail was Doran, who, according to his own confession, plotted with Egan and Tinnin to kill Mrs. Hughes more than a month ago.

Doran's confession said he and Tinnin killed Mrs. Hughes by knocking her unconscious and running over her prostrate form with an automobile in the garage of her home "because Egan told us to do it."

Although Egan allegedly had told acquaintances he was a beneficiary of Mrs. Hughes' will and life insurance policies, he refused to produce those documents when subpoenaed to the coroner's inquest for that purpose. He also refused to say whether he had them or where they were.

SICK, DEPRESSED. Constipation a daily trouble. Such cases are so often needless, physicians say!

DR. ERNST L. BLUMANN, head of the celebrated Buelow Hospital, in Berlin, Germany, says: "I always prescribe fresh yeast for constipation." Read his own description below of a very typical case.

TRY YEAST* YOURSELF! Three cakes a day will "tone up" intestines, bring blessed relief.

"Her CONSTIPATION was completely Relieved"

THINK of going over a great doctor's case records with him! Of listening as he tells you in his own words how he has helped hundreds of men and women to escape from one tormenting physical ill . . . Constipation.

For instance. Here's a case from the thousands recorded by the celebrated Dr. Ernst Blumann, of Berlin, Germany:—

. . . "Mrs. W., 38, married, chronic abdominal complaint, disturbed digestion, constipation. Patient very sick, depressed and bad-tempered. Had to take daily some strong cathartic to obtain movement."

Dr. Blumann says: "I started treatment with yeast. Patient reported almost normal elimination within a few days . . . After about six weeks she acknowledged being in better health than she had been for years. Her constipation was completely relieved."

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION—Doctors say women are especially subject to this trouble. And it can have extremely grave results.

When intestines become sluggish, food wastes collect, putrefy. Poisons form and filter into the blood. Headaches result, and as time goes on, decreased vitality, poor circulation, bad breath, bad complexion, coated tongue.

For over 75 years medical men have relied, in such cases, on the remarkable corrective properties of fresh yeast.

A food, yeast is harmless. Where drugs and cathartics tear down, yeast builds up. It actually strengthens intestinal muscles . . . stimulates normal action. At the same time it softens the clogging intestinal wastes.

And as it "tones" and cleanses the system, headaches occur less often, disappear. Your energy picks up—you tire much less quickly. Digestive troubles, skin troubles, dizziness, backaches, colds vanish when elimination becomes regular!

Famous Berlin physician tells results of fresh yeast treatment in a typical case. Read how this remarkable food can help YOU

You can get Fleischmann's Yeast at all grocers, and at restaurants and soda fountains. Just eat 3 cakes a day—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime—plain or dissolved in water (a third of a glass).

Each cake, you know, is rich in vitamins B and G, and the "sunshine" vitamin D. Won't you try it?

*IMPORTANT—*Fleischmann's Yeast for health comes only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh, effective form—the kind famous doctors recommend. Ask for it by name!

Not a "Cure-all"... Fleischmann's Yeast is a health food thousands eat

GERMAN CABINET ORDERS DRASTIC CUT IN EXPENSES

Reduction in Payments of Dole Expected.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 7.—Chancellor Franz von Papen's government of aristocrats today took a "fundamental decision" and instructed all government offices to curtail expenditures beyond the reductions ordered by the previous government of Dr. Heinrich Bruening. All departments were requested to make suggestions along these lines.

This, republican Germany believes, is the first step toward reducing payments in doles and for the support of the unemployed.

The National Socialists [Fascists] are preparing for the day when the Von Papen government will lift the ban on Adolf Hitler's "brown army." New uniforms have been designed. The brown shirt, brown breeches, and cap distinguished members of the "storm troops" in the past. They now will also wear a brown coat designed after the smart lines of the British army coat. The trousers will be of imitation leather.

Get Riding Boots.

Instead of the high laced boots, the Nazi troops will wear high brown riding boots. Their field cap will resemble the Scotch Glengarry.

The Hitlerites anticipate that the "brown army" will be restored before the end of this week in order to parade in their new uniforms next Sunday, a date set aside by the communists for an "anti-Fascist demonstration" in Berlin.

May Order Second Election.

BERLIN, June 7.—(AP)—If the reichstag elections to be held on July 31 do not clarify the German political situation, a high official in the foreign office said today, President Von Hindenburg will dissolve the reichstag for a second time and order another election.

KREUGER CRASH BREAKS ROMANCE OF OPERA SINGER

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, June 7.—The Ivar Kreuger crash, it was learned today, interrupted a romance between Maria Mueller, Metropolitan opera star, and Anton Wendler, Kreuger's auditor, who is now in prison awaiting trial.

Just before the crash occurred, Wendler was planning to announce his engagement during a concert Miss Mueller was giving here. The concert was canceled when Wendler was arrested. Miss Mueller was said to be shocked by the arrest of her fiance, but she is certain he is not guilty and is ready to travel to Stockholm to stand by him during his trial.

The Italian state bonds which were listed as assets by Kreuger were declared today to be forgeries by the official Swedish committee investigating Kreuger's affairs. The committee's findings substantiate the earlier police investigation and statements by Premier Mussolini in Rome. In all there are 42 bonds with a face value of $2,500,000.

BELGIAN RULERS TO VISIT LONDON ON 'LOVE MISSION'

LONDON, June 8 (Wednesday).—(AP)—King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians will come to London today, said a Brussels dispatch to the Daily Mail.

It was rumored, the dispatch said, that the visit might result in the betrothal of their second son, Prince Charles, the count of Flanders, to the daughter of an English duke whom the count frequently visits. Unofficial reports early last year that Prince Charles was in England wooing the daughter of an English peer were discounted when his visit was described as simply a vacation.

The prince visited the United States in April of last year, traveling incognito, to study mechanical methods in various factories and generally acquaint himself with the people. He is 25 years old.

BRITISH EXPRESS TRAIN SETS NEW WORLD'S RECORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 7.—The "Cheltenham Flyer," the Great Western railway's crack express train which, it is claimed here, is the world's fastest train, set new records today. On its trip from Swindon to London, a distance of 77¼ miles, an average speed of 81.6 miles an hour was maintained, compared to the previous record of 79.4 miles an hour and the usual average speed of 69.2 miles an hour.

The actual time was 56 minutes 47 seconds—breaking the world's record for a "start to stop" run. Previously, the best time for the run was 58 minutes 20 seconds.

For 70 miles the train traveled at an average speed of 87.5 miles an hour. The greatest speed, 92 miles an hour, was reached for about half a mile near Wantage road through Berkshire. The engine pulled a load of 120 tons. London was reached 11 minutes ahead of schedule time.

Alumni at Services

Two bronze tablets in memory of the late Dr. Thomas Lewis Gilmer, chairman of the group that founded the dental school of Northwestern university in 1891, were dedicated yesterday afternoon in Gilmer hall on McKinlock campus. Dr. Gilmer died last December. The memorial services were part of an alumni meeting of the dental school.

DE VALERA TO GO TO LONDON FOR PARLEY ON OATH

Preliminary Conference Is Concluded in Dublin.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 7.—The visit to Dublin of J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, and Viscount Hailsham, secretary for war, on the invitation of President Eamon de Valera to open negotiations in an effort to reach an agreement on the Free State's decision to abolish the oath of allegiance to the crown and to withhold land annuities, ended tonight. The British officials returned to London. Their conference with President de Valera and Minister of Justice James Geoghegan lasted an hour. It is believed to have been purely formal and preliminary to a conference in London Friday which De Valera will attend.

The real problem of the bill to abolish the oath and its effect on the treaty of 1921, under which the Free State was established, was not touched today.

Comment in the lobby of the Dail Eireann was sarcastic and suggested that the purpose of bringing the British ministers here was to save De Valera's face in view of his frequent assertions that he would not negotiate the oath question, and certainly not in London. Now that negotiations have been opened in Dublin, De Valera feels that he can go to London comfortably.

Fears are expressed here that nothing will emerge from the London conference unless De Valera makes a big retrograde step, which his followers will not tolerate. The fact that De Valera invited the negotiations is interpreted as meaning that he is prepared to make concessions, but in what respect no information is available.

Meantime it is believed the senate will proceed tomorrow to emasculate the oath bill by omitting a vital section of it and inserting a clause that the bill must not come into operation until Great Britain agrees that the treaty will not be touched.

LOOP BARBERS' GROUP OPPOSES PRICE CUTTING

Price cutting in loop barber shops will be opposed, it was announced last night by the Loop Masters Barber's association, meeting in the Morrison hotel.

The minimum price for a hair cut as set by the association is 50 cents. However, many of the downtown establishments are charging as low as 35 cents.

"The barbers are only hurting themselves," said John Henige, first vice president of the loop barbers. "In fact, 80 per cent of our shops are unable to meet their rentals. In the old days when barbers maintained prices, bankers and business men patronized the shops. Nowadays, clerks and office boys demand service and make appointments which they often break."

KIP RHINELANDER INVOLVED IN SUIT IN NOVA SCOTIA

HALIFAX, N. S., June 7.—(AP)—Seven years after the start of a protracted five year legal engagement, in which he obtained a divorce from his octoroon wife, Leonard Kip Rhinelander today was involved in new litigation, this time over the payment of an insurance claim.

The action disclosed his hitherto unknown whereabouts since he obtained a divorce in 1929 from Alice Beatrice Jones Rhinelander, daughter of a New Rochelle, N. Y., hack driver.

Rhinelander, scion of an old and socially prominent New York family, appeared in court here to press a claim for $6,000 he alleges was paid to W. A. Mont of Halifax. The amount represents insurance covering a bungalow he had erected at Scraggy lake in 1929 and its furnishings, which were destroyed by fire.

Rhinelander said he moved to Nova Scotia to escape the spotlight of publicity. Upon taking up his residence here he adopted the name of Lou Russell.

THERE IS FLAVOR SUCH AS YOU NEVER DREAMED OF, IN EVERY POUND OF HILLS BROS COFFEE

Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros' patented process—develops the true goodness of the coffee-berry

"A little at a time"—instead of in bulk—makes perfect roasting possible

The true taste of coffee is indeed a delightful thing! But bulk-methods of roasting frequently fail to develop the true taste. For bulk-methods offer no positive way to prevent under-roasting and over-roasting. And if coffee is to give you its finest flavor, it must be roasted precisely right.

Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' patented process—prevents imperfect roasting! The coffee is roasted a little at a time . . . as it flows evenly, continuously through the roasters.

Small quantities, automatically controlled, can be roasted more accurately than large quantities. Every berry in Hills Bros.' blend is perfectly done to the right degree! Ideal flavor results. And it never varies, because Controlled Roasting never varies!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Flavor such as you never dreamed of! The true goodness of the coffee-berry. See how eagerly you drain each cup, and fill it to drain again. Order Hills Bros. today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

GUARD CHILDREN FROM HEART ILLS, DOCTOR WARNS

70% of Cases Start in the Young, He Says.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

If it had been an audience of mothers crowding the tiers of the white painted amphitheater in Cook county hospital, where Dr. Philip Rosenblum lectured yesterday on childhood ills, instead of physicians from near and far, his discussion would have been almost equally comprehensible. Certain it is that the mothers would have taken home valuable jottings from his remarks to guide them in care of their children, especially in protecting them from heart disease. His attack on the subject was direct and simple.

"Heart disease is undoubtedly on the increase," he told the men who had enrolled for these summer clinics in what is characterized as the greatest center for clinical material in the world. "We don't know quite why, but it is pretty well established that a large proportion of cases of adult heart trouble—about 70 per cent—start with rheumatic infections in childhood.

Climate Partly to Blame.

"Climate has a good deal to do with cardiac ailments. Here in Chicago it isn't at all favorable, being so variable. An even, warm climate is excellent for cardiac patients. Of course, they vary greatly. Many children who have a bad leakage of the heart are perfectly capable of indulging in a normal amount of exercise. It's the infections that break them down.

"All mothers would do well if they kept a child home for a few days after he recovers from a bad cold, because usually a heart ailment doesn't develop after such attacks for about two weeks. Don't be too anxious to send a child back to school just because his fever is gone.

"And every youngster ought to have a physical examination a few weeks after such colds or other infections, to make certain that no bad effects have followed. As I said before, it's the infections we fear in child heart cases, more than exercise, except in extreme cases. Taken in childhood and sufficiently early after they start, a good proportion of these cardiac cases are curable. Restlessness, lack of appetite, and general listlessness are danger symptoms."

Cure of Skin Diseases.

Advanced cases of skin diseases, such as eczema, sometimes are cured by transferring the child to a diet of goat's milk, Dr. Rosenblum added. These cases are not thoroughly understood by the medical world, but the general principles of treatment follow the theory that something is wrong with the proteins in the patient's diet. Individual diagnosis is necessary.

About 350 practicing physicians from Chicago and other parts of the central states are attending the clinics at the hospital, under the auspices of the Chicago Medical society.

MANY GROUPS BACK RELIEF BONDS FOR FALL REFERENDUM

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois relief commission, yesterday received assurance of support for the $20,000,000 relief bond issue to be voted on at the November election from representatives of organized labor, bankers, manufacturers, farmers, chambers of commerce, civic and women's clubs and other groups.

The last third of $18,500,000 of state tax anticipation warrants authorized under the bond issue is now being spent. The commission announced that $200,000 of the warrants had been sold by five loop banks during the day, bringing to $4,477,500 the total disposed of since Friday, when the sale of the last $6,250,000 of warrants began.

The group representatives at a meeting called by Mr. Ryerson in the headquarters of the commission agreed to a suggestion that he appoint a committee which will in turn name two committees to be charged with explaining the purpose of the bond issue to voters in Cook county and in other counties. Mr. Ryerson said that failure of the bond issue to pass in the referendum would result in an additional general property tax levy of 30 cents per $100 valuation throughout the state, while its passage will make possible redemption of the bonds from road building funds, at no increase in taxes.

The meeting also took up the question of raising more money for relief this fall when all funds provided have been spent. Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, said a minimum of $25,000,000 will be required to extend relief work from August to April, 1933. Federal loans to the states were regarded as the best source for that sum.

This Woman Lost 45 Pounds of Fat

"Dear Sirs: For 3 months I've been using your salts and am very much pleased with results. I've lost 45 lbs., 6 inches in hips and bust measure. I've taken 3 bottles—one lasting 5 weeks. I had often tried to reduce by dieting but never could keep it up, but by cutting down and taking Kruschen I've had splendid results. I highly recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. Carl Wilson, Manton, Mich.

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY, take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning. To hasten results go light on fatty meats, potatoes and pastries—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen—your health comes first—get it at any drug store in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

"SUICIDE BLAST" HUSBAND WINS DELAY IN COURT

Leroy Fox, 53 years old, whose unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide with gas on Sunday damaged the apartment building at 4853 North Lincoln street in which he lives, was granted a continuance to June 27 by Municipal Judge Francis B. Allegretti when he was arraigned yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief. The gas, which Fox turned on with the intent of ending his life, was ignited by a pilot light on the stove, exploded and set the building afire. Fox escaped injury.

Judge Allegretti held John Dannenberg, 4443 North Ashland avenue, an investigator, to the grand jury on a charge of larceny when Fox's wife, Bonita, accused Dannenberg of taking two oriental rugs from their home after the explosion and fire.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—(AP)—Dr. William Williams Keen, who won world fame by his skill with the surgeon's knife, died in his home here tonight from the infirmities of his 95 years. He had been ill several months.

Dr. Keen was noted principally for a delicate operation which he performed on the jaw of President Grover Cleveland, with the assistance of Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York. This was considered a miracle of the medical profession at the time.

Good Morning!

KIND: Weak "Wet Parade" stuff. From the pens of Anita Loos and John Emerson. Directed by D. W. Griffith. No credit to any of them.

ACTING: Hal Skelly did all that was humanly possible with his rôle of The Result of Too Much Bootleg Liquor. Zita Johann plays his sad wife in still, starey-eyed fashion. Edna Hagan as their prematurely aged little offspring, who loves her daddy so, speaks her lines nicely and performs in the quaint old-fashioned style that might be expected from a child rendered old beyond her years by responsibility and worry. Other parts are played unremarkably.

DIRECTION: Hard to believe that the master megaphoner of silent cinema days and the man who directed "Abraham Lincoln" made "The Struggle."

PHOTOGRAPHY: All right.

SETS, SCENERY, COSTUMES, SOUND: Commendable. Continuity's unsatisfactory.

STORY: Action starts in a 1911 beer garden and witches almost immediately to modern speakeasies. In one of these you meet Jimmie Wilson, who's in love with a Florrie, who says she won't marry him unless he'll promise to climb on the water wagon and stay there. He promises—and sticks to his word till their little daughter is about 6 years old. Then he falls off and goes boom and things are just too bad from then on till the finis, which carries promise of happier days to come.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Not much, I'm afraid.

"NIGHT WORLD."
Produced by Universal.

Doorman	Clarence Muse
Jim	Huntley Gordon
Ed. Powell	George Raft
Policeman	E. E. O'Connor
Florabelle	Geneva Mitchell

Also

Arletta Duncan, Pat Somerset, Joe Wallace, Charles Gibiyn, Dorothy Gralnger, Frank Beale, John K. Wells.

KIND: Cabaret melodrama.

QUALITY: J-u-s-t fair.

ACTING: Much, much better than the story deserves. Why on EARTH doesn't somebody find a story worthy of Lew Ayres . . .!

DIRECTION: What can a man do when there's naught to do WITH?

PHOTOGRAPHY, SETS, COSTUMES, etc.: Regulation.

STORY: Record of a messy evening in a night club. Stupid.

DIALOGUE: They might have spared us that. The film would have been infinitely better as a "silent."

AUDIENCE APPEAL: If there was any I couldn't find it.

See you soon!

All Hat Types Run Dead Heat in Style Race

Choose Large or Small for Fashion.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

HAT makers must be having their frenzied moments this summer trying to please hat buyers. We who spend hours shopping and snooping are even a bit mystified when it becomes necessary to make definite statements of what is new, newer, or newest. One week practically every hat shop in town wickedly suppresses every small hat and gives the wide brims all the breaks and headlines . . . the next seven days the wide brims are stowed out of sight and the saucy little lids and pancake sizes hang rakishly in every case . . . it's a merry-go-round for hats any way you see it.

Undoubtedly this turn-about performance was helpful to many shoppers who really could find a little hat and buy it without living through agonies of indecision with a big brim in one hand and brimless affair in the other.

But from now on the shopper returns to the old time normal situation . . . the shops are filled and fluttering with all kinds, shapes, sizes, and colors of summer headgear. You can go as far and wide as you like with brims . . . whether you shop for straw, silk, and even felt . . . you will see brims of all widths, brims that are smartly straight, brims that are floppy and made to frame the face . . . brims that dip and curve after you pull them over your flat bobs.

The newest straws are leghorns of that nice old fashioned natural tone that has also been copied in other smooth and rough straws . . . crocheted crowns in the same or contrasting colors are airy and new . . . others get over the top of most fashion-wise heads with swathed crowns of silk or chiffon, in black, brown, or blue.

Wide, expansively so, are the knockout hats of moire silk . . . perfect as the high hat to wear with summery chiffons . . . they are piquantly simple with just a small bow of white or self-color perched on the up-curving brim close to the very shallow crown.

Wide brimmed linen hats are the most alluring things imaginable . . . you can wear them with handkerchief linen afternoon dresses, in the morning with printed muslins or printed silk frocks. You will find these made in the natural tone of linen as well as white and many soft pastel shades.

Brimmed sailors will be ashore all summer . . . some of them are funny till you wear them with your snappy linen suits, then you realize that nothing could be smarter . . . upturned rollicky brims with a fine, nautical gayety slant knowingly on most of the heads that dash about the town.

The smallest hats are the newest models of felt or silk or fabric that are called "chin gobs" . . . a flattering combination of the old chin-chin model with a narrow little bow on top side merged with the gob spot that balances so precariously on the brains of the navy.

These "chin gobs" are positively the smallest hats to arrive in town. A skull cap or bathing cap isn't any tighter or smaller. "Chin gobs" are worn with spectator sports costumes and any street clothes . . . you wear them, if you copy the manner, with all the swagger and slant that the United States gobs affect . . . well down over the right eyebrow and with a salty insouciance that "sees the world" as only a sailor can see it!

'Flower Show' by Artists

Flowers, Real and Painted, at June Festival

Sparkling Canvases Set in Beauty Spot.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The June festival in Diana Court, Michigan Square building, is echoed joyously upstairs and down by real flowers in great profusion all through the court, and by paintings of flowers in the studio gallery, Increase Robinson, director, on the second landing.

The living flowers and the pictured flowers are shown together in an effort to give Chicago a place of unusual beauty to visit during June. Two hundred white birch, for one illustration of the care that has been given the show, have been brought as a background to the rich colors of the many kinds of flowers.

The festival opened last night to a setting of music in the court. The flower paintings in the studio gallery commanded a great deal of attention. Many sparkling canvases were discovered, and others, which, lower in key, yet gave a message of loveliness. The catalog gives no titles to the paintings; they all deal in some way with the subject of flowers, but each picture is numbered and the artist's name follows.

Stark Davis, who paints birds, called in distress before the show opened to ask, "Does a potted plant rank as a flower?" Mrs. Robinson assured him it would in this exhibit, any way, so we find an effective canvas by him made up of a plant in its pot and a huge glass of paint brushes.

Ruth Van Sicklen Ford had her ideas also for a flower painting and surprises us with a well modeled nude lady wielding a teakettle with which she is watering her plants in the window.

Mary Aldis [Mrs. Arthur Aldis] is represented by a magnificent panel of some sort of lily, large and decorative in character. Mary Bartlett and Frederic Clay Bartlett Jr., her husband, each show delightful little flower sketches.

Josephine L. Reichmann offers a gay painting of anemones in a glass bowl. Beatrice S. Levy shows a charming little study of a jack-in-the-pulpit. Minnie Harms Beebe and Harriet B. Krawiec contribute two of the finest paintings in the show.

Among the other artists represented are Ethel Spears, Frances Foy, Mary H. Wicker, Rudolph Weisenborn, Frances Strain, William S. Schwartz, Clara MacGowan, Eugenie F. Glamen, Kathleen Buehr Granger, Marie Blanke, Kathleen Blackshear, Frances Badger, Camille Andrene, Emil Armin, Charles Biesel, and Anita Willetts Burnham.

OPENING PROGRAM

BY EDWARD MOORE.

From now until the end of the month the Michigan Square Diana Court building is to be the scene of the June festival, in other words, a succession of music, dance, and allied arts. With an almost European aspect of pillared court, gentle rises, galleries, fountain, and statue, and banked with flowers into the bargain, it began its programs last night with chamber music and a series of dance numbers.

The Chamber Music Ensemble of Chicago, all members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, provided the musical numbers, giving expert performances of works by Bach, Hummel, Glazounow, Wagner, and others. Deferring then to Adelaide Berkman, pianist, the organization retired and the dancers took the stage. Here were Xenia Zarina, Alta Warsawska, Maria Alvarez, and Arthur Corey, agile and graceful in a series of divertissements, the last named a figure gleaming from top to toe like a gilded statue, but active as a statue can never express but only indicate. And these performances were diversified by Enrico Clausi, tenor, in operatic arias.

Gay Picture Marks Opening of Horse Show

Merry Crowd Present at South Shore Club.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A COOL lake breeze did not in the least cool the enthusiasm of the horse loving crowd that assembled for the opening of the twenty-third annual horse show at the South Shore Country club last night, but it did make top coats almost a necessity, and the women who were there in evening gowns and summer wraps had to cover all their finery with their husband's top coats while the men sat and shivered in their flannels or dinner coats.

It was a gay picture, however, a perfect setting for an outdoor horse show, and if all the members of the audience had been seated in the boxes or grandstand, instead of so many leaning on the arena fence, I think every seat in the enclosure would have been occupied. In almost every box party there were one or more who were riding last night and their smart habits added interesting color and atmosphere to the grand stand.

In the boxes were many out of town exhibitors as well as many of the Chicago folk who love horses. William R. Alcorn, president of the club, and Mrs. Alcorn had as guests Mr. and Mrs. John Morrow, A. D. Armitage of Buffalo, and L. Buchwalter of Springfield, O. Mr. and Mrs. Bates [he is publicity chairman for the show and she a member of the ladies' committee] had with them Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kistner and Mr. and Mrs. Dennett D. Bell. The Misses Lois and Abbie Jaques, both of whom rode last night, sat, when they were not in the ring, in a box with their mother, Mrs. L. T. Jaques and Donald McKenna.

Mrs. Harry J. Bosworth had with her her sister, Miss Lillian Rogers, and George Brandeis of Omaha, who brought a number of horses for the show. Mrs. C. Groverman Ellis, whose husband is vice president of the club and chairman of the horse show committee, entertained in the Ellis box the wives of two of the judges, John W. Sifton of Winnipeg and Rufus C. Finch of Rumson, N. J., while the men were busy in the judges' stand. Mrs. Clinton G. Rood, chairman of the ladies' horse show committee, had with her last night her daughter, Dorothy, who had an entry in the show. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. O'Neal, and Edward Lee Jr. of Cuba.

Many Others Are Present.

With Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Ripley were their daughter, Jane; their son, Bradford, and Carroll McGuinn. Mr. and Mrs. Elias Mayer and their daughter, Elinor, who was riding last night, occupied the front half of a box, and Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence and Mrs. Emmons Blaine watched the show from the other half. Mr. Lawrence is an exhibitor, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes and Maj. and Mrs. Lennox Lohr were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heyworth.

Among others I noticed in the grandstand or watching the show from the rail were the Tracy Aldens, the Jesse G. Chaplines, Capt. and Mrs. Correll, pretty Caroline McNair and Marianne Stevenson with two devoted swains, William Heitman and L. J. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Leonard Jr., up from their new home in Wilmington, Ill., for the occasion; Miss Barbara Graf, looking chic in a dark blue coat with wide white piqué collar and cuffs and a tiny blue and white hat, her escort was Watson Newhall; Mr. and Mrs. Harold D'Ancona, the William Vincents and the J. B. Porters; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kinsey, who live at the club, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Strickler of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goes Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Judson D. McCarthy.

Preceding the show there was a dinner and fashion revue with professional models—except for four cunning little girls, Vavelle and Aldrian Bates, daughters of the junior Albert J. Bateses, and Virginia and Nancy Alling, the Carlos Allings' daughters. Tonight there will be a fashion show also with members of the club as mannequins, including Miss Charmion Crissy, Mrs. Willard T. Orr, Miss Mary Jane De Plessis, Miss Harriet Henneberry, Miss Eleanor Sims, Miss Priscilla Kress, Mrs. Bruce Brown, Miss Jane Paulman and Miss Jean Stevenson. There will be afternoon as well as evening shows today, tomorrow and Friday, and on Saturday there will be morning and afternoon performances.

Women's Golf at Knollwood.

The women's golf activities at Knollwood are in full swing, so Mrs. W. E. Macfarlane, chairman of the women's golf committee, tells me, and gay plans are being made for the first guest day, which is scheduled for Friday, the 17th.

Mrs. Roscoe Parkinson is co-chairman with Mrs. Macfarlane, and the committee members are Mrs. Herbert J. Campbell, Mrs. Alfred C. Castle, Mrs. Richard Fleming, and Mrs. George E. Moore. Mrs. George Brown is team captain.

More than 100 women assembled yesterday at Knollwood for the first of the bridge luncheons, with Mrs. Frederick A. Brown, Mrs. Voyta Mashek, Mrs. George Rossetter, Mrs. Lucius Teter, and Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson in charge of the party. Among those who had parties of guests were Mrs. T. Frank Murchison, joint chairman with Mrs. Dayton Keith of the bridge committee; Mrs. John E. Kehoe, Mrs. Stanley Knight, Mrs. John C. Griswold, Mrs. Jackson K. Dering, Mrs. Charles J. Canfield, Mrs. John M. Hutchins, Mrs. Gustave F. Fischer, Mrs. M. Ross Byron, and Mrs. David B. Gann.

It's still quite cold up at Prout's Neck in Maine where the Freeman Hinckleys have a summer place, but the swimming pool on their place is

Modes of Every Age Determine Its Beauties

Today Emphasis Is on the Sleek, Smart Woman.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

To convince yourself that fashion determines the popular beauty all you need do is to visit the art gallery and look over some of the ladies who gave joy or did a lot of damage in the past. Taste in beauty certainly changes and, as fashion is constantly changing, beauty is, with few exceptions, a thing of current value. Compare the Raphaelesque type of girl with one of our modern beauties such as Kay Francis, say, and you see what is meant by fashion decreeing the nature and type of beauty we rate highly.

Lucien Lelong, the Paris dress designer, I recall, during the Empress Eugénie hat epidemic, regretted woman's attempted return to a past fashion era. The girl and the gown did not match. Each age is its own inspiration.

Today the ambition of our women is neither to look nor act kittenish; neither to be particularly mysterious nor vampish, as in Theda Bara's reign. If anything, today's woman as fashion dictates her is a sleek and beautifully groomed race horse. She is scrubbed to the last inch. Her hair is arranged [every hair, that is] with the precision of a perfectly appointed dinner table.

Her hair is lustrous as satin. Altogether, our current beauty is as modern as our most modern skyscraper. And she is not only gorgeous to look at, but is suspected at the same time of being able to do a solo flight across the Atlantic. Efficiency marks her pictorially and exudes from the health and energy that are glitteringly hers.

It is probably the largest beauty order fashion ever has dictated. But none too large for countless women to subscribe to beautifully. Women's clothes today have that same sleek, beautifully groomed look expected of the lady within them. Every detail of dress, stockings, bag, gloves, like every hair on the head, must speak perfection.

Anyway, that's the ruling. And it is due largely to their desire to be all of the above named things that has made American women today walk away with the econiums as the world's best beauties.

You can make yourself over into the current type just as easily as you can adapt yourself to requirements in other directions. It's purely a matter of concentrating after you have expressed the wish to be like that.

Home Is Child's Natural Place for Good Times

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A letter like this marks a definite turning point in this child's life:

"I have a daughter 16 years old. Is it all right for her to go to parties at the different homes of girl and boy friends her age? How many times a month should she be allowed to go?

"The parties and dates average about four times a month, but she does not always go, as her father is very strict and does not want them calling on the phone or ringing the bell. When she has a girl friend he says, 'Do they have to be here all the time?' which is three times a month at most.

"So far she tells where she wants to go and who she is going with, but won't bring them up except when she is allowed to. She says she is not going to ask any more, but go, and I am afraid she will do it if something is not done. But I want to do the right thing, so I don't have to be sorry for it afterwards.

"Kindly send booklet on that age."

I can't imagine any more wholesome way for a daughter to have her social life than in parties at the homes of her friends. Where is she—or any of our children—to have fun if not at home? Where else ought she to see her friends and make her telephone calls?

This is her home as well as her father's. It is her right to have her share in it, and the more of her life that centers in her home or that of her friends, the better. She must not seek her fun in unprotected places. Her father is in grave danger of driving his daughter from her mother's influence if he persists in his objections. Often a man who does not make his daughter's home a pleasant place is the first one to censure her if she becomes involved in any trouble.

This mother should try to make him see that when a girl no longer makes her mother her confidant, that mother's power to guide and help her daughter ceases.

As long as her social life is with the right sort of young people and does not interfere with her health or her school work the father should not object.

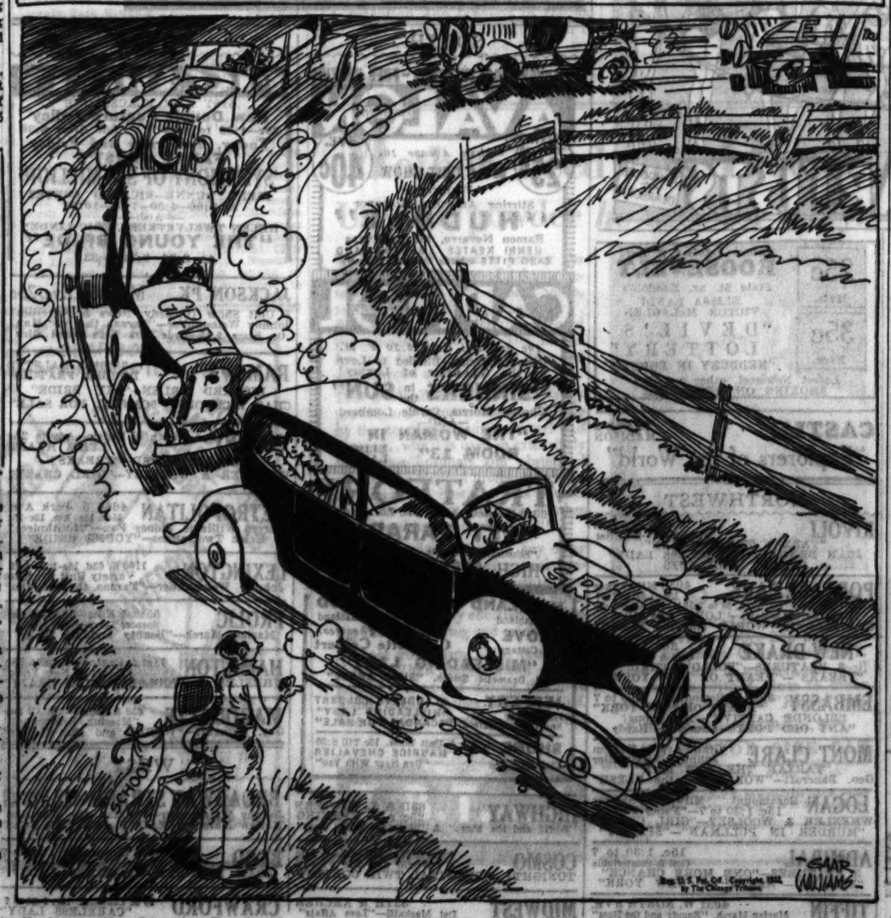
WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!



Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn life between the office where she is an inefficient typist and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Jimmy Conasdine, a crook lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister. Lew warns her she'll make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. Esmee is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. But when she meets Michael Marriott, a disilusioned young playwright, imbued with the futility of life, it's love at first sight and she feels Michael's need of her is real. Esmee is late keeping a dinner engagement with Michael because of Jimmy, who threatens trouble. When she gets to Michael's apartment she is met by Arthur Twining, Michael's roommate, and Mrs. Cowley, Michael's sister, but no Michael. Returning home she finds him waiting for her. He'd been drinking heavily. Esmee takes him home in a cab, but he has no key and can't get in. In desperation she takes him to a hotel and registers as his wife. When she calls the hotel next morning she learns Michael has checked out. That evening Claire Cowley invites Esmee to dinner and tells her that Michael is engaged. But when Michael calls Esmee goes to see him. He tells her his engagement is broken, that he can't live without her and wants to marry her. Esmee tries unsuccessfully to break with Jimmy. He accuses her of double crossing him and threatens to have Lew sent to jail. Esmee drives out to the country with him on Sunday. He promises freedom for Lew if she will spend the week-end with him and forces her to accompany him to a roadhouse where his word is law. Michael has trailed Jimmy's car.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

SORDID REALITY.

At the foot of the stairs Esmee stopped. She had been able to form no definite plan, she could think of none now. This was Jimmy's world. If she refused to come, he would make her. Every one would be on his side.

"If I can just get in my room alone," she thought. "Then I'll lock the door, or put something against it. I'll never let him in. I'd rather die than let him in . . . "

The sun was shining in through a window on the staircase, and somehow that gave a more nightmare horror to the situation. It was broad daylight, there were people about—yet she was helpless.

"Come on!" Jimmy repeated, impatiently.

Slowly she began to mount the stairs, so slowly that Jimmy turned and took her arm. She looked back, in despair, down into the hall where the red haired man was standing. Perhaps if she called to him——

And she saw Michael there, looking up at her.

She thought that in her whole life she would never forget that look on his dark, thin face. It made her think of a picture she had once seen of a young knight, rising after the accolade, a look of dedication, of unflinching and yet half sorrowful resolve.

Let me get out of this horrible place this minute.

And compared with Jimmy he seemed so slight, so fine, and so unprotected. He was as defenseless here as she herself.

Her one thought was not to let Jimmy see him.

"Please — hurry up!" she said. "I—feel sort of faint, Jimmy . . ."

But she was not to trick Jimmy. His prestige, his power, his very life depended on his vigilance, his cool, quick wits. He detected at once the fear in her voice, in her clutch on his arm, and he stopped short and turned and looked down.

"So the boy friend's arrived," he said. "Good enough! Come on!"

For an instant she thought of calling down:

"Michael! Go away! Please, I beg you!"

But she dared not. She was afraid that he would refuse, that at the sound of her voice he would try to follow her. She was afraid of everything, where Michael was concerned.

"If he sees me—just going upstairs with Jimmy . . . " she said to herself. "If he thinks I want to go with Jimmy, then he'll go away."

Better a thousand times never to see Michael again, better to lose his love and his faith forever than see him come to any harm.

Then she made the supreme effort of her life. She did the most difficult and terrible thing she had ever done. She turned away from Michael to Jimmy, she smiled up into Jimmy's face, clung to his arm.

For Michael must think she wanted to go with Jimmy.

Frank was waiting in the upper hall.

"Here you are, boss!" he said. "Two bedrooms I got. All very nice—very fine." With a flourish he threw open the doors of two adjoining rooms.

"Bathroom you got in between. Anything else you want, you gotta the telephone. You call up the office, you say what you want, you get heem, quick."

He went off, down the stairs.

"Which one d'you want, baby?" asked Jimmy.

"I—I don't care . . . " she answered.

For a long moment they stood there in the hall.

"O, you fool! You idiot! Think of something! Do something!" she cried in her heart.

And could do nothing, and could think of nothing. Jimmy was beside her, and he was master of the situation.

"Well, I'll see you later . . . " she said, suddenly, and made for the nearest door.

Before she could close the door, he was with her. He closed the door and locked it.

"Let's just see how Frank's fixed things up for you, baby," he said.

It startled her that his voice was unsteady. She glanced sidelong at him, and found him looking at her with misery and anger and passion in his blue eyes.

"If you want to go in for cheating," he said, "you ought to take a few lessons. You're rotten at it."

Her knees felt weak. She took hold of the back of a chair. And he caught her in his arms.

"Don't! Please don't!" she cried, frantic to escape.

He held her tight.

"I'm—the damndest fool," he said. "But I love you . . . God! I never . . . "

"Jimmy—please! Please—let me—talk to you . . . "

"You can talk," he said. "I'm listening."

"But I—if you'll—let me go . . . "

"I won't," he said and kissed her on her averted cheek, kissed her again, took her chin in his hand, and turned her head, and kissed her on the lips.

"Stop! I hate you!" she cried.

"Well, by God, I hate you, too!" he said. "You and that bum you've got, coming here after you . . . "

She had had bitter experience of Jimmy in the past. She had learned that once he had her in his arms, once he began kissing her, he would quickly grow unmanageable, but in the past she had always been where she could get away from him, where, if he were furious, she could be angry, too. And now she could not get away.

"Jimmy . . . Open the window, please!" she said. "I feel . . . Please!"

He looked at her white face. Then he released her and did as she asked. As he returned to her, she stood behind an armchair.

"Please wait—just one minute, Jimmy . . . Please let me say—just one thing . . . "

"Say it."

"Jimmy, if you'll let Lew go—and if you won't hurt Michael, Jimmy, I'll marry you—whenever you want."

He made no answer. He took out a cigaret and lit it and went to the window, where he stood with his back turned to her.

"Why should I?" he asked, at last. "You cheated me——"

"I swear I didn't."

"You were in that hotel with that guy."

"He'd been drinking, Jimmy. He was asleep all the time."

"You took money from him. You went down to his place."

"If you knew what he was like—if you knew—how he treated me . . . He has some respect for me . . . He wouldn't—even touch my hand if I asked him not to."

"Then he's a sap," said Jimmy. "And he doesn't know anything about women. But I don't believe it anyhow. And what do I want to marry you for, when you're crazy about that bird?"

"I'd be a good—faithful wife to you," she said, with a sob, and, in her weariness and despair, put her arm across her eyes, like a child.

"See here!" he said. "Stop that crying! . . . I . . . O, damn you! All right!"

He had her in his arms again; for a moment he was gentle, stroking back her hair.

"All right, baby! I'll be the fall guy. We'll get married. And you get Lew back, and the boy friend walks out of here as good as he came in. Unless he tries to make trouble, and then he goes out on his ear. But he'll get over that. Don't cry, baby. You've got me, baby. We'll be married. And won't you look pretty, in some swell clothes? You're so pretty anyhow."

His caresses were growing more ardent again; she tried to push him away.

"Then—if we're going to get married—let me go! Let me—get out of this horrible place—this minute!"

"What?" he asked incredulously.

"Let me go! We'll be married Monday—any day—only let me go!"

"But what the hell!" he said. "If we're getting married you've got no kick coming. Pipe down!"

She had made her last throw, and had lost.

"O, God!" she thought. "If I could—for my darling Michael and Lew. If I could, I would . . . But I can't. I'd rather die. I wish I was dead now—this minute . . . O, what's happened to darling Michael? Did he just go away, or has something happened to him . . . ?"

Laughs Drown Lines in New Lloyd Film

Secret Preview Is Held in Fresno.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 7.—Harold Lloyd and his retinue stole 250 miles away to Fresno to preview Harold's newest picture, "Movie Crazy." They think they have the funniest thing Lloyd has made since "The Freshman" and went so far to get their "audience reaction" in order to protect their gags from sight of any possible spies from a rival studio.

One scene in Lloyd's film, which tells all about a bewildered country boy getting a start in movies in spite of himself, shows Mary Doran, Harold Goodwin and Lloyd during a movie test, and struck the audience as so funny that thereafter the picture dialogue couldn't be heard on account of the laughter. Constance Cummings, Ken Thomson and Louise Closser Hale compose the rest of the cast. The film will be released generally in September.

Ralston [Rusty] Gill, full back who just got out of the University of California, after turning professional pugilist in two coast encounters, is now here trying to get a start as a film actor, much to George Bancroft's distress.

They were looking for a young fellow big and rugged enough to stand up to Bancroft in a mauling match in his current picture "Lady and Gent" at Paramount.

Gill had seen several Bancroft pictures and regarded George as so big and tough that he began what he calls "protecting myself as strenuously as I could" at the signal to start mixing it. The actor was the one who had to call quits, and that very shortly.

The film theaters are likely to be gluttec with wild west pictures within a couple months, judging from the lengthy series of actors who hold contracts to star in westerns for various studios.

Tom Mix, six for Universal; Noah Beery Jr. in a chapter play western for Universal; Buck Jones in a series for Columbia; Col. Tim McCoy in several for Columbia and various other westerns.

George Palmer Putnam, publisher and husband of Amelia Earhart, is entering the movies as an executive for the Paramount Film corporation editorial board. He and Miss Earhart are expected to move to Hollywood this summer.

Rumors about Greta Garbo doing this and that are getting so thick that they have a "Garbo rumor department" in the MGM publicity office, where the clerks and office boys never wait to hear what one asks; they say, "No, it ain't true." One report from New York yesterday had the studio and all the railroad offices in town trying to trace Greta's reported reservations on a train from Los Angeles to New York, known as "De Luxe train No. 530," which was supposed to have borne the great Garbo out of town at 2 a. m.

But there is no such train. Greta is still in town trying to see how much of her funds were involved in the closing of the Beverly Hills First National bank.

Things have gone badly for this woman and though she's been most courageous and untiring in her efforts to locate work she has reached the stage where she is desperately poor. Can you give her the start she needs again by donating a pair of white shoes in her size?

World Study of Education by Washburne

Writes What Countries Seek in Schools.

"Remakers of Mankind," by Carleton Washburne. [Day.] Published June 2.

CARLETON WASHBURNE is, as the author of many studies of education, and as a teacher and a superintendent of schools in Winnetka, well qualified to make a study of world educational systems.

MR. WASHBURNE.

"Remakers of Mankind" is the result of a fellowship granted by the Julius Rosenwald Fund.

The author calls his first chapter "The Quest" and in it he formulates several questions whose answers make up the book. The first question concerns the degree to which education should be used in shaping society; the second, national and international aims of education, such as the teaching of nationalistic history, the theory of "my country, right or wrong," internationalism as an educational aim, and the third, the problems of child centeredness of education and mental hygiene in schools.

Carleton Washburne asks these questions of the leading authorities, the philosophers and professional educators as well as those thoughtful men who are allied to no particular group or profession, in eleven countries: Japan, China, India, the Arab nations, Turkey, Russia, Poland, Germany, France, England, and America. In each chapter, before he asks his questions of the men he meets, the author gives an appreciation of the cultural history and the intellectual attitudes characteristic of the country under examination. As to Japan, for instance, there is a brief history of the origin and significance of Shintoism. Subsequently when the attitude of the educators in Japan is analyzed the reader is better able to understand the Japanese point of view.

The author summarizes briefly the educational aims and policies of Japan, ". . . the basis of Japanese civilization is unchanged. The individual is quite subordinate to the state, self-immolation for country and emperor being the highest virtue . . . an education (system) to conserve the existing structure of Japanese society conceived of as one great family descended from the ancient imperial household and governed by the divinely descended Heavenly Ruler."

In China the author received many favorable impressions of a growing and changing society without the complacency of Japan and as yet without the rigid discipline of Russia. Education in China has a social purpose according to the author, but, because the tenets of the new society have not been formulated, the child's individuality must be stressed.

Nationalism is beginning to be felt, he says. It is not the narrowed and traditional nationalism, however, that characterizes Japan, but the sort that emphasizes self-respect and confidence while recognizing the need of an underlying general and universal internationalism.

The chapter on India is particularly interesting in that it contains an interview with Gandhi. Indian education is not as advanced as that of other countries, Mr. Washburne shows, therefore the Indian educators feel the need first of all of a nationalistic feeling later to be merged in a world view. Though Indian education is increasingly centered on inculcating a feeling of national pride, the main interest of the Indian is in the individual and his spiritual adjustment to the world.

Russia the author finds extraordinarily interesting educationally. He says: "There is no question that in Russia, not only in the field of mental hygiene but in that of education in general, there is a clearer vision as to the aims of education and a more thorough going effort toward the achievement of these aims than in any other part of the world . . . as an example of what can be done in recreating human society through organized, well thought out education toward a definitely envisaged goal, Russia is an inspiring example to the rest of the world."

In France the author discovers a declining nationalism which has been heretofore the creed of every Frenchman. He finds that France is becoming increasingly international and that the organization of education itself, in the form of a syndicate, "is affiliated with the world labor movement and which is international and pacifistic in its outlook."

England and America, though widely diverging in many respects, represent the antitheses of Russia. Their main concern, decentralized as education is in these countries, is with the individual.

This book, with its extraordinary disinterestedness (it is, in fact, thoughtful reporting), its transcribed conversations with the great educators of the world, is one of the most valuable and stimulating of its kind.

being put to good use, nevertheless, not only by the only member of the family, little 7 year old Barbara McClurg, who is there so early in the season, but by two baby sea lions Barbara found on the rocks on the seashore and put into the pool for safekeeping.

Barbara writes her mother, who is staying in Chicago until after the conventions, that the babies are growing very fast and that "they love the pool," so whether the family will have the use of it this summer is a question. Mrs. Hinckley's elder daughter, Eleanor Mc Clurg, will accompany her mother to Maine, and they will be joined by Mrs. Hinckley at intervals during the summer.

Former Senator and Mrs. James W. Wadsworth Jr. of Geneseo, N. Y., will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw of 1427 North State street during the Republican convention. Mr. Wadsworth is a delegate to the convention and a member of the national executive committee of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Mr. Shaw is chairman of the Illinois division of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman W. Brophy Jr., who have been residing in Los Angeles since their marriage last winter, are coming back to Chicago for a visit on the 21st. They will be with Mrs. Brophy's parents, the James G. Condons of 1500 Lake Shore drive during most of their stay here.

Mrs. Hambleton to Return Today.

Mrs. Chalkley Jay Hambleton, who went east for the graduation of her daughter, Elizabeth, from Miss Hall's school at Pittsfield, will return this evening with Elizabeth and Chalkley Jr., who has just completed his second year at Princeton. The Hambletons will go up to their cottage at Fish Creek, Wis., for July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor of 1244 Stone street have taken "Cliveden," the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Livingston Du Val at Stockbridge, Mass., for the summer. Mrs. Taylor and their daughter, Miss Helen Campbell Taylor, will depart for the Berkshire resort about the 15th and Mr. Taylor will join them whenever he can get away from his business.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs of Lake Forest and their son, Newell Childs, will sail next Wednesday for a two months' trip abroad. Mr. Childs visited Russia last spring and became so interested in conditions there that he plans to visit the country of the soviets again, and his wife and son naturally share his enthusiasm for the trip.

After visiting Russia they'll spend a few weeks in France and England. Newell Childs, who just finished his freshman year at Yale, returned to Lake Forest on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hersey of 38 East Elm street and their small daughter, Jeanette, are planning to leave about the 21st of this month to spend several weeks at the estate of Mrs. Hersey's father, John Sidney Burnet, at Harbor Point, Mich.

More News of Summer Plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beacon of 2430 Lake View avenue have moved up to "The Anchorage," the place on Lake Geneva they have taken for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy of 22 Banks street are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Stearns [Alice Cudahy McCormick] at Brookfield, L. I. On their return they will go to their summer place at Mackinac island.

Mr. and Mrs. William Browne Hale of Winnetka and their children have not definitely decided on their summer holiday, but they probably will spend the month of August at North Haven, Me.

Mrs. Joy Morton will open her estate, Thorn Hill, on the Joliet road, this afternoon for a tea for the benefit of the Friends of the Library of Glen Ellyn. The Morton arboretum surrounds the Morton residence and it is at its loveliest now, so the committee in charge hopes that many people from town will motor out for the affair, which starts at 2 o'clock.

A reception and preview of the exhibition of modern architecture will be held this evening in the Sears galleries in the Sears, Roebuck & Co. building at State and Van Buren streets.

Suspender Dress Given Place in Paris Limelight

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The suspender dress is having a smart revival for summer. Since the French dressmakers came out in its favor this simple and unpretentious garment has taken smart Paris by the ears. Just as much at home in town as in the country, it is the perfect, practical hot weather dress.

By varying the types of blouse you wear with the suspender dress, girls, you'll discover this frock has a thousand and one possibilities. You can choose your blouse from cotton, linen, printed or plain silk, chiffon, and a host of other summery fabrics. It may have short sleeves or long sleeves. Bruyere puts short sleeves in her printed silk blouse to go with suspender dresses. Vionnet uses a blouse like a Russian peasant's, with long sleeves.

The suspender dress itself varies—it may be high waisted with crossed suspender straps, or it may be like the one shown in the sketch. Materials, too, vary, including thin woolens, linen, cotton, and plain and printed silks.

The one sketched today, with its deep U front, is in black and white finely checked silk. The skirt is cut on the bias and has a black patent leather belt. The waist length jacket that goes with this dress makes it suitable for street wear. Its cape has elbow length sleeves.

The small sketch shows this dress without the jacket and with its short sleeved, embroidered linen blouse. I recently saw two chic Parisiennes wearing this type of frock at tea at the smart Bagdad restaurant, which has just opened in Paris.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—The marriage of Miss Eleanor Allen Lamont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, to Charles Crehore Cunningham of Milton, Mass., will take place on June 27 in the First Presbyterian church, Englewood, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Woolworth have taken the J. J. Kerrigan home at Oyster Bay for the summer. Mrs. Kerrigan sailed on Saturday for a tour of Europe.

Are you thinking in terms of steaks and chops at your house this summer?

It's the customary and conventional way to think, but—and give this a thought—it's a hot and an expensive method of feeding the family in a time when both heat and expense are distinctly out of favor in the modern household.

The smart housekeeper refuses to stand over a stove till both she and her high priced cut are done to a turn. And as an alternative she chooses to serve economy cuts, slow cooking meats perhaps known to you more familiarly as "tough cuts."

The intriguing thing about such cuts is that they are so well behaved and independent that, once started on the road to tenderness, they look after themselves very nicely and need practically no chaperoning. Result—one can now approach the dinner table without smelling from head to foot like a well done beefsteak.

There's also another thing which sells these slow cookers to me. We buy chops and such to be consumed the day of the first cooking—and then, worse luck, we have to hie ourselves to the meat market and start all over again for the next day. That's what I like about shoulders, rumps, chucks, necks, flanks, and other tough customers. By buying a generous cut we will always have some held over for serving cold later in the week—or, better yet, for spiriting into some toothsome creation of leftovers which will quickly solve the dinner problem some night when another steak fry would be ruinous to our sunny dispositions.

What are the best and the most economical of these not so tender cuts?

The neck, which may mean merely soup or stew to you, makes a really delicious pot roast, and one that is alluringly inexpensive. It is juicy, sweet flavored, and satisfyingly high in iron. In purchasing, have the butcher remove the bones and add fat. This roast does well in a Dutch oven or a heavy covered roaster. Long time cooking in moisture at simmering temperature will do the trick.

The chuck, another less tender piece, contains such a proportion of bones that it is best cut into steaks and broiled. Chuck ribs, on the other hand, are both inexpensive and attractive for summer, as they readily lend themselves to roasting. The brisket and shank are two more low priced cuts which make delicious braised dishes that are seldom taken advantage of.

The skirt steak, or butcher's steak, which was simply tossed to the dog because of its toughness and peculiar shape until discovered by modern cookery methods, affords us another chance to economize pleasantly. As you know, this piece is a long, narrow flap of meat which skirts the diaphragm of the beef animal. It is very muscular and therefore fibrous, but it is also rich in minerals and flavor. For an interesting service of this newcomer, remove the membrane from the top of the steak. Secure a small stick of solid pork fat, and wrap it in the skirt steak. Skewer it together and slice across the roll, cutting off neat, round skirt steak patties. Sear quickly, then cook in a roaster or Dutch oven in moist heat. A tablespoon of tomato juice or sour cream may be added to help break down the tissues.

Flank steak gives another chance for keeping down the meat budget. Since it has long, stringy fibers, it is necessary to score both sides heavily before cooking. This piece may be swissed and cooked as a steak or may be made into flank steak patties by rolling it around a stick of fat and slicing, much as was done in preparing the skirt steak patties.

For tomorrow I have selected a sequel for today's general tips on slow cooking meats for summer. And on my honor I promise you—no discussion! Just recipes. Here's the lineup: Braised Lamb with Egg Plant, Stuffed Flank Steak, Neck Slices of Lamb en Casserole, and Stuffed Pork Shoulder.

Girl Complains That Mother Is Much Too Stern

BY DORIS BLAKE.

How about it, mothers? Do you permit your 13 year olds to attend shows with boys in groups? What do you think of mothers who refuse to let their girls go? Are you for holding out until the girls are older? Or does your experience with your own daughters justify your opinion that girls should be encouraged to have boy companions at an early age?

"Violet" cannot understand why she, one of a group of twenty-five, has the only mother who stamps her foot and says: "No, you can't go."

"Twenty-five mothers of nice girls can't all be wrong and mine be right," the girl argues.

"I have talked with my mother," "Violet" adds. "I have pleaded with her, argued with her. But she gets excited, shouts and says the other mothers don't care about their children and that's why they let them do anything."

It's not true, "Violet" responds. The girls are all good girls, demand and receive the respect of the boys. They never do anything that they could not go home and tell their mothers about.

"I try to bring this point out to my mother," "Violet" tells. "But she just loses her temper and won't see how unhappy I am, being the only one left out of the fun. Naturally, the boys do not act so friendly toward me. I was asked along with the other girls to go on a party Saturday afternoon. All of the rest could accept but I.

"My aunt tells my mother she is wrong, but no one can convince her. She believes she is the only one who knows how to rear a girl."

The fault with the mother, we judge, is that she has let tales of young girls' doings overcolor a normal point of view. Her eagerness to protect her girl makes her a little fanatical on the subject. Personally, we think she is wrong where the boy feature is part of group entertainment. Girls of 13 are better for knowing boys, mixing with them on amusement occasions.

Instead of fighting the youngster's normal urge for mixed companionship, mother would be wiser to associate, herself, with the other mothers and with their coöperation see that the young girls are permitted their fun under wholesome conditions. It can't be forgotten, either, that the movies today are substitutes, through parents' fault more than the youngsters', for the home party or the picnic party of other days.

Plead for Gifts to Porto Rican Fund to Feed Children

An appeal signed by Bishop George Craig Stewart, Frank J. Loesch, and John H. Wigmore, members of the Chicago division of the Porto Rico child feeding committee, was issued yesterday in behalf of 200,000 hungry children in Porto Rico. They asked that any size gift be sent as quickly as possible to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

The committee was started under the leadership of Col. Theodore Roosevelt and has been providing food at the emergency feeding stations. The appeal stated that, "We have our problems here at home, but these Porto Ricans are Americans. We believe Chicago will do its part."

O, MR. MULDOON, YOU CAN'T TAKE ONE FROM ZERO

Revoke a Wrestling Title That Isn't?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Ambassador without portfolio to Madison Square Garden.]

New York, June 7.—Doggone it all, folks, you know, like I was telling the emperor of Japan, I realize that prize fighting and wrestling are only harmless nonsense intended to keep the boys out of more serious mischief, but I ain't one of those who go laughing their way through life with a quip and a smirk for any problem, and it worries me to read that the New York prizefight commission intends to revoke the title of Jim Londos unless he agrees to wrestle within thirty days against the winner of Thursday's bout between Dick Shikat and Strangler Lewis.

What title is them boys going to revoke?

This is serious to me and no foolin' because I am supposed to be an authority on such things and, doggone it all, anyway, folks, I may be old-fashioned and all that, but, somehow, it seems to me that any feller who just goes around sneering at his work ain't going to get nowheres in the long run. No sir, folks, not by a jugful, and I don't mean possibly.

Not Wrapping Commission at All.

Now, folks, don't get me wrong. I am not wrapping the New York prize fight commission, because I have the greatest respect for that grand old man of the roped arena, William Muldoon, who neither drinks nor smokes, but, still and all, there comes a time when you've got to take some of these old fellows over your knee and just paddel them good. So, as I say, without wishing to criticize a fine body of men who are doing a great work silently and without any desire for praise, nevertheless it seems to me that they have went to work and got theirselfs all tangled up and somebody ought to straighten them out.

Now you know, doggone, I'm fond of old Mr. Muldoon, as I often told Senator Borah, and I ain't saying anything against the old wraskal, but you get to thinkin' about it and see if you don't remember back there a spell where he dident recognize Londos as no champion or nothin' and wouldent even leave him bill hisself as champion on the billboards. In fact, you get to steddyin' the thing over like I was doin' with old Tom Heffiin—and say, you know Tom hain't a bad feller, the ol' wraskal, when you get to know him real good and I'll bet him and Al Smith would be good friends if they was to get together.

Didn't Go so Far Either Way.

Well, like I was sayin', you get to steddyin' the thing over and you will diskover where old Mr. Muldoon wouldn't even let Londos take part in a wrestling match in New York because he said it wasn't wrastling at all. He didn't go so far as to say Londos's bouts was faiks, but he dident go so far as to say they wasn't neither. You couldn't help getting the idear that he had his suspitions.

Now, you know me, I 'm just a plain feller, like I told Stalin over there in Russia, but the proposition, the way it seems to me, how can old Mr. Muldoon revoke Londos's title if he ain't got no title to revoke? It's just like the Democrats. They ain't got no time left to get sore at the Republicans because they are always so sore at each other.

But, seriously, now folks, it all comes down to this when all is said and done, like I told Mr. Hoover, how does Muldoon figger to cancel a feller's title if he ain't never had no title like Mr. Muldoon says. It's just like the farmer when congress says they are going to raise the income tax. The farmer, he says, go ahead and raise it because I ain't got no income anyway.

Now, That German Incident.

Or, you take the way Germany has done. Old Herriot—you know, he's the premeer of France and a fine old wraskal when you get to know him like I done—old Herriot, he tells the Germans if they don't pay off France is fixin' to get mighty sore about it and Germany says, "well, you ain't

BRADBEER TAKES MEDAL WITH 141 IN BRITISH OPEN

American Stars Under Limit of 157.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SANDWICH, June 7.—British amateurs for the first time in twenty years have thrown out a strong challenge to the world's professionals in the open championship.

The British professional, Alfred Bradbeer, moreover, has turned the tide which for the last six years placed an American at the head of the qualifying rounds, which were concluded here today. Bradbeer with rounds of 70 and 71 and a total of 141 placed himself three strokes ahead of his nearest rival, Eric McCruvie, Scottish amateur and a member of Britain's Walker cup team, whose round of 69 today broke the record for the Prince's course by two strokes. McCruvie, who is 25 years old, is the first amateur ever to turn in the lowest card in the qualifying round for the open championship, a position he jointly held today with Don Curtis, professional of Bournemouth.

No Wind Handicap.

Tony Torrance, Britain's Walker cup captain, took a 6 at the last hole at Prince's when a par four would have given him a joint record of 69 with McCruvie.

With practically no wind and both courses playing easily, American professionals were not worrying except Gordon Smith, who tore up his card on Prince's. Comfortably placed with 146 were Tommy Armour and MacDonald Smith. Gene Sarazen by shooting an easy 76 on St. George's totaled 149 and Walt Pursey with a fine 70 on the same course totalled 151. Robert Sweeney put himself in the same mark with a 76 at Prince's and Douglas Grant, another American amateur, also qualified with 152. The qualifying limit was 157.

Grant looked as if he were breaking a record on the Royal St. Georges course this morning when he had only one putt on ten greens in his score of 72, but when running three under fours he got too much right shoulder into his long shots on the last few holes and finished ingloriously with a 6.

Makes Spectacular Shot.

The large gallery watching Tommy Armour's smooth golf at Prince's in the afternoon saw one of the most spectacular shots ever played in a championship—but it came from his partner, Charles D. Robinson, a local youth, at the doglegged seventeenth hole, stretched today to more than 500 yards. Robinson placed his drive about 250 yards down the fairway on the left. Then taking a driver, Robinson hit a cracker that turned the corner of the dog leg, ran up hill through the narrow opening and finished three inches from pin.

There was a sad moment at St. George's when Harry Vardon, once the greatest master of them all, played his last round in championship golf. The veteran stylist found the course too long and found the rough too often to qualify, and with 62 years behind him it was said he would not try again. The lifetime bogey of those missed short putts pursued him to the end. He missed a 12 incher at the tenth, and nearly missed the return putt. At the eighteenth he could do not better than a 6.

Sox Wait Until Eleventh to Blow Up; Lose to Griffs, 8-5

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox had the Washington Senators whipped yesterday until there were two out in the ninth and two strikes were on the prospective game terminator. Then there was one of those characteristic foldups which reached its climax in a ludicrous eleventh innning, during which the Senators scored four runs. The first of the eastern invaders didn't mind a cheap run the Sox made in their end of the eleventh and the contest ended: Washington, 8; Chicago, 5.

The eleventh inning fadeout came with Vic Frasier, the fadeout king, pitching. Vic had entered as a savior with one out in the ninth, with a man on first and the Sox leading, 4 to 3. The big bust up included a single by Carl Reynolds, class of '31, his third hit of the game, and a double by Johnny Kerr, the amazing Schnozzola, class of '31, which was Johnny's third hit, also. One of the runs scored on Berry's poor throw in returning the ball to Frasier, which ought to give you some idea of the Chicago suffering in the super special wilting scene.

Some of It Wasn't Funny.

It was the third successive extra inning game the Sox have played and the second of three in which Frasier took the rap. The other one was a Sox victory.

While the Sox were laughable in the eleventh, they did some brilliant defensive work to help Caraway stagger through the 8 1-3 innings he lasted. In the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth innings the first man got to first or better on a hit, but in only two instances did scores result. The Sox made three double plays in tough spots and two of these involved snappy work by Appling.

Sox Lead for a While.

The Sox produced some base hits and three runs in the first inning. Appling opened the offensive with a single over Marberry's head and went to third on Funk's double along the right foul line. Luke scored and Elias went to third while Kerr was throwing out Blue. Hodapp singled to center, scoring Funk, and went to second while Bluege was throwing out Selph. He scored on Fothergill's single to center. Kress lined to Reynolds.

The Sox third error helped the Senators get two runs in the third inning. Myer opened with a double to center and went to third while Caraway was drawing an error for failing to cover first properly on Rice's grounder to Blue. West worked the squeeze play, scoring Myer on a bunt to third which he beat out for a single, Rice stopping at second. Reynolds popped to Appling. Then Judge singled to center, scoring Rice. West tried to take third, but was out, Funk to Selph. Kerr flied to Fothergill.

The Sox were unable to get a man to first base in the second, third or fourth innings, but Berry broke up the lull when he started the fifth with his homer, a smack that went high into the lower left field stand.

Ah, the Bloody Alumni!

Kress led off the seventh with a single and went to second on Berry's sacrifice. Caraway bounced to Marberry, which resulted in Kress being run down between third and second. While this was going on Caraway wandered past first and was doubled as soon as Kerr and Bluege had disposed of Kress.

Reynolds pushed off the eighth with a triple off the scoreboard in right

CRACK IN 7TH TO BRING DEFEAT OF LON WARNEKE

Hartnett Chases Run Across Plate.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 7.—The Cubs stumbled out of first place today under a cloud of bone dust. And Lon Warneke's record of having finished every game he started this season went glimmering when the blundering started the makeshift Dodgers on the way to a six run seventh inning rally which eventually meant a 9 to 2 defeat for Chicago in its first eastern appearance of the season.

Just about all that happened when Warneke was well along his way toward a victory over the famous Dazzy Vance can be blamed on Gabby Hartnett. Gabby probably had read of the historic play in which Heinie Zimmerman chased Eddie Collins over the plate in the world series of 1917. Gabby won't have to read about that one any more. He can talk about doing the same thing to give the enemy the first of their six runs. And if Charley Grimm wants to be big-hearted about it he can shoulder some of the blame, not only for an error in the big inning but also for not trying to cover the plate when he saw Hartnett tricked by Tony Cuccinello.

Hack Fans Three Times.

Warneke, until the collapse, had turned out six innings of such effective pitching that the Dodgers couldn't even make an impression on him. Meanwhile, Riggs Stephenson and Grimm had paired hits and Hartnett had exploded a homer to give the Cubs a two run lead. Four hits were all that Warneke gave up in those six sessions, but he sprinkled these down effectively with seven strikeouts in the same length of time. Hack Wilson supplied three of the whiffs before coming out of his slump by hoisting a puny, harmless fly as his contribution to the big doings in the seventh.

Warneke's strikeout ball stood him in good stead as early as the first inning. For a starter he whiffed Taylor. A single to right by Finn and one to left by O'Doul made things look a bit different, but only for a moment. There was large whooping by the multitude when Wilson stepped up and you can imagine his embarrassment when he missed two healthy swings and didn't swing at all when the next curved over. Hack, naturally, blamed it on to Umpire Klem's faulty judgment. A moment later Cuccinello also fanned by not offering at a hook third strike.

Stephenson Scores First Run.

Except for a pass in the first inning the Cubs didn't make a dent in Vance's armor until Moore led off in the second with a two base drive off the right field concrete. Nothing came of this because Vance made a lunge to clutch a low fly by Grimm and then threw to second to double Moore.

Vance, after watching Warneke, got the strikeout fever himself. He whiffed Warneke and Herman in the third to raise his total to three. He handled English that way to open the fourth. Stephenson then doubled against the wall in right. Moore also was caught on strikes after which Grimm singled past Cuccinello to move Stephenson home. Grimm tried to go to second on the throw in, but was flagged.

Hartnett made Warneke's margin slightly more comfortable in the fifth by taking hold of Vance's first pitch and hoisting it so high into the wind that it was carried over the right field fence, much to the discomfiture of Hack Wilson, who was standing there in anticipation of a catch.

Two Bagger Starts Rumpus.

Warneke had a little more trouble on his hands in the third, but Wilson helped out again by whiffing. With one out Finn lined a triple to the center field barrier, but was nipped at the plate when he tried to score on O'Doul's bounder to Herman. Then Hack fanned. Not another Dodger

GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS.

IT is positively exhilarating to be a sincere booster for the coming International Golden Gloves boxing bouts between the champions of Chicagoland and the champions of Germany at Soldiers' field July 26, reserved seats for which are now on sale. Reasons are that the affair is such a sporting proposition, both from the viewpoint of management and competition.

Here is the management, setup. There is considerable necessary expense, or "nut," as the professional promoter would call it. That includes carpentry work necessary to give elevation and good view to ringside ticket holders and, of course, the actual traveling and training expenses of the amateur boxers.

Well, under the seemingly impossible chance that the show does not pay expenses, The Tribune Athletic association would be the sole loser. On the other hand, if the show produces a profit, that profit goes to the American Olympic games fund, a fund lamentably short in this year of depression. In other words, The Tribune A. A. cannot make any money from the bouts, but it is possible, not probable, to lose money.

Now take the competitive setup. All boys participating have amateur status. Therefore they receive no remuneration for their services, just expenses. So participation is a national honor. For the Germans there is also an attractive trip.

Now another point for a sincere booster: It is not necessary to urge attendance at these bouts because the profits go to a worthy cause. That is secondary or even tertiary. The show sells itself. All intercity or international Golden Gloves bouts to date have given spectators more than their money's worth. These contests against the Germans, so far as one may judge in advance, promise to be the best of the lot. No lover of amateur boxing, or any kind of boxing, can afford to miss the Chicagoland-German series of July 26.

Just friendly faces, words—perhaps a laugh.

A bird to sing its evening song near where I rest. J. L.

Void Suit Against Comiskey Estate in Probate Court

On motion of their own attorneys, the claims of Alfred C. Bernoudy and his sister, Marie, both of 7310 Euclid avenue, against the estate of Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox who died Oct. 29 last year, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Harold J. Taylor in the Probate court. The claims will be pressed through a suit in the Circuit court, and the dismissal in the Probate court was to avoid a duplication of hearings. The Bernoudys, children of a niece of Mrs. Comiskey, claim Comiskey promised to leave $300,000 to Marie and $150,000 to Harold in his will. He died leaving no will.

COLLEGIATE MEET IS FIRST AMONG OLYMPIC TESTS

Frosh, Preps, Ineligibles Strengthen Field.

Citizens Back Owen

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 7.—(AP)—Jimmy Owen, Maplewood High school sprinter who broke a national interscholastic 100 yard dash record last week, will compete in the Olympic semi-finals in Chicago, July 1 and 2. Citizens of suburban Maplewood have started a Jimmy Owen Olympic Fund to speed the youthful runner on his career. He ran the 100 yard dash in 9.7 seconds in Chicago and in 9.6 seconds in the St. Louis county track meet May 14.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Although five semi-final track and field meets in the United States will qualify athletes for the American Olympic finals at Stanford university, Palo Alto, Cal., July 15 and 16, none is more important than the National Collegiate meet at Stagg field Friday and Saturday. Track requires continual training and for this reason the majority of the runners, sprinters, and hurdlers named on the United States Olympic team will come from the colleges and universities or from those athletes recently graduated.

The National Collegiates have drawn an entry from as far east as Pennsylvania, scored almost a grand slam in the Western conference and Big Six, has reached all the prominent southern universities, and has attracted athletes from as far west as Arizona. It is not national in scope, of course, for the Pacific coast stars, who formerly competed in Chicago, have entered the Intercollegiate track meet, also an Olympic qualifying tournament, at Berkeley, Cal., July 1 and 2. The Intercollegiates, customarily held in the east, have been transferred to the west coast.

Three to Qualify.

But the absence of the coast squads is more than offset by addition of college men, ineligible for college competition, but who will be permitted to compete Friday and Saturday because the meet qualifies for the Olympic finals. Add to this group those qualifiers in sectional meets from high schools and clubs and the graduate group of college stars, and the meet looms as most important of the series.

Except where their marks are far below the average performance necessary to make the American Olympic team, three athletes will be chosen in each event to compete at Stanford university. The N. C. A. A. track committee, composed of Coach Tom Jones, University of Wisconsin; Director A. A. Stagg, University of Chicago, and Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference, has been authorized to name the qualifiers for the American finals. Two thousand three hundred and fifty dollars have been appropriated to defray expenses of the qualifiers.

Michigan May Win.

The ineligibles and noncollege men will not score points in the meet. This ruling probably means that a conference university will win the title. The three favored will be Michigan, Big Ten champion; Ohio State, and Indiana, which pushed the Wolverines closely in the recent conference meet. Michigan may be handicapped, since a few of her stars cannot compete this week because of conflicting examinations.

Among the ineligible college men are Raymond Sears of Butler, national junior one mile champion with a mark of 4 minutes 21 6-10 seconds; Irving Seely of Illinois, who has pole vaulted 13 feet 9¼ inches; Bill Weems of Abilene Christian, who won the 220 yard dash and the quarter mile in the Texas intercollegiates, and Karl Sandbach of Purdue, who when a Gary, Ind., High school student set a national record in the high hurdles.

University freshmen, ineligible to score points, include Vincent Murphy of Notre Dame, who last year won the national interscholastic high jump at Stagg field, and Tim Quinn of Michigan State Normal. Quinn won the national prep half mile title in 1930 and 1931.

Keller Only Champ Entered.

Jack Keller of Ohio State, is the only defending champion entered. Keller won both hurdle races last year, covering the highs in 14 6-10 seconds and the lows in 23 8-10 seconds. Both marks are slower than his best records this year.

Besides the 15 events of the N. C. A. A. program, the 400 meter intermediate hurdles and the hop, step, and jump have been added. Both are Olympic events which are not a part of American track competition except in relay carnivals.

Par Becomes Public Enemy No. 1; Cops Play Golf Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Four tournaments are on Chicago's golf program today, the most important of which is the second annual Chicago police department meet at the Olympic Golf and Country club, on the Dundee road, one mile west of Wheeling.

JOHN LEHMAN.

In two other tournaments, tenants of the Merchandise mart will gather at the Vernon Country club and Westmoor will hold its first men's field day. Evanston will be host to the dental alumni of Northwestern university in another meet, during which Art Sweet of Ridgemoor and John Lehman of Olympia Fields will meet Horton Smith of Oak Park and Dr. George E. Meyer of Skokie in an exhibition match.

Highlights of the Chicago district qualifying trials for the national open at Olympia Fields: Johnny Lehman, the home club's pride, finding a ditch with his tee shot on the 14th hole of the No. 4 course and then coming back with a spoon to the green for a 4. . . . Bob MacDonald looking sort of fussed after coming in with 151 to tie for the lead. . . . Johnny Bird, from Milwaukee, co-leader with MacDonald, feeling at home on a Chicago course. . . . He learned the game under Jim Hurd at South Shore. . . . Jock Hutchison whistling after qualifying. . . . He missed out last year after leading the field in 1930. . . . Abe Espinosa remarking about the soft tee ground after the rain, but coming in with 153 in spite of it. . . . Horton Smith of Oak Park, Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, and Laurie Ayton of Evanston, who were exempt from qualifying, taking it easy. . . . Tom Kelly boosting the fifth annual North Shore open at Sunset Valley on Aug. 22 and coming away with a flock of entries.

Chicago will begin qualifying play Friday at the Harlem course for the national public links championship, to be held at Cherokee park, Louisville, Ky., July 19 to 23. The trial play will continue for nearly a month to determine the six players who will represent Chicago in the national tournament. Three sectional rounds, each at 18 holes, will be held, with eight qualifiers from each section meeting at the Vernon Country club near Deerfield on or about July 1.

The round at Harlem will bring together west section players who are not members of private clubs, while the north section will meet at Mid-City on June 17, and the south at Evergreen on June 24. Among the leading contenders this year are John Banks, of La Grange Junior college; Gus Fetz, the home made golfer; Al Quigley, medalist in the 1930 national meet; James Marek, captain of the La Grange High team; Sterling Dawson, Lincoln Park champion; Capt. Alicoate of Mid-City; Bobby McLean, the ice skater; R. A. Bowker of Jackson park; E. A. Paderson, and Chuck Boywid, Cook County boys' champion. Entries may be made up to tee time.

Entries for the western open tournament, to be played at the Canterbury Golf club, Cleveland, O., on June 30, July 1 and 2, close on June 23 with H. C. Bartholomay, 175 West Jackson boulevard, secretary of the Western Golf association.

The Northwest Golf league, composed of eight member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association, will begin its fourth annual schedule tomorrow at Park Ridge, with two new members. Sunset Ridge and Indian Hill, members last year, have dropped out and their places have been filled by Westward-Ho and Elmhurst. The league will play a schedule of eight matches, each team being represented by six players.

Other members of the league, organized by Fred W. Lietzow of Ridgemoor, are Edgewater, Kildeer, Medinah, Rolling Green, Park Ridge, and Ridgemoor. Ridgemoor has won the league trophy twice and a third victory will give it permanent possession. Pairings for tomorrow at Park Ridge match Ridgemoor against Rolling Green, Elmhurst against Medinah, Kildeer against Westward-Ho, and Edgewater against Park Ridge.

Two good foursome matches are in prospect for Chicago golfers in the next two weeks. Horton Smith and Don Armstrong will meet Harry Cooper and Tom Meehan at the St. Charles Country club Sunday and on June 19 Chick Evans and Jack Kelley will meet Dick Martin and Jock Hutchison at the Libertyville Country club in a benefit match for the service relief fund of the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

It'll Cost Poor Sailor Plenty of Watermelons!

BY BOB BECKER.

Iced watermelon always has been a favorite delicacy with many adults as soon as hot weather arrives, but beginning June 27, the start of the annual CHICAGO TRIBUNE canoe cruise and camping trip for Boy Scouts, the watermelon will move from the delicacy into the "prize" class. The reason for this change is that any Boy Scout or any adult on the canoe cruise who falls out of a canoe or tips over in his canoe must buy watermelons for the entire expedition.

This new "law" went into effect last summer, when THE TRIBUNE canoe cruising party tackled the rough Flambeau river in Wisconsin. It is a stream that ordinarily should produce several watermelon parties because of the number of difficult, rock strewn rapids to be negotiated. The canoe cruisers managed to feast on cold watermelon just twice during the 125 mile cruise.

This summer the canoe cruise will start in at Aurora on the morning of June 27 and will travel down stream to the Illinois. Although the Fox is not as rough a stream as the Flambeau there are some well polished rocks in the rapids below the Plano bridge and snappy stretches of swift water when the paddlers get in the Fox river dells country below Sheridan. Therefore the watermelon rule will prevail.

As announced several days ago, this annual cruise sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and conducted in cooperation with the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts is open to Chicago Scouts between 15 and 17 years of age. Any boy who would like to take this exciting camping and paddling trip down the Fox river should put in his application at once. Any Life Scout between 15 and 17 who has a swimming merit badge, knows how to handle a canoe, and likes the real thing in camping and outdoor life is eligible.

Scouts who want to join this paddling and camping expedition should get in their applications at once. Scout masters will relay these applications to headquarters or contact may be made direct with Roy Aim at Boy Scout headquarters, 7 West Washington street, Chicago.

Three Jockeys Threatened in Mystery Notes

Three of the veteran jockeys at Washington Park reported to the track officials yesterday that they had received letters from what they believed was a black hand source threatening them with physical harm if they did not "ride" according to instructions embodied in the letters.

The jockeys were Jimmy Smith, under contract to E. R. Bradley; R. Jones, first string rider for the Emil Denemark stable, and Jimmy McCoy, who is riding free lance.

The letters were turned over to Lieut. Edward Kelly, head of the Washington Park police, who is cooperating with Chicago police in the case.

Track officials were of the opinion the letters might have been the work of a crank.

DUBLINSKY GETS CHANCE TO SPOIL CANZONERI BOUTS

Harry Dubinsky, Chicago boxer, is offered a chance to spoil two championship matches which Tony Canzoneri, lightweight titleholder, faces. He meets Canzoneri in a ten round nontitle bout at the West Side Boxing club on June 16.

Dublinsky boxed two rounds yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium with Solly Dukelsky, his welterweight stablemate. Goldman, Canzoneri, Lou Fink, former trainer of Gene Tunney, and the champion's father, George Canzoneri, will arrive in the loop from New York Saturday. The champion will establish himself at the Trafton gymnasium.

Krone Offers International Mat Parade

Promoter Doc Krone is counting on Jim Londos, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, and the most consistent crowdgetter in the game, to make Chicago's first outdoor mat show of the season at Wrigley field tomorrow night a financial success.

While Londos is the promoter's ace in the hole, the nine other grapplers on the five match card are believed [by Doc] to be the most uniformly capable performers he ever has assembled in one ring during his many years in the business.

A League of Nations.

Doc looks at it this way: Gino Garibaldi, a coal miner of Italian descent from southern Illinois, who meets Londos in the headliner, a finish match, should draw heavily from the Italian population; Hans Steinke, a native German, who meets Rudy Dusek, should pull the Teutons through the gates, while Dusek, a Pole, is looked upon as the magnet for his countrymen.

Collegians, if there are any with the price of admission, are expected [still by Doc] to rally round Jim McMillen, the ex-Illini, in his bout with Milo Steinborn; Pat O'Shocker, the promoter contends, should have an all-Irish rooting section when he mixes with George Zaharias, and to carry out the all-nations pattern, there is Jim Clinkstock, an Indian, who if the promoter's dreams come true, will face a whole tribe of Redskins when he steps out to take his bow in the opener with Paul Harper.

Although Londos' title claims are ignored in some localities, Doc contends Jim is the one and only champion and, to prove it, the latter has promised through the promoter that his $7,500 diamond studded belt shall go to Garibaldi, in the highly improbable event that the coal miner ends Londos' reign.

Giant Meets Dwarf.

Steinke and Dusek will offer a contrast in builds, the German being set up along the general lines of one of his native mountains, while Dusek is one of the shortest members of his profession.

All of the grapplers on the card are in town putting on final drills for tomorrow's show.

It will be the first wrestling event ever offered in the Cubs' park and the first in any major league enclosure since the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match at Comiskey park more than 25 years ago.

Tilden, Lacking Old Brilliance, Loses to Nusslein

Displaying only flashes of his former greatness, Big Bill Tilden went down to defeat before his youthful German opponent, Hans Nusslein, at Northwestern university yesterday in three sets, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5.

Tilden will jump into action again today when he meets Karel Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia on the same courts. A doubles match also will be played between Tilden and Kozeluh and Nusslein and Ramon Najuch, the fourth member of the troupe.

A crowd of 1,200 saw Tilden's downfall yesterday before the stubborn playing of the sturdy little Teuton. The former world's singles champion was guilty of frequent errors, netting on numerous occasions and driving out of bounds in a manner usually foreign to him.

To Tilden's credit it may be said that he still retains the same cannon ball service of former years, a service which came to his aid on numerous occasions yesterday and which was instrumental in his capturing the second set after he had taken a 6-1 drubbing in the opener.

Tilden opened the second set with a love game, scoring all of his points by smashing serves which Nusslein found impossible to return. This phase of Big Bill's game was not sufficient to carry him on to victory and in the final set he succumbed 7-5.

In this final set the taciturn little German demonstrated why he has proved to be Tilden's most respected opponent since he entered the professional ranks. Throughout the set Nusslein played a waiting game. He was content to volley and wait for the breaks which came frequently as a result of Tilden's wildness. They ran the count to 5 all, at which juncture Nusslein drove Tilden to the back court and kept him there while he captured the last two games in handy fashion, Tilden winning but one point in each game.

It was a bad day for Tilden all around, for in the doubles, in which he teamed up with Roman Najuch, he lost to Nusslein and Kozeluh, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4.

Mr. Muldoon, You Can't Take One from Zero

goin' to get no sorer than you was in 1918, are you?"

But it seems like Shikat and Lewis are wrestling for some kind of fund to buy milk for some babies, and I suppose when they is babies mixed up into a thing a feller can afford to forget bygones and pitch in to help along the circulation for the charity that is getting up the milk fund because, doggone it all, folks, there ain't anything more beautiful in all this world than a little helpless baby. You know, a baby is all pink and innocent and it don't look like much for a while, but doggone when they begin to smile at you, you sort of want to get down on your knees and say "koochy-koochy-koo."

So I suppose it don't make no real differents whether old Mr. Muldoon is defyin' hisself in revoking a title that he wouldn't never recognize in the first place, or if he orders a feller to take part in a match for the championship who he wouldn't never allow him to advertise his bouts as matches before but only exhibitions because he wasn't certain they was on the level.

And I suppose old John L. Sullivan is a-settin' on a cloud way off somewheres, playin' "Rosy O'Grady" on his harp and sayin' "Good old Muldoon, he's so wrong he's right" and, after all, folks, nobody can't get sore at a feller like that. Not even a Democrat.

Sox and Senators Give Fans Plenty for Their Money

In their last two games the Senators and the Sox have played 25 innings to reach two decisions, both in favor of the Senators. The Senators beat Lyons in the final in Washington May 8, 6 to 5, in 14 innings.

Washington protected second place ably while the threatening A's and Tigers dropped their games.

Joe Cronin, star shortstop of the visitors, is with the team, but probably will not play in the west. He has a busted finger. Manush is out of the regular lineup with a pulled tendon in his right thigh, but is available for pinch batting duty.

Selph's fielding continues under his standard. In the first two innings yesterday he had five chances and booted two of them. He also looked slow on a couple of plays scored as hits, one a run producing squeeze play.

Coach Johnny Butler, set down for five days for using cuss words at Umpire George Moriarty, was back at work yesterday. One round Milt Gaston will be eligible Saturday.

Hal McKain, recently sent to Toronto in the deal for Pitcher Art Smith, bounced back into town yesterday. Hal pitched one game for Toronto, then complained of a sore arm. He was suspended and came back to see some Sox baseball games.

It may be Fischer vs. Lyons in this afternoon's affair.

Bush Picked for Mound Duty in 2d of Dodger Set

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 7. — Guy Bush, who hasn't done any work in more than a week, will close his vacation by pitching the second of the Brooklyn series for the Cubs tomorrow. The Dodgers' staff is so badly shot that Manager Carey may have to pick Hollis Thurston.

Manager Hornsby put Right Fielder Hornsby back on the bench for failing to hit. The experiment, however, may be resumed at an early date unless the front office digs up the needed hitting outfielder.

Ki Cuyler worked out in the outfield before the game, but still limps perceptibly as the result of the fractured left foot suffered in the game of April 24. Cuyler will be surprised if he is able to play inside of two weeks. In the meantime he might be able to do a little pinch hitting.

When the Cubs appeared on the field there was a light shower of lemons. This was in retaliation for the fruit presented to Hack Wilson in Chicago.

Cubs Drop Out of First Place by Losing, 9-2 reached base after this until the inglorious blowup of all hands in the decisive seventh.

About the only thing for which Warneke was responsible in the seventh was a double with which Cuccinello led off. Slade bounced to English and would have been out at first if Grimm hadn't dropped the throw. Next was Hartnett's fatal blunder. Picinich tapped to English, who threw to Gabby to head off Cuccinello at the plate. Hartnett took the throw and Cuccinello turned back toward third. Gabby ran down the line right at Cuccinello's heels and then threw to English. English then tried to run him down, but was losing ground so pegged to Warneke, who by this time had come up to the plate.

Turtle vs. Greyhound.

When English threw to Warneke Cuccinello acted as if he didn't know what had happened to the ball. He stopped running to take a good look. While he was standing still Warneke tossed the ball back to Hartnett, who was between third base and the runner. As soon as the ball landed in Hartnett's hand Cuccinello made another break for the plate and Gabby took after him like a turtle chasing a greyhound. Cuccinello hasn't been caught yet. While all this was going on Slade took third and Picinich second.

Frederick batted for Kelly and was purposely passed. Stripp ran for him. Then Sukeforth, swinging for Vance, bounced a single through short, sending Slade and Picinich across the plate. Taylor sacrificed. Finn bunted on an intended squeeze play and Grimm's toss to the plate to get Stripp was too late. Hartnett let the throw get away, so Sukeforth also scored. A single by O'Doul sent Finn home. Then Wilson did the Cubs another favor by popping to short center. The debacle ended with O'Doul failing in an attempted steal.

Three runs were picked up off Jakie May in the eighth. Cuccinello began this affair with a single. Slade walked and Picinich bunted to May, who pegged wild to third. This filled the bases with no one out. Wright struck out, but Old Man Jack Quinn, who finished for Vance, ripped off a double which cleaned up the bases.

HOYT FAILS TO WIN; BROOKLYN RELEASES HIM

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 7.—[Special.]—Waite Hoyt, former star hurler of the New York Yankees, today was given his unconditional release by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Hoyt, who pitched in seven world's series, his first in 1921, signed with the Dodgers last spring after he was released by the Philadelphia Athletics.

center and scored while Appling was throwing out Judge. Kerr popped to Berry and Bluege singled to left. The inning ended when Caraway threw out Spencer.

Manush batted for Marberry to start the ninth inning and was thrown out by Appling. Caraway walked Myer and threw wide ones to Rice, whereupon he was yanked and Frasier went into pitch. Appling threw out Rice, Myer taking second. Frasier threw two strikes past West, then two balls. West fouled one, then singled to center, scoring Myer with the tying run. Reynolds popped to Blue.

Then Comes the Blowup.

In the Sox ninth, Selph singled with one out, and after Rothrock had flied to Rice, stole second when trapped off first by Crowder. Kress was given an intentional pass. Then Berry tapped to Crowder.

Appling and Kress came up with their second snappy double play of the game to end a serious threat in the tenth. After Judge had been thrown out by Frasier, Kerr singled to center and stole second. Bluege grounded to Selph, who managed to hold Kerr on second but could not get his throw to first ahead of Bluege. Appling dashed into right center for Spencer's potential Texas leaguer and shot the ball to Kress in time to double Kerr off second.

Berry Misses Frasier.

The game started to crumble in a big way when Frasier walked Crowder to start the eleventh. Alvin stopped at third when Myer slammed a double off the right field wall. Rice was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. West knocked the ball past Kress on what normally would have been a single, but there was confusion among the base runners which lasted long enough for Kress to run into short left center, retrieve the ball and throw to Selph in time to force Myer. Crowder scored on the play.

Reynolds singled to left, Rice scoring and West stopping at second. The runners moved up while Frasier was throwing out Judge. In throwing the ball back to Frasier during the pitching to Kerr, Berry tossed the thing past Victor, West scoring and Reynolds taking third. Kerr doubled off the left field wall, scoring Reynolds. Bluege walked, but Spencer graciously popped to Kress.

The Sox scored a run in the eleventh on a couple of passes and a couple of outs.

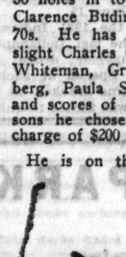
Bunk! —says the famous ALEX MORRISON ...and he guarantees to Improve Your Golf in just Five Days!

DON'T LOOK UP! DON'T HURRY BACKSWING! DON'T PULL IN! DON'T DROP LEFT SHOULDER! DON'T OVERSWING! BE SURE TO PIVOT! KEEP LEFT ARM STRAIGHT!

AT LAST Alex Morrison has done what thousands have urged him to do: put his way to learn the correct swing within reach of every one anxious to improve his game.

"Alexander the Great" is, as Bob Davis says, "the Wizard of Golf Instruction." His instruction brought Babe Ruth down into the 70s—enabled Doug Fairbanks to shoot 72 (on a par 71 course) in Los Angeles—helped big-framed Rex Beach shoot 154 for 36 holes in tournament play, and slender Clarence Budington Kelland get into the 70s. He has taught Jack Dempsey, the slight Charles Chaplin and the bulky Paul Whiteman, Grantland Rice, Rube Goldberg, Paula Stone, Annette Kellermann, and scores of others. Whatever golf lessons he chose to give were given at a charge of $200 for 12 lessons.

He is on the staff of The American Golfer, has written for Ladies' Home Journal, American Magazine, Popular Science, and others. He has given lectures and exhibitions all over this country and Canada. Although this left him little time for tournament play, Alex has demonstrated that he can play the game with the best of them. In addition to defeating several of the leading players he has set many course records. Recently he tied the course record at Winged Foot (the scene of the 1929 American Open) with a 68. He has no less than 30 attested scores ranging from 65 to 69 over championship length courses; a few of them, for example, the Brackenridge Park at San Antonio, Texas, with a 69; Pasadena Golf Club, Altadena, California, 69; the Detroit Golf Club (South Course) a 66; and 69 at Denver Country Club.



This fellow is considerably worried about his wind-up. The correct swing banishes all worry about ANY stage of a shot.

So many 'don'ts' are running through his mind that they show in his knees, his shoulders, and his whole stance.

For Those Bewildered By a "Plague of Dont's"

Alex Morrison has just gotten out a book which clearly describes and pictures his simple way of learning the correct swing. There need be no question in your mind about being able to learn through a book like this one. It is sold not on promise but on performance—on a definite guarantee that it will improve your game or cost you nothing.

If you know Alex Morrison you know that he is the arch enemy of Golf DONT'S! His last fifteen years have been spent to help the man so typical of thousands of golfers: the man who stands grimly before his ball "concentrating," with his knuckles white with tension, and the cords in his neck swelling with strain. Alex Morrison is out to help the fellow who really gets too little amusement, satisfaction, and benefit from the game—who merely exchanges business worries for golf worries—who is in a constant panic about doing the wrong thing.

The Secret of the Correct Swing

If you are "stymied" by your apparent inability to apply seemingly simple principles, if the usual advisory jargon and generalities haven't gotten you anywhere, if you realize that mere intense concentration, will power, and practice alone is not the real answer—then you will be interested in how Alex Morrison can change your whole viewpoint, in his book, "A New Way to Better Golf."

First, he tells you how to banish mental tension and nervous strain, and how to play with muscular freedom and mental relaxation.

Then he analyzes the eight stages of the Correct Swing—not "correct" because it is the way he does it, but correct because of the structure of your own body. For years Morrison has studied anatomy and mechanics. As he has proven, when the proper muscles cease to function the wrong ones take charge—and you inevitably get a bad shot.

In simple terms and clear photographs he shows these eight stages. He proves by actual photographs there is not even a "pivot" in it! He gives you no such advice as is bewildering and killing the game of the gentleman pictured above. Then, having shown you how to get the Correct Swing, he shows how easy it is to put it into practice—in every shot, from drive to putt.

ALEX MORRISON

GRANTLAND RICE, Editor of The American Golfer, says:

"Alex Morrison has been working for years on simplifying and developing a clear picture of what is needed to play better golf. He is something more than a fine teacher of golf. He is also one of the few who have made a close study of breaking up tension, which is the curse of every game played."

REX BEACH says: "Morrison knows more about his business than I will ever know about mine. He has taken the golf swing apart and examined it, oiled up loose parts, reassembled them and put the whole thing into smooth running order. To watch him execute a shot is to realize that he has mastered the elusive principles of the golf stroke to a nicety which makes the swing of most experts look crude. You will find here the soundest, the simplest, the most sensible help you have ever found."

"If the Pulitzer Fund were to offer a reward to golf instructors," says BOB DAVIS, "Morrison would grab the coin every year. He is the most celebrated golf instructor alive."

A LADY COMES BACK! PLUMAGE WINS MARQUETTE

Her Shady Past Forgiven in Gallant Drive.

BY FRENCH LANE.

One of the fair ladies of the turf staged quite a notable comeback in the Marquette purse at Washington Park yesterday.

The femme which caught the spirit of the times and decided to do her best was Plumage, a Kentucky filly which just a little more than a year ago caused some folks to think she would some day become a champion. This happened when she won the famous old Ashland Oaks at Lexington.

But from the time she won the Ashland Oaks in the mud until a week ago at Washington Park Plumage was one of those devil may care horses. She didn't win very often and she didn't seem to care when she was defeated.

Nobody Loved Her.

She wasn't very highly regarded when she went to the post in the Marquette at six furlongs against such stylish racers as Manta, Princess Camelia, and others. She had won in the mud against some selling platers just a few days earlier, but to beat the stake horses in the Marquette was something different.

There was first a plunge on Princess Camelia. Later, a rush of support came for Manta and the result was that Plumage traveled postward at tall odds.

They say horses never come from far back to win in the mud. But Plumage did it this time. In the early part of it Absurdity, Manta, and Princess Camelia went out to race each other into the ground and as a result Plumage was back next to last quite a way behind the leaders.

Absurdity didn't last long in the early drive and when she stopped Manta and Princess Camelia began the real fight for the lead. It was a ding dong affair and rounding the lower bend into the stretch Manta seemed to have whipped Princess Camelia, for she was a half length in front.

Her Race by Inches.

It was then that Plumage started to drive up on the outside. Manta's pacemaking was of short duration for Princess Camelia came again, caught and passed her. Plumage was moving fast on the outside, and an eighth of a mile from the finish was on even terms with Princess Camelia.

Plumage and Princess Camelia fought it out the rest of the way home. Neither faltered. They struggled through the deep muddy track showing great gameness. As they passed the finish line Jockey Martin dropped Plumage's head down in front. The margin of victory couldn't have been more than a couple of inches.

Plumage had made quite startling time over the difficult track by running the six furlongs in 1:16 3-5. A few loyal Kentuckians backed her and their dividends were $19.62 for a $2 ticket. She paid $6.20 to place. Manta struggled home third with Jockey Jimmy Smith doing the best he could with her, but she was nearly a half dozen lengths back of the two leaders.

The favorite players came to grief in the running of the sixth race and so did Jockey W. Wright, who was riding the 2 to 5 shot, Zida.

Jockey Thrown Under Horses.

Zida stumbled first when the barrier lifted but recovered, and when the field of five reached the clubhouse turn she was running with the leaders. Then she stumbled again, tossing Jockey Wright out of the saddle and into the muddy running strip.

Two horses passed over him. He was knocked unconscious and taken to the emergency hospital, where physicians discovered he had suffered a possible fracture of the left leg.

The riderless Zida trailed her field to the head of the stretch, then raced to the lead and finished in front of the others. But the winner was old Duelist, which paid $22.46 for a $2 ticket, with More Power second, which was at $34.92 to place. Third money went to Crushed Stone.

The American Derby headliners began moving in at Washington Park yesterday. The first to arrive was Economic, winner of the Ohio Derby and second in the Kentucky Derby. He was brought here from Cleveland by Trainer Clarence Buxton.

John Schank of Hawthorne spent the afternoon at Washington Park. Had a five horse parley winding up on Zida and when Zida threw her rider at the clubhouse turn the Hawthorne prexy ripped his program into a million pieces and accidentally sat down on an expensive new straw skimmer. A very disastrous spill for Mr. Schank.

There promises to be an interesting struggle in the feature at Washington Park this afternoon when C. C. Van Meter's Red Whisk hooks up with E. R. Bradley's Ballygran. They are rated as the best 2 year olds quartered here.

MRS. THOMPSON'S HORSES EXCEL IN SO. SHORE SHOW

Take Three First Places and One Third.

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Mrs. A. C. Thompson's entries carried off the greater share of honors at the opening night of the thirty-third anual South Shore Country club horse show last night, winning three first places and one third place. A crowd of 1,500 witnessed the exhibition.

Mrs. Thompson won first place in the heavy harness event, hackney ponies pair exhibition, and in the heavy harness division open to novices. Her horse, Pride of Onway, which won first place in the heavy harness division for novices, also took the third place in the straight heavy harness event.

Signal Flash Wins Roadster.

The event most popular with the crowd was the roadster exhibition, won by the Milky Way farm's Signal Flash. Entries were so evenly matched that several trot-offs were necessary before the winners were determined.

Jennette Grey, another Milky Way entry, was chosen winner only after a great deal of deliberation on the part of the judges in the five gaited novice saddle horse exhibition, in which 23 competed. Rex Walker, pride of the R. E. Moreland stables, took second place, and Colonel William of the Minton Hickory Mountain stables, third.

Two Sessions Today.

The show will continue until Saturday noon. There will be two exhibitions today, one at 2:15 p. m. and one at 8:15 o'clock. The outstanding events on today's program will be the ladies hunter class, useful bridle path horses and the $500 junior stake for five gaited horses, in which Joanna Jones, owned by Dr. C. H. HAWES AWARDED MEDAL FOR GAME CONSERVATION

Harry Barton Hawes, United States senator from Missouri, has been awarded the outdoor life gold medal for distinguished achievement in wild life conservation during 1931. Hawes is vice chairman of the senate's special committee on conservation of wild life resources and was chosen for the award principally for his part in the committee's recent report on game protection.

The award has been given to two men, one in the east and one in the west, during the last seven years, but hereafter will be given to only one man. The outstanding feature of the report which Hawes prepared was a suggestion that a $1 or $2 federal stamp be attached to every migratory bird shooter's license for the establishment of a fund to provide shelters and feeding grounds for game fowl.

TWO OF CITY'S BIG BANKS PAY FULL DIVIDENDS

Continental Illinois to Disburse $3.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While the epidemic of rumors that afflicted Chicago banks several months ago has largely subsided, a milder form of misgivings concerning dividends and earnings has cropped up intermittently. It may prove reassuring that two large banks declared their regular quarterly dividends yesterday. The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company voted its payment of $3 a share and the Stock Yards National bank declared the usual 40 cents on its $20 par stock.

While the Continental Illinois bank, like most other banking institutions, makes public only an annual report, it may be authoritatively stated that earnings thus far this year have exceeded those for the corresponding period in 1931. Most of the large Chicago banks report increases in deposits in the last few weeks.

The impending return of Gen. Charles G. Dawes to Chicago and his resumption of chairmanship of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company caused a flurry in the bank stock market yesterday. Central Republic shares advanced several points. It is understood that Joseph E. Otis will be co-chairman.

Auburn Pays Dividend.

The Auburn Automobile company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 and the usual 2 per cent stock dividend. At the same time President E. L. Cord announced a "back to jobs" program involving a large outlay and employment of many men immediately. The Auburn factories will go into capacity production.

"We are spending millions of dollars in this program as our contribution to help start the wheels of industry turning," Mr. Cord said. "Everybody knows that jobs for workingmen are the greatest need today. The money that will be received by workmen in producing cars, by salesmen and dealers in all parts of the country, will go to pay for food and clothing and will go to merchants and shopkeepers, who in turn will pass it on to others.

"The present market is a 'bargain market.' We have found that people will buy when offered sufficient inducements. To make our program possible, Auburn distributors, dealers and salesmen are sacrificing profits."

TRADE NEWS MIXED

Other news of trade and industry was mixed yesterday. A mild increase in the movement of commodities by the railroads caused some cheer. On the other hand, an increase in petroleum production again raised the bogey of overproduction.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended May 28 totaled 520,962 cars, according to the American Railway association. This was an increase of 5,512 cars over the previous week, although falling 190,287 and 339,102 cars, respectively, below the corresponding weeks in 1931 and 1930. Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 195,535, a decrease of 86,390 cars under the same week of 1931; merchandise, 130,490; decrease, 16,729. Grain and grain products, 32,008; decrease, 2,990; coal, 72,836; decrease, 42,956; forest products, 18,062; decrease, 13,256; ore, 2,543; decrease, 23,341; coke, 3,202; decrease, 3,015; live stock, 16,286; decrease, 1,610.

An increase of 11,850 barrels a day in crude oil production occured last week, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. This brought the daily average gross output to 2,131,250 barrels. Practically all of the increase took place in Oklahoma and Texas. California showed a decrease. Refiners curtailed takings of crude oil and operated at 61.7 per cent of capacity, compared with 63.3 per cent in the previous week. Gasoline stocks receded 90,000 barrels, but still total 44,247,000 barrels.

Urges Realty Plan to Avoid Court Tangles

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's biggest cooperative apartment project, the Eddystone Homes, the first unit of which is at 421 Melrose street, was placed in receivership yesterday by Judge Robert E. Gentzel of the Circuit court of Cook county. Earle A. Shilton, real estate broker at 605 North Michigan avenue, was appointed receiver. Receivership proceedings were instituted by the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, trustee for the original $1,240,000 bond issue underwritten by the Continental Illinois company, its subsidiary.

EARLE A. SHILTON. [Moffett Photo.]

The Eddystone Homes project was promoted by Albert W. Swayne & Co., and the first unit, a twenty-two story structure containing seventy-seven suites, designed by Holabird & Root, was opened in October, 1929. Foundations are in for the second unit, but work has not gone farther than that. The original plans called for one of the largest and most imposing groups of cooperative apartment buildings in the world, to front on Sheridan road, extending from Melrose to Belmont, and to replace the famous Chase apartments.

Known as Successful Co-op.

At one time it was reported that all the suites in the first unit were sold. Mr. Swayne owns and occupies a palatial apartment in the building. It was known in the realty world as a successful coöp. But ever mounting taxes and the failure of a few tenant owners to pay their assessments brought about a deficit of $18,000 on May 1.

The original issue of $1,240,000 had been reduced to $1,200,000 when the partial default occurred. The interest rate on the issue is 6 per cent. The building is owned by the Eddystone Homes Building corporation, the stock of which is held by the tenant owners.

Mr. Shilton is president and manager of the Cloisters Building corporation, which owns and operates an eighty-four suite cooperative property at 5801 Dorchester avenue. It is stated that it was on account of his cooperative management experience that he was made receiver to work out the Eddystone Homes problems. Judge Gentzel appointed Edward Blonder attorney for Mr. Shilton.

Same Landlord 53 Years.

More than a half century of tenancy under the same landlord will have elapsed before a lease just signed by the Gunthorp-Warren Printing company has expired. The landlord is the Marshall Field estate. The printing company is now 63 years old and has been in a Field building here since 1899. They have just signed a 20 year lease on three floors of another Field building at 210 West Jackson street, where they will occupy 60,000 square feet of space.

The firm was founded by William Percy Gunthorp, an English printer who arrived here in 1869. When the firm was 25 years old it was incorporated as the Gunthorp-Warren Printing company, and William P. Gunthorp Jr. and J. Latham Warren were added to the firm. The litigation and incorporation papers were drawn up by Attorney Walter J. Gunthorp, who a few years later gave up the legal profession and joined the new corporation. At this time the monotype machine was invented and the attorney became the first monotype operator in the city. He is now president of the firm.

Since 1899, when their shop was on Randolph street, the firm has always been in a Field building. For 30 years they have occupied three floors at 132 South Clark street. The firm will move to their new location on July 1, it was announced yesterday by Richard Gunthorp, son of the present head. The Marshall Field estate has spent $350,000 getting the structure in shape for them and remodeling the front. The printing company is spending another $200,000 on new equipment and fixtures.

cial affairs of Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, under the direction of Chicago banks which hold large blocks of the companies' stocks as collateral for loans. These loans were made to Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities, another investment trust.

This audit, it was said, had already demonstrated the necessity of writing down assets of the operating companies. Bankers said the new appraisal would be at "bed rock" in preparation for the new régime headed by James Simpson, successor to Mr. Insull as chairman of the directorates, and for refinancing of maturing bonds.

While this reappraisal may reduce sharply the surpluses of the companies, it was asserted there would be no impairment of their capital. The audit will show, it was added, that earning power of the companies will be as large as reported previously.

Federal Judge Lindley, in taking under advisement the petitions of Attorneys Lee and Walter Brewer to be allowed to intervene in the Insull Utility Investments receivership, said that the only justification for intervention was that the intervenors could give the court and the receivers real aid in discovering pertinent information or uncovering assets.

He added that the intervening petitions contained nothing which had not previously been taken up by the receivers and the court. He added that the truth or falsity of certain allegations contained in the petitions could not be ascertained until the court's audit has been completed. For that reason, he added, the petitions were taken under advisement.

Charges Special Sale.

Attorney Lee had stated in his plea that there were $78,000,000 of assets which had been transferred by the corporation. He believed those could be recovered by the corporation by vigorous prosecution of its legal rights. He contended that the transfer of the assets had been illegal. Certain securities had been sold to members of the Insull family below the market price, he alleged. He requested that the members of the family, officers of the company, and the New York banks holding assets of the trust as collateral be made defendants in recovery suits.

In answer to questions of the court Attorney Brewer stated that he represented a protective committee for holders of debentures. The committee was formed by a group of investment bankers who had distributed the debentures, he stated, and was not hostile to the receivers of the former management, but was anxious to watch out for the rights of the debenture holders.

Ford Motor Wins $55,580 Western Tax Refund

Bismarck, N. D., June 7.—(AP)—A District court judge today ordered the state to make a tax refund of $55,580, plus interest since 1923, to the Ford Motor company. Judge R. G. McFarland gave the state until next March to do so, because the legislature must appropriate funds. The Ford company brought suit to recover on income tax payments in 1921-'22. The judge held the assessments were not made in accordance with state law.

DOLLAR IS STRONGER, BUT U. S. GOLD STORE IS REDUCED AGAIN

New York, June 7.—(AP)—The country's gold stock declined $20,970,900 further today. Exports announced by the New York federal reserve bank totaled $9,773,200, of which $8,658,500 went to France, $799,700 to Switzerland, $300,000 to Holland and $16,000 to England. In addition, the daily report showed an increase of $11,197,700 in gold earmarked for export. Imports from Mexico announced amounted to $12,600.

Dollars stiffened noticeably against European gold currencies today, reflecting the continued growth of confidence abroad in Uncle Sam's ability to straighten out his fiscal problems now that the tax bill has become law.

French francs sagged 5-16 of a point net to 3.94 9-16, at which level further gold shipments would hardly be profitable. Dutch guilders dipped 3½ points to 40.52½, or virtually their current outgoing gold mark. Swiss francs and the belga also eased, the latter going under their gold quotation.

There was a wider decline in the British pound. Sterling cables lost 2¼ cents net, finishing at $3.66⅝. Canadian dollars were heavy.

Dollar Rises in Paris.

PARIS, June 7.—(AP)—For the first time in two weeks the American dollar showed improvement on the foreign exchange market today. The quotation was 25.3275 as against 25.3250, the level at which it had stood since May 25. The improvement was attributed to the action of the United States congress in voting the tax bill.

CHICAGO GROUP GETS PITTSBURGH ISSUE OF $300,000

The city of Pittsburgh has sold $300,000 one to fifteen year 3¾ per cent bonds to the Central Republic company and Halsey, Stuart & Co. at their bid of $306,120. There were eight other bidders, all of whom submitted a premium bid.

The Pacific Gas and Electric company announces that an issue of $676,000 five per cent bonds of the United Gas and Electric company, a subsidiary, will be paid off on July 1, the maturity date. The company also stated that it has no important issues maturing during the next five years, the aggregate of the six underlying mortgages which expire prior to July, 1937, including the United Gas and Electric 5's to be paid off next month, being only $3,955,000. The company paid off on June 1, all but $336,000 par value of the first mortgage bonds of the Northern California Power company.

Funds for the payment of interest due June 1, 1932, on the Bloomington Limestone company fifteen year 6 per cent sinking fund bonds, series A, has been deposited with the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, as trustee, acording to W. M. Wilms, chairman of the board.

PEOPLES GAS, EDISON STOCK BOTH DECLINE

Stocks of the Insull operating companies slumped on the Chicago exchange yesterday in common with other classes of securities. No important volume of selling came into the market in the Insull securities, but the gains which were recorded Monday were materially reduced.

Commonwealth Edison, which had experienced a sharp run-up Monday in anticipation of the change in management, reacted yesterday. On transaction on 3,500 shares, the stock dropped over 5 points, to close a fraction under 56.

The no par stock of Public Service of Northern Illinois gave up 3½ points on sales of 1,000 shares. In New York, Peoples Gas sold down to 53½.

Other securities also were lower on the exchange yesterday. Losses ranged from a fraction to two points. Quaker Oats common was quoted 2 points under its previous price on light sales.

A conspicuous strong spot in the list was the preferred stock of Central Illinois Public Service company. Declaration yesterday of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share cleared up all doubts which had been entertained on that score. The issue recently sold as low as 15 and was quoted yesterday at 32, a net gain of 4½ from the previous sale.

BRAZIL'S COFFEE ARRIVES; TRADED FOR U. S. WHEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 7.—With the arrival of 38,200 bags of coffee now afloat, the total of 1,275,000 bags, bartered by the Brazilian government for 25 million bushels of wheat of the Grain Stabilization corporation, will have arrived in New York.

Although the barter was 1,050,000 bags of coffee for the 25 million bushels of wheat, the Brazilian government agreed to ship to the Bush Terminal company an additional 225,000 bags of coffee to cover freight, storage, insurance costs, and other charges.

In accordance with the terms of the barter, none of the coffee consigned to the Grain Stabilization corporation will be sold before Sept. 1, 1932, and then in amounts not in excess of 62,500 bags a month on the cumulative basis. Under the terms of the agreement the share of the Bush Terminal company can be liquidated at the rate of 10,000 bags a month, starting Sept. 1, 1931.

RAILWAY UNIONS SHOW LOSSES IN DUES PAID

Data on Workers Provide Key.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—The twenty-one railway unions, with a million workers on their membership rolls, are reported to be facing the severest financial crisis in the history of union labor.

Members of the railway labor executives' association, now in Washington to lobby for the six hour day, although refusing to be quoted on the predicament of their organizations, admitted privately that all the railroad unions have been hard hit. They discounted rumors of impending bankruptcy as communist propaganda.

Finances of the railroad unions in the main are a closely guarded secret. Union members are given information on the condition of their treasuries only at biennial conventions and the data supplied then is said to be meager.

Dues Suffer Big Loss.

Railroad employment statistics, as compiled by the interstate commerce commission, reveal indirectly, however, the present deflation of the railroad unions and their treasuries.

Following the axiom that a worker ceases to pay union dues when he ceases to draw wages, it becomes evident from the statistics that union revenues from dues have shrunk at least forty per cent. In addition it is known that some of the unions, particularly the brotherhood of locomotive engineers, have suffered terrific losses on investments.

Disregarding the period of wartime inflation under federal control, the peak of railroad employment was attained in 1926. Then, according to the commerce commission, there were 1,805,780 employés on the pay rolls of the class one roads. The latest compilation, as of last March, shows a shrinkage to 1,095,541 employés.

In compiling these reports the carriers are not required to make a distinction between union and nonunion employés. They are required, however, to split up the pay roll lists into various classes, a study of which indicates that the toilers affiliated with the unions have suffered worse from layoffs than have the executive and professional groups.

Some Comparative Figures.

A table comparing railroad employment by classes in 1926 and 1932 shows the trend. The figures follow:

Class	1926.	1932.
Executives, officials, etc	16,848	14,270
Professional, clerical, etc	285,339	197,043
Maintenance of way	418,168	210,007

Rails Lead in Bond Mart; Utilities Steady

New York, June 7.—(AP)—The continued strength of railway obligations today added another fractional gain to the bond market average, although there were conflicting trends apparent in the various classes of senior securities. The utilities finished about even and the industrials were fractionally under yesterday's close.

Railroad bonds received the greatest attention. Gains in this group ranged from fractions to 8 points, the latter mark being recorded by Wabash second 5s. Erratic tendencies were displayed by numerous issues. Baltimore and Ohio 4½s of 1933 advanced 3½ points, while the same road's 4½s of 1960 lost 1¾; Canadian Pacific 5s of 1944 were off 5½ and the 5s of 1954 gained 1½; Burlington 4½s lost 7¼ and the 4s were up 2½; St. Paul general 4s gained 2 and the 5s lost 1½; Great Northern 5½s were off 4½ and the 4½s advanced 1¼; Illinois Central 5s gained 5 and the collateral 4s of 1952 dropped 4½.

How Other Groups Acted.

Firmness was shown by loans of American Telephone, Armour & Co., Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Humble Oil, Kansas Gas, North American, Otis Steel, Paramount-Publix, and Western Union.

Chilean bonds, under pressure yesterday following the political upheaval in the South American country, exhibited rallying tendencies. Chile Copper 5s regained half a point, Lautaro Nitrate 6s were up ¼, and Chile Mortgage Bank 6¾s came back 3¼ points. Finland 7s advanced 6⅞ and some of the Japanese loans recovered modestly. The Germans firmed and bonds of Great Britain and France eased.

United States government issues were steady despite some nervousness caused by the fear that the Garner relief bill might result in the issuance of more long term federal bonds.

Curb Market Weak.

The New York Curb market was again inclined to rest from the efforts of last week's rally and moderate declines were the rule in the more active issues. The volume of trading slackened further, however, as stock was not pressed for sale in any important volume.

In the utilities Commonwealth Edison, a strong feature yesterday, reacted 4⅝ points. American Gas and Electric lost 2 points, then recovered partially. Electric Bond and Share lost a fraction. United Light and Power rose about a point.

In the oils Standard of Indiana ran into further selling, reacting about a point. Gulf and Kentucky were off ⅛. Some of the coppers also sagged. Newmont, a firm spot recently, lost ⅝ of a point, and Hudson Bay appeared at 1½, off ¼. United Verde was steady.

Industrials were mixed. Mergenthaler appeared for the second time this year, trading at 21, off 11 points from the previous transaction. Tubize Chatillon A sold at 1, off 1¼. The company announced a price reduction last week. National Dairy preferred A traded at 88, up 6¾.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 7.—The stock market slid slowly downward today in apathetic trading. The losses were not great, except in isolated instances. There were several reasons for optimism, but the traders preferred to "sell on good news."

The market started bravely enough after the traders had digested the morning's news. That included the signing of the tax bill by the President, the Rockefeller advocacy of repeal of the prohibition law, and other favorable happenings. After the first hour, however, the traders settled down to await congressional action on unemployment relief or whatever it is that the market is waiting to have settled. The day's business netted only 900,000 shares, about 500,000 less than the same day last week.

Distillers' Stock Bought.

The Rockefeller statement resulted in heavy buying in National Distillers Products and that stock gained half a point on the day. United States Industrial Alcohol, however, lost a point.

The first unsettling break was in Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit shares, which dropped three points soon after the opening. This stock led the decline throughout the session, closing with a net loss of three points.

Motor shares were inclined to softness, registering small losses. The news in that section included rumors that Auburn intended entering the low price field and further reports on an increasing Ford output.

Oil Group Fairly Strong.

The oil group did fairly well throughout most of the session, with Standard Oils proving the exception and being fractionally off at the close. The rails were helped in the afternoon by more favorable statistical reports, but did not gain back all their losses. Delaware and Hudson was strong during the morning, but dropped back in the late trading for a net loss of 2 points. New York Central was off 1½; Pennsylvania lost a half point, and Southern Pacific, 1½ points.

Leading public utility issues slid downward one to two points. The

TELLS HOW TO DODGE USUAL REFINANCE WOES

Arthur Wirtz Talks to Skyscraper Men.

Proper analysis of the economic conditions which are causing defaults, foreclosure proceedings and receiverships would make it possible for a building owner or manager to reorganize the indebtedness on the property equitably for all concerned and prevent foreclosures.

So Arthur M. Wirtz of Wirtz, Hubert & Little, Chicago realty firm, yesterday told delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers at the Drake hotel.

"Building owners and managers are facing a new economic problem because of the diminishing general price level and increasing taxes," said Mr. Wirtz. "The lowering of the general price level and the raising of taxes endangers even well financed and well managed buildings, with the result that there are defaults, foreclosure proceedings are started, and receivers appointed unless a reorganization plan is formulated which will prevent a default.

"The real solution of the problem lies in foreseeing a pending default sufficiently in advance to formulate a reorganization and prevent a foreclosure, and in working out reorganization plans for properties now in foreclosure and securing the dismissal of receivers."

3000 Sheridan Road.

Mr. Wirtz then outlined the history of the reorganization of the eighteen story cooperative apartments at 3000 Sheridan road, where his firm successfully readjusted the mortgage debt, avoiding foreclosure and assuring continued income to the bondholders. This was a $1,660,000 bond issue.

On Jan. 1, 1931, it was apparent, he said, that the mortgage would go into default on Jan. 15. In addition to this default, the rental value of the apartments had decreased, and the income from the entire building was not up to its requirements.

"Prior to this time, when a building faced these conditions, the mortgage was usually foreclosed, a receiver appointed, and a bondholders' committee formed to work out a plan of reorganization," said Mr. Wirtz. "This procedure meant that the property would stay in receivership for at least two years, during which time the income from the property would be kept intact by the receiver, with no disbursements to the bondholders.

Reorganization Necessary.

"The property under receivership, undoubtedly, would produce a smaller income than it had been producing in the past. This property, under our management for the last three years, has enjoyed an occupancy varying from 97 to 100 per cent. Under a receivership, it would have been impossible for any receiver or agent to maintain this occupancy and the fine character of the building.

"From an analysis of the operating statements during the period of our management, it was easily determined that a reorganization was necessary. By reducing our interest rate on the entire bond issue from 6½ to 4½ per cent, we could cure the default and avoid receivership. It was necessary, in order to accomplish this reduction of interest, to receive the consent of all the bondholders, which was done.

"Under the terms of the reorganization plan, the interest rate was reduced to 4½ per cent, the final maturity of all bonds extended to 1946 and all income over and above interest requirements is to be used for retiring bonds."

Suggests Income Bonds.

Mr. Wirtz said this same plan was used in reorganizing the $2,500,000 bond issue on the 2440 Lake View Avenue building and on several smaller issues ranging in size from $50,000 up. He added that if he were creating these plans today he would suggest making the interest rate flexible by using income bonds, thus assuring no future defaults.

He also points out that a 4½ per cent return at the present time is almost the equivalent in purchasing power to 6½ per cent at the time the bonds were bought.

The second day of the convention ended with a visit to the Century of Progress exposition and a special showing at the Adler planetarium.

STOCKS LOWER, TRADING LIGHT IN WALL STREET

Rockefeller Talk Aids Some Shares.

amusement shares were firm as were copper stocks.

Wall street was inclined to take the resignation of Charles G. Dawes from the Finance Reconstruction corporation as a bearish development, but it caused little concern. The street believes there may be more behind the resignation than appeared on the surface, but appears to be more curious than apprehensive.

Investment Market Quiet.

There were no signs anywhere in the list of buying by the so-called "bond pool," the investment market being even quieter than it was the day before.

United States Steel lost a point in the day's trading and it was taken for granted that the steel corporation will report on Friday a further decrease in its unfilled orders. The report will give the total as of the end of May and another decline will bring the total of successive monthly losses to fourteen, which sets up a new record for the corporation.

Money markets were easier, with the call rate declining to one per cent on heavy offerings and light takings. Federal funds dropped to a quarter of one per cent and it began to look as if doubt over the budget and bonus had passed. Confidence in the dollar appears to have been strengthened and French francs reached the price where it is almost profitable to ship gold to France. Other European currencies were easier and some of the bankers expressed opinions that the outward flow of gold to other parts of the continent would be halted.

DEFICIENCY IN STEEL OUTPUT 59 MILLION TONS?

Cleveland, O., June 7.—(AP)—An accumulated deficiency in steel production since 1930 of 59,026,040 gross tons, representing tonnage below statistical normal, was noted today by the Magazine Steel in a review of the industry.

This deficiency, the magazine said, would require twelve and a half months of steel making at the rate of production in 1929 to make up. The computation is predicated on the trend of consumption since 1896 and based on official production statistics, as indicated by Leonard Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company.

The magazine said the trend line gauged an output of 55,900,000 tons as normal for 1929, while production that year was actually 56,433,473 tons.

COTTON PRICES ERRATIC

American cotton markets responded to firmness in Liverpool and opened at gains of 4@9 points, New York leading. Prices fluctuated nervously within a narrow range, losing the early gain on publication of a favorable weather map and forecast for the cotton belt and owing to the growing impression that cotton acreage reduction will not exceed 7 per cent.

The close at Chicago was unchanged to 8 points net higher, New York, 2@5 points higher, and New Orleans 3@6 points higher, the other markets giving a good account of themselves in the face of the weakness in stocks and grains.

The New Orleans spot market advanced 5 points to 5.15c, while New York was unchanged at 5.20c, with Houston 5.10c and Galveston 5.15c. Prices follow:

BEARISH FEELING RULES IN WHEAT PIT; PRICES DIP

Crop Reports Are Better; Rains Reported.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish sentiment continues to predominate in the wheat market, and, while fair strength was shown early, scattered liquidation and local pressure developed later, with prices dropping 1⅜@1⅝c from the best figures of the day. September and December sold down to a new low for the season, while the July touched 51¼c, a new low on the current movement and since Oct. 3.

Selling of wheat futures here against purchases at Winnipeg by spreaders helped to depress the local market and strengthen the Canadian. The matter was also helped by buying brokers with seaboard connections, presumably against further export sales of Manitobas. At no time, however, was there any pronounced activity on the buying side here and the finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of ⅞@1c. July closed at 51⅝@51½c, September at 55⅝@55¾c, and December at 56½@56⅝c.

Better Crop Reports.

There has been a noticeable letup in the pessimistic crop comments on winter wheat in the last few days, and in some quarters the belief prevails that the government report to be issued tomorrow may show above trade expectations due to the rain which fell between the time the private crop data were compiled and June 1. The Kansas weekly report, however, said the additional moisture of late had simply checked deterioration in the western part of that state. The crop is ripening in the more advanced sections.

Further rains were shown in the American and Canadian northwest and the trade is commencing to look forward to relatively high condition figures to be shown in the government report tomorrow. The dominion government telegraphic crop report said prospects in Alberta were excellent and in Saskatchewan and Manitoba good. The latter report was not received until some time after the close of the market.

Export Sales Large.

A tremendous export business has been done in Manitoba wheats during the last few days, according to seaboard reports, estimates indicating as high as 10,000,000 bu having been sold. Yesterday's sales aggregated 750,000 bu, and it was known that 200,000 bu hard winter were sold during the day. Removal of hedges against export sales had some effect on Winnipeg, which closed ⅛@¼c higher, with July closing at 56¼c in Canadian funds. At the last nearby delivery at Winnipeg was 4⅞c over Chicago compared with 5⅛c over on June 2. Liverpool reported liquidation under way early, but a rally came toward the last and the close was unchanged to ⅝c per bu higher, with July 55⅝c.

Despite the extremely erratic price changes in wheat, which have occurred of late, there has been relatively little change in the spread between the July delivery in Chicago and Liverpool. During the last week the difference has ranged from 2⅜ to 3⅝c, and was 3c at the time the English market closed yesterday.

Official announcement was made that the Canadian wheat bonus payment of 5c per bu to farmers had been extended to June 30, although the actual issuance of the order in council may not occur for several days.

There is no shortage in supplies of old wheat in the United States at the present time. Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician, estimates farm and mill and elevator stocks on June 1 at 150,000,000 bu, compared with 95,000,000 bu a year ago. These figures, with the commercial stocks and the amount of American wheat held at Canadian points, show a total at the present time of 343,000,000 bu, or 30,000,000 bu in excess of last year.

Corn Shows Strength.

At no time did the corn market show an easy undertone, failing to get more than a fraction under Monday's finish, advancing toward the last to the best figures of the day. It closed with net gains of ¼@½c. July was 28⅞c, September 31¼c, and December 32½c at the last. Reports of a better shipping demand with sales of 175,000 bu had some effect on sentiment. The upturn was checked by selling against offers. Crop and weather reports remained favorable.

December oats sold at a new low on the crop yesterday, but there was less pressure on the market than of late and short covering held the market within a range of ⅝c. The finish was easy with wheat, with net losses of ⅛@½c, with July leading. The latter was 20¾c at the last, with September 20½c and December 21⅞c.

Little interest is being taken in the rye market at the present time. There were reports of a fair amount of Canadian being sold for export. The finish was ⅛@¼c higher, with July 31¼c, September 33⅝c, and December 37⅛c at the close.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firm today and while spot prices remained unchanged at 2.62c refiners showed continued interest at this level. The sales reported included about 45,000 bags of Porto Rican concluded late yesterday at 2.62c to refiners and today 54,000 bags of Philippines for June-July shipment at 2.70c to operators. The only other business was 5,000 tons of Cuban for June shipment from Cuba to the United Kingdom at 4s 7½d, equal to about .064½c, f. o. b. Cuba. The continued firmness of the spot market and rumors that part of the Cuban export quota for the United States under the Chadbourne plan may be segregated, had a strengthening effect in the futures market with final prices showing net advances of 3@5 points. Approximate sales, 22,000 tons. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 7,000.

Live stock markets were slightly mixed yesterday, but averages for the day were higher in most classes. Cattle retained Monday's gains on light receipts and hogs moved up another notch. Lambs featured the early trade in a sharp rise, the new crop going up to $7.75, which is $1.75 above the low time less than three weeks ago. However, the 25@35c additional gain in lambs was erased later. Supplies are running smallest in three months. Yesterday's aggregate total of cattle, hogs, and sheep at Chicago at 32,000 was the smallest for Tuesday since the middle of last March.

Hogs found the going a little stickier after the first show of strength yesterday, and despite the mild pace set early in the day the market seemed unable to muster enough strength to keep on. Trading turned rather groggy near the close of the session. Light weights were the first to exhibit weakness, but with supplies short, sellers managed to stave off a reaction in the last few rounds of trading and the market was virtually "saved by the bell."

Medium weights and heavy stock got the best support and finished in line with earlier selling. Most droves of 250@300 lb averages showed 5c gain for the day. The general average hog price at $3.30 was up 5c, but the top for the day at $3.60 was steady.

Making Some Money.

According to feeders marketing cattle lately, steers at the present level of prices are making a little money. Prices are 50@75c above the low spot in May and some classes are selling as much as $1.00 higher. During the first two days of this week 35 per cent of the steer sales reported were made at $7.00 and above. Three weeks ago only 20 per cent sold at $7.00 and above.

Many of the cattle selling lately at $7.00@7.60 cost $5.75@6.25 as feeders last fall. Top steers yesterday reached $7.65, two carloads averaging 1,157@1,341 lbs going to Swift at that figure. Yearlings averaging 1,073 lbs brought $7.50. In an effort to hold down costs some houses converged their buying orders in the lower priced stock, resulting in good action in steers selling at $6.00 and below.

Only a very small proportion of offerings were sold below $5.50. Butcher stock showed little change. Yearling heifers were plentiful. About 600 head averaging 553@853 lbs sold at $6.25@6.65, almost 200 reaching the outside figure. Calves were strong. Only a few stocker and feeder cattle were available.

Lamb Supply Dwindles.

Sheep receipts yesterday at 3,000 were smallest for Tuesday since last July. Almost half of this small supply was billed direct to packers from other points. Smaller buyers became anxious and dipped into the new crop on a 25@35c higher basis right after the start, paying upwards to $7.50@7.75. Larger houses waited until the the market quieted down and then took the rank and file at $6.50@7.35, or about steady. Last year's crop, now called yearlings in the trade, sold steady at $5.50@5.75.

BUTTER PRICES HIGHER

A stronger tone prevailed in butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, light buying carrying prices up ½@¾c. Egg futures were up ¼c. Weekly storage reports in butter were somewhat more bullish than expected, but the daily returns were bearish, the four markets reporting 260,000 lbs more in than last year. Short covering and scattered new buying brought the gain. Egg news was mixed, the four markets storing 6,000 cases less than last year, but Chicago receipts proving heavier. Buying was active early, but died out near the close. Sales: Butter, 18 cars; eggs, 43 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 4 cars. Prices follow:

HIDE FUTURES

More interest was taken in the market on the New York Hide exchange with sales of 1,440,000 lbs with the finish unchanged to 10 points lower. Closing bids: Old contracts, June, 3.65c; September, 4.05c; December, 4.65c; March, 5.10c; new contracts, June, 3.65c; September, 3.95c; December, 4.65c; March, 5.10c.

CASH HOUSES BUY LARD

Lard was bought mainly by cash houses and shorts and prices advanced and closed with net gains of 5 to 7½c the latter on January. A better outside business was said to be the basis for the buying. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d lower. Export clearances were 834,855 lbs of lard and 9,000 lbs of bacon. Bellies were unchanged. Cash business was said to be lighter with regular, $3.72½; loose, $3.02½, and leaf, $2.00. Short ribs were $4.25 and bellies $4.12½. Hogs were strong to 10c higher with arrivals at western points liberal. Prices follow:
